SS PERKINS REBUFFED PLEA FOR MINE WORK

Formed By Northern Operators They Cannot Resume Production

(By Associated Press)
President Roosevelt and his secretary intervened respectively yesterday in labor relations problems of the shipbuilding and coal mining industries, both vital to national defense.

Miss Perkins was rebuffed in a request for resumption of soft coal production from Northern mines next Monday. There was no immediate action to Mr. Roosevelt's move.

The chief executive, at his Hyde Park, N. Y., home, urged Pacific shipyard managers and workers to ratify a coastwide master contract wages. Such an agreement would be effective for the duration of the national emergency.

Through a secretary, Mr. Roosevelt stated that adoption of the plan—a proposal of the office of production management—would result in speeding up of the whole shipbuilding program and a precedent for eastern yards.

The secretary, William D. Hassett, stated that a tentative agreement had been reached, but that "a minority group in Seattle is attempting to block ratification."

Miss Perkins appealed in the name of national defense for an end to the situation which has kept 400,000 soft coal miners idle while stocks of coal needed for defense industries are depleting.

She asked northern operators and
C. I. O. United Mine Workers of America—the two had come to a wage understanding in New York conference—to resume production in northwestern mines by next Tuesday. At the

LOODS, STORMS CLAIM 8 LIVES

Polin, Mo., Threatened With Water Famine After Overflows

(By Associated Press)
Eight persons were dead, one town partly of others were evacuated yesterday in Missouri.
Four persons drowned in Missouri and two in Arkansas and two others killed when a tornado struck Springfield, Mo. In the western part of Oklahoma, Cache also was by a tornado which damaged more than a dozen homes and leveled a number of yards.

Evacuation of Gagnell, Mo., a town 500, below the lake of the Ozarks was ordered when all 12 gates of the flood were opened.

The floods were caused by the overflowing of scores of small streams in northwestern Missouri, northwestern Arkansas and northeastern Oklahoma.
All and highway transportation was interrupted, business buildings were damaged in several towns and farm buildings were marooned.

A snowstorm bringing eight inches of snow blown by 40-mile-an-hour winds blocked some western Nebraska roads and disrupted communication in this area, while Syracuse, in western Kansas, also reported an eight-inch snowfall.

ASTROP PAPER MILL MAN FATALLY HURT

ASTROP, La., April 19.—(Special) George Euing "Chink" Hughes, 36-year-old Astrop paper mill employe, was fatally injured about 2 p.m. Saturday when he was accidentally killed by a pulp mill machine he was operating.
The young man, a native of Tennessee but a resident of Astrop for years, was found on the floor under his machine about 2 o'clock Saturday after an hour later of a crushed chest and abdominal injuries. It was reported that there were no witnesses to the accident. He had been employed at the Southern Kraft paper mill here for several years.
Funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the First Baptist church here, and interment will follow in the Christ church cemetry with Robinson Funeral home of charge.
Mr. Hughes is survived by his wife, mother, Mrs. G. H. Hughes; a stepdaughter, Ernie Jean Culp; a brother, D. Hughes and two sisters, Mrs. W.
Parrott and Mrs. J. L. Whitaker,

Sharp Raise In Rate On Income Tax Is Proposed

WASHINGTON, April 19.—(P)—Talk of an 8 per cent basic income tax rate coupled with a general sales levy developed in congress today as the house ways and means committee arranged to start consideration of new revenue legislation Monday.

The treasury has fixed $3,500,000,000 as the amount of new money to be raised in the forthcoming tax bill, and congressional authorities generally agreed that this would mean sharply increased burdens on all groups of taxpayers.

The basic income tax is now 4 per cent but taxpayers, after figuring their tax by the normal method, must add 10 per cent as a special defense levy.
Thus the rate becomes in actuality 44 per cent.

Several legislators reported that an increase to 8 per cent—but without the extra 10 per cent added to tax bills—was under consideration. Another proposal was said to involve raising the basic tax to 6 per cent and increasing surtaxes sharply. Surtaxes now start at 4 per cent on net incomes in excess of $4,000.

Senator Clark, Democrat, Idaho, suggested that the tax rate should be

SUIT TO BLOCK OVERPASS FILED

Number Of Firms Seek To Prevent Palace Passage-way Over Street

A petition for an injunction to prevent the city council from approving an ordinance to permit The Palace to construct an overpass over Harrison street was filed with Judge David I. Garrett yesterday, and Judge Garrett ordered members of the commission council to appear in court next Wednesday to defend the action.

The petition was filed by the Durrett Hardware and Furniture company, Millsaps Realty company, Hotel Frances, Central Savings Bank and Trust company, John S. Hunt, Carl
H. McHenry and Otis E. Hodges.

The Palace is building an annex immediately behind its store on Harrison street and plans call for an overpass over the street that will connect the second floor of its main store with the annex. Construction of the annex already has started.

An ordinance permitting the construction of the overpass was introduced at the regular meeting of the city council at its last meeting but action was deferred. The petition alleges that members of the council have stated that it is their intention to approve the ordinance.

Among other allegations, the petition says the overpass would extend fifty feet above and across Harrison street.

2. The passageway or viaduct will be "solely and only for the purpose of serving the private interest of the Masurs."

3. Petitioners and other parties organizations have vigorously opposed verbally and in writing to the City of Monroe and to H. H. Benoit, mayor; W. D. H. Rodriguez, commissioner of finance and public utilities, and C. R. Tidwell, commissioner of streets and parks.

4. "The said members of the commission council have stated that they have obligated themselves to the Masurs to pass said ordinance, and have so advised your petitioners in writing, as shown by letter attached hereto."

5. "That the city has limited powers and only such as are granted by laws of Louisiana, and said city does not have the right, authority, or power to alienate or grant any portion or part of any street for private use."

The petition further asserts that "such alienation, transfer or grant of public property for private use" is illegal because the city has no such authority; that the constitution of the

WOMACK-HENRY JURY UNAGREED

Locked Up For Night After Failing For Six Hours To Reach Verdict

The jury in the trial of Charles M.
Womack and John Hugh Henry, charged with violating the national banking statutes, failed to reach a decision late last night after nearly six hours of deliberation.

The jury was locked up at 11 o'clock last night.

On closing its case in federal court yesterday afternoon before Judge Gaston L. Porter, another motion of the defense for a directed verdict was again overruled, and the jury was instructed to return a verdict.

Both Henry and Womack took the stand during the day, as did two character witnesses who were called to attest to the good name of Womack.

Declaring he had been president of The People's Bank of Chatham for 10 years and that he was connected with it since its establishment, Womack said he had no motive of defrauding either the bank or the United Gas company when he failed to set aside the sum of $2,000 after certifying a check for that amount to United Gas for their services on oil well operations.

He told the court that the certified check and draft "slipped his mind" in his report to the federal and state banking agencies, because he did not consider them outstanding. He said he intended to make them good.

Asserting his actions did not alter any records of the bank, Womack said he did not use the funds of the bank, nor falsify any records with the intention of defrauding anyone.
The defendant also told the court that he discussed the bank's condition with the state banking commissioner before resigning as president.

Henry, the other defendant, on the witness stand declared that he was

'Civilian Defense' Ready For Roosevelt To Sign

Task Will Be To Deal With Changes In United States
Occasioned By War

WASHINGTON, April 19.—(P)—Officials said today that an executive order establishing a "civilian defense" agency is ready for President Roosevelt's signature. Its task would be to deal with the changes in every day American life occasioned by the war abroad and the defense program here.

It is expected to look after such things as air raid precautions, civilian morale, recreational facilities in the event of military camps, and to coordinate efforts of states and municipalities in connection with the defense program.

The armament effort already has made its impact felt in the daily lives of almost all Americans. Here are some of the things that have happened to change the way of living.

1. About 1,000,000 men have left their homes to go to army camps under

MONROE MAY USE DAYLIGHT SAVING

Retail Merchants Want Expression Of Opinion On Earlier Time

Monroe may observe daylight saving time this year.

Several merchants who are members of the Retail Merchants division of the Chamber of Commerce, yesterday asked that a consensus of opinion be obtained to determine whether or not the citizens of northeast Louisiana wish to observe the daylight saving time hours that are in effect in many other parts of the nation, according to David I. Silverstein, chairman of the Retail Merchants division.

"A number of merchants are in favor of observing daylight saving time," Mr.
Silverstein said. "I talked with Mayor Harvey Benoit Saturday and he assured me that the city council would cooperate with us, if it is found that a majority of our citizens wish to observe these hours."

Mr. Silverstein said his committee wished to accommodate a majority of persons residing in the Monroe trade territory, and urged an expression from northeast Louisiana residents. He asked that persons residing in this territory express their views in letters to the Retail Merchants division or to the News-Star-World.

Daylight saving time begins in many cities and towns throughout the nation next Saturday night.

RUSSIA THINKS PACT WITH JAPS BLOW TO U. S.

Soviet Says America And Britain Sought To Force It Into War

ASSERTS TREATY IS NOT DIRECTED AGAINST NAZIS

Discloses, However, Kremlin Rejected Bid To Become Axis Partner

MOSCOW, April 19.—(P)—The Soviet Union through the newspaper Pravda, official mouthpiece of the Communist party, bluntly described the new Soviet-Japanese neutrality pact today as a bewildering blow to the plans of United States and British interests whom it accused of conspiring to draw Russia into war against Japan or Germany.

Declaring that the pact had been under consideration for 10 years, Pravda said it was not directed against Germany and at the same time disclosed, without elaboration, that the Kremlin last November refused a bid to become an Axis partner.

Calling the Japanese-Russian agreement an instrument of peace which "creates a solid foundation for development of friendly relations between the two states," the Communist organ added:

"This obvious fact did not suit the taste of those foreign political circles which are striving not to limit but to extend the atmosphere of war and above all, to draw the Soviet Union into the orbit of war."

"In the American press there appeared even an official statement emanating from the state department that the significance of this pact is somewhat exaggerated; it merely formulates on paper relations which lately have existed between these countries."

"However, the attempt to belittle the importance of the Soviet-Japanese pact suffers a fiasco. The nerves of certain Anglo-American commentators are giving way."

Pravda asserted that both British and American newspapers have begun to display "unexpected solicitude" for the interests of the two signatories, adding that "discussion is growing on the subject of who benefits more from the pact—the U. S. S. R. or Japan."

"All arguments of the British and American press," it went on, "lead one to conclude that, irrespective of the extent to which the pact benefits Japan or the U. S. S. R., it disturbed the plans of London and Washington politicians."

NOE LEADER LOSES PLACE WITH STATE

NEW ORLEANS, April 19.—(P)—A.
P. Harvey, state labor commissioner, announced today that Ed W. Burns, 17th ward leader of the Noe organization here, had been dismissed from office for "using abusive language" in a personal attack on Governor Sam Jones.

The dismissal caused further repercussions in the distribution of patronage to political followers of former Governor James A. Noe as a reward for Noe's support of Jones last year in the defeat of Governor Earl K.
Long.

Asked about the dismissal, David W.
McNeill, Noe city leader, said: "I haven't had time to study the matter yet but it will be taken up with Noe."

Noe, now in Washington, has declared that he would keep his political organization independent.

Rent On Houses Jumps From $10 To $50 Monthly

By W. B. Ragsdale
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

WASHINGTON, April 19.—(P)—(The Special News Service)—. . . Houses that were renting for ten and fifteen dollars per month have gone to fifty and sixty per month. Are that the way to win this war?

"Members of our . . . staff and many hundreds of workers have suffered greatly from sudden and un-justifiably high rents in Louisiana where national defense construction is going on."

"There have been numbers of cases in which tenants of rent houses were forced to move into the streets with all available housing facilities already occupied. They had no place to go. Houses which formerly rented for $30 a month are now raised to $60 or $70 a month."

Here in Pittsburgh the last two months, the rents have gone so high that it is terrible.

Rent has gone up highway robbery: $10 a week for a dingy room and $200 a month for an apartment.
Do you think a poor working man can afford that? The house owners are making hay while the sun shines.

"This rent business down here is too much profiteering. . . . Houses that rented for $20 are up to $65 so I would not take this up with local

Preston Fergus will preside in place of Mrs. Fergus, who is president.
Others officiating during the program will be H. R. Hodges, first vice-president; J. M. Drueet, second vice-president; W. E. Sandel, treasurer; C. C.
Rainwater, secretary, and Olan Black, program chairman. All will assume the offices occupied by their wives.

A. J. Maricella has been designated as acting principal for the night to succeed Miss Myrtle Rodgers. There will be no business discussed and the full hour will be devoted to Dr. Hyneman's address.

The following clubs are participating in sponsoring Dr. Hyneman's address in their public affairs program:
Altruism club, Miss Bernice Mc-Coy, chairman, international relations committee; Miss Myrtle Rodgers, American Association of University Women; Miss Mamie McNeill, Business and Professional Women's club; Mrs. W. A. Whitfield, Jr., Current Literature club; H. F. Madison, Monroe Kiwanis club; Judge Jesse Heard, West Monroe Kiwanis club; Willis
Anders, Lions club; Mrs. W. M. Har-

Baucomville Pupils To See 'Pen Pals' In Kansas City

Correspondence Pays Dividends For Two Fourth Grade Students

Correspondence doesn't usually pay dividends, but it did for two fourth grade pupils of the Lenwil school at Baucomville who are making preparations to visit their "pen pals" in far-off Kansas City, Mo., the latter part of the week.

Accompanied by their teacher, Miss Jeannie North, the two nine-year-old pupils, Billie Sue Rawls, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. J. Rawls of Baucomville, and Audrey Sue Dowdy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Dowdy, of near Baucomville, will begin their unusual journey from Monroe at 3 a. m. Thursday for Shreveport, where they will catch a fast train for Kansas City.

The entire fourth grade class of Allen school at Kansas City will be at the station to meet the three when they arrive at 7:35 p. m. Thursday, and it will be one round of activity after another for the local trio until they return home next Monday.

It all began last September when Miss North was visiting relatives at Poplarville, Miss. She saw an acquaintance there who thought it would be nice if she and her fourth grade children would correspond with So Miss North wrote to Miss Merle Alexander, fourth grade teacher at Allen school, and the correspondence between the two classes began.

Pupils of both classes exchanged articles of work being done by both classes, exchanged Christmas baskets, and Valentine gifts.

In February, Mary Lou Walden, Frank Douglas, Jr., and Frank Deck, all nine-year-old students of Allen school, suggested to their teacher that the class invite a pupil from the Baucomville school to visit them in Kansas City.

There was $6.50 in their class treasury, and by purchasing from the dairies milk which they delivered to their friends for a penny a bottle more than what they paid for it, by selling cost hangers, old newspapers, and magazines they increased the treasury to the amount needed to buy a round trip ticket for one pupil from Lenwil school.

More correspondence followed, and when it was decided that two pupils and the teacher would make the trip, the round trip ticket was split among the two children.

Each grade of the Kansas City school will entertain the trio from Baucomville next Friday, and Miss Alexander has planned for her school children to speak on the interesting points of the city. The pupils will conduct their guests on a sightseeing tour.

Miss North and her two enthusiastic students are busy making preparations for the trip. They are going to take their friends whom they have never seen a bird book with drawings and descriptions of typical Louisiana birds, a rattlesnake preserved in alcohol, and, by request, a southern cook book.

CONTRACT AWARDED FOR ELECTRIC CHAIR

BATON ROUGE, La., April 19.—(P)—The contract for the state's new portable electric chair has been awarded to the Service Machine and Iron Works, Inc., New Orleans, at $4,088.79 according to State Finance Director Martin Close.

The concern was awarded the contract because its bid was low among the bidders promising delivery of the death instrument by June 1—the day electrocution will replace hanging as the method for carrying out the death penalty in Louisiana.

The chair, to be mounted on a truck, will be stationed at the Louisiana penitentiary at Angola where it will be maintained and driven to parish courthouses where executions are scheduled.

FURNACE DEATH DETAILS SOUGHT

58-Year-Old Janitor Admits Incineration Of Pretty Young Woman

AKRON, Ohio, April 19.—(P)—Police tonight pressed a 58-year-old church janitor for details of a scuffle which preceded incineration of pretty Ruth Zwicker's body, meantime linking him with a second woman's death and with the investigation into the killing of still another.

Detective Inspector Verne Cross announced today that Janitor Albert B. Lukens had confessed stuffing the body of the 23-year-old brunette into a roaring furnace at North Hill Methodist church Easter morning after she refused him a kiss. Cross said he was not satisfied fully with Lukens' story and would continue questioning him over the week-end.

Lukens' story, as announced by the inspector, was this: He scuffled with the young music teacher the morning before Easter when he asked her for a kiss and she declined. Her head struck the church piano at which she had been practicing. After going to lunch, Lukens dragged her to a coal bin. Her body was warm, but he did not know whether she was alive.

Easter morning, 20 hours later, he found her head and dress were bloody. He built a fire and jammed the body into the boiler firebox.

"Lukens kept the fire going three or four days despite the warm weather," Cross said. Monday, while Miss Zwicker's frantic parents were seeking her, suspicious detectives scoured the ashes of a small church-furnace in Lukens' presence. They found nothing. Friday, after the main furnace went out, detectives screened its ashes—and again found nothing. Then, on a hunch, they went back to the original ashes, and recovered charred fragments of bone and dental porcelain.

Lukens admitted, Cross added, that he was the same Albert B. Lukens who 44 years ago, as a Cincinnati grocery boy, beat to death Mrs. Julia Siegler. Sent to Mansfield reformatory, Lukens was paroled in 1907. He went back there as a parole violator in 1908 after Canton police charged him in the hammer-killing of Elizabeth Brown. Two Canton grand juries refused to indict in the Brown Case, and Lukens was freed from the reformatory in 1913.

53 FRENCH VESSELS ARE REQUISITIONED

VICHY, France, April 19.—(P)—Fifty-three ships of nearly 240,000 tons have been requisitioned from France in recent months, reliable informants said today, bringing at least one open demand that the government be firm and set a limit to such action.

(The cable did not say so, but the Germans apparently requisitioned the ships, perhaps to transport Axis men and supplies to Africa.)

The transatlantic French liner De Grasse, 18,453 tons, heads the list of the ships reported requisitioned. Others include the Mexique, 12,220 tons; the Kerguelen, 10,125; the Vendee, 9,153; the Plandre, 8,571 and the Yangtze, 8,150.

This is the first figure on requisitioned means of transportation since it was learned that by last February 140,000 out of 450,000 French freight cars had been requisitioned and that 240,000 of the remainder had been concentrated in occupied France. (These cars were requisitioned by the German authorities.)

Le Temps, influential newspaper, called early this week for governmental "firmness" to set "limits to the requisitioning."

It said food supplies for France depended upon freedom of the sea and on domestic communications.

ORLEANS MAN TURNS YACHT OVER TO U. S.

NEW ORLEANS, April 19.—(P)—Charles A. Spurl, Jr., 35, head of an insurance firm here, today turned his yacht Cocheo over to the United States for defense program purposes, and then enlisted in the coast guard and went to work on the newly-commissioned yacht at $21 a month.

Charles De B. Claiborne, Jr., 31, and Al Salzer, 28, socially prominent members of the Southern Yacht club, joined Spurl as coast guard recruits for Gulf of Mexico patrol duty.

CHRISTMAS IN HOLLY RIDGE . . .

at his home-built amateur radio station which he used to talk 100 consecutive days with British amateur radio operators.

Holly Ridge 'Ham' Almost Had An English Accent After Talks

Back in 1939 a little man sat in a room in Holly Ridge, Louisiana, and carried on a round-table discussion with persons in England for 100 consecutive days.

When he finished, Allen J. Christmas, amateur radio operator of the little northeast Louisiana community, had a recording of how his voice sounded at 5,000 miles and almost had an English accent.

The operation of Christmas' 200-watt, completely home-built station, W5DRF, enabled him to carry on a daily round-table conversation with three English amateurs. The war and the banning of communications with foreign countries by the Federal Communications Commission, cut short the daily visits, but Harry Hornsby, one of the British operators who "sat in" on the round-table talks, made a recording of one of the sessions and sent it to the Holly Ridge "ham."

It is one of his prized possessions. Christmas is known to his fellow members of the Ouachita Valley Amateur club as a master with tools, and his outfit is ample testimony of his skill. In the eight years he has been a licensed amateur, he has equipped his station to operate not only on the 160-meter regular amateur band but also on the 40 and 20-meter bands for code work and the 10-meter band, the latter a high-frequency band which requires special equipment. Included in his layout are two pairs of T40s and T44s tubes, an infed Hertz antenna, and a rotary beam antenna known to amateurs as a "home-spun plumber's delight," for use on the 10-meter band.

Although he frequently talks with "hams" in Hawaii, Christmas, along with the other Ouachita Valley operators, spends much of his time on the air these days advertising the convention of Delta division operators scheduled here in May. Amateurs in this region talk daily with fellow "hams" throughout the country about the convention, and the American Radio Relay league is now using a "trailer" advertising the meeting at Hotel Frances on its code transmission program, which goes all over the nation three times a week.

In all, Christmas does more than his share to keep Holly Ridge on the map, and if Uncle Sam's mail service there has shown a decrease in the last several years it's probably because Christmas has had so many persons in the neighborhood talking to relatives and friends over his radio outfit.

The slightly-built Holly Ridge amateur and his XYL—wife to the uninitiated—have two daughters, both junior operators. Betty Jane is at home and Mary, married and living in Jackson, Miss., often is there via the short wave.

state police to erect a 100-watt temporary two-way radio station at Leesville and Alford says construction work on the station will begin immediately.

Under his plan each of the four army camps, Claiborne, Livingston, Beauregard and Polk, will have two-way radio stations and each have four automobiles equipped with two-way communication systems.

This will enable quick handling of the crowded traffic expected when 500,000 soldiers begin maneuvering over the state highways, Alford says.

MORE MEN JOIN ARMED FORCES

Bastrop Youth Made Code Instructor At Illinois Field

The following young men from this area recently have been enlisted for the air corps and ordnance departments, with station at Barksdale field, Louisiana: H. B. McNemar, local recruiting officer, announced yesterday: Frank N. Dornon, Bastrop; C. V. Garber, Gilbert; Ray R. Allen, Newell; Homer W. Sumrall, Lake Providence; Max Dollar, Bastrop; James Philley, Oak Grove; Erby Williams, Mart; Willard E. Waldrop, Monroe; James B. Tisdale, Bastrop; Rex A. Hunt, Jr., Rochelle; Claude C. Cody, Clarks; James E. Hindmon, Clarks; Will Lee Oliver, West Monroe, to air corps at Puerto Rico; Vernon O. Smith, St. Joseph, to air corps at Puerto Rico; J. C. Watson, Winnsboro, to medical department at New Orleans; Henry M. Smith, Lillie, to medical department at New Orleans. The local recruiting office still has 12 vacancies for three-year enlistment periods for the air corps, Puerto Rico. Applicants should possess a high school education or a journeyman's rating in mechanical trades, the recruiting officer said. Mr. and Mrs. John W. Davis and Mrs. Thelma O'Brien have returned from a visit to Fort Benning, Ga., where they spent Easter Sunday at the army station with their sons, who enlisted recently and are stationed here. Max Cleveland Postell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Davis and Frank Frederick O'Brien is the son of Mrs. Thelma O'Brien. Accompanying them in their trip were Mrs. M. M. Smith and Miss Catherine Triplett. The visitors were shown every possible courtesy by army officials and all were pleased with the progress made by their sons. Sergeant McNemar said. Private James B. Tisdale, Bastrop, who recently enlisted for Barksdale field, was assigned to the 459th ordnance company and in a letter received by the local recruiting officer stated that he liked military life better each day. He is a journalist by profession and expects to receive an assignment to one of the various publicity desks at Barksdale shortly. Upon graduation from Northeast junior college in 1940, Gayle S. Morris enlisted in the United States army air corps at Barksdale field. He underwent customary recruit training and after six weeks was transferred to the air corps technical school at Scott field in Illinois, where for six months he studied technicalities of aviation and the international Morse code. After completing the course, April 11, Morris was informed he had been selected to remain at Scott field for future duty as an instructor in the radio technical school from which he had just graduated. Such an appointment is regarded as a high honor. Young Morris, who hails from Bastrop, is now enjoying a 10-day furlough and will return to Scott field as code instructor when his furlough is ended.

The new Curtiss Wright XSBC-1 carries twice the number of heavy bombs, internally, than any other scout-bomber does. It has better than twice the range to protect our shores, stays in the air 4 1/2 hours longer than a plane of this type could before, and is 100 miles an hour faster than its predecessor.

COLLEGE GIVES COMPLETE TRAINING IN MUSIC AND RADIO

The pictures above illustrate something of the scope of music instruction and radio facilities offered at Northeast Junior college here. Above left, Dallas Goss is shown rehearsing the Men's Glee club in the broadcasting room. Above right, a section of the band rehearsing under the direction of Harry Lemert, who is not included in the picture. Center left shows the radio room with Roger C. Frisbie at the controls and at the extreme left can be seen the Men's Glee club in the broadcasting room. Mr. Frisbie also is shown, center right, at the Hammond organ in the organ and recital room. Below left, is the violin quartet under the direction of Mrs. Frisbie, who is at the extreme right. Mrs. Ruth Goss is accompanying the group. The bottom picture on the right shows the piano club sponsored by Mrs. Florence Z. Allbritton, shown at extreme right. All scenes were taken in the Fine Arts building at the college, where work is done in music, radio, and speech. The two-story structure which was finished in 1939 is modern in every respect and has sound-proof rooms.

The Week In Washington

By Richard L. Turner
WASHINGTON, April 19. — (The Morning World Special News Service) —Official Washington is concerned about the impact of a week of bad news upon the opinion of the nation. The worst thing that could happen to America just now, many believe, would be a spreading spirit of defeatism induced by the repeated triumphs of axis arms and diplomacy. The week has seen the Nazi legions driving swiftly—much more swiftly than had been expected even after their demonstration in the low countries and France—through Yugoslavia and well into Greece. It has seen German forces recapturing in a comparatively few days territory in northern Africa from which the British drove the Italians only after weeks of warfare last winter. It has produced, too, the most intense bombing to which London has yet been subjected. Reports from the battle of the Atlantic are no more encouraging than they were. The U-boats and German planes continue at perilous proportions. And the past few days have brought with them the latest and most improbable achievement of the don't-let-your-left-hand-know axis diplomacy, the Russian-Japanese agreement. In their aggregate, it is fully realized here, these events could hardly be encouraging to the people of a nation which has dedicated its material resources to an English victory. But the strange aspect of the current concern for public opinion is that in the past the triumphs of the dictator states, one by one, galvanized this country into action, stiffened the public backbone and produced the overwhelming majorities that supported the conscription act and the lend-lease bill. That any other reaction should be expected from the current developments is explained perhaps by the fact that things looked so very bright only a short time before. The Greeks had stood off the Italians. The Yugoslavs, instead of yielding, had turned upon Hitler. Greece and Yugoslavia offered the British a possible foothold upon the continent, which they had not had since the fall of France. The Italians in Africa had been chased far from the Suez. The British were carrying the aerial war into Germany with ever increasing effectiveness. The British fleet had just won a notable victory in the Mediterranean. The talk was of a "turning point" in the war. The disillusionment was swift, and deflating. So Washington officials fear that the feeling of defeatism may turn into a feeling of defeatism, a feeling that Hitler is unconquerable and so what's the use. At this point, many are looking to the president to bring his leadership to the fore again, to declare that even with Yugoslavia and Greece gone, even should the converging axis forces in Africa and the Balkans engulf the Suez canal, the war is not lost. The war is not lost, a growing slogan says, so long as England remains uninvaded and the British fleet rides the seas. It is generally thought that the president is preparing some new action. But what it may be is a matter for speculation only. His move in opening up the Red sea and Gulf of Aden to American vessels, thus permitting them to carry war goods to the back door of the Mediterranean by way of the Suez, obviously is important only so long as Greece and Yugoslavia hold out and there are British troops in northern Africa which may be supplied by this route. Of much more importance than the Balkans or Suez, however, is the battle of the Atlantic and the unanswered convoy question. That the president is reluctant to send naval vessels into the combat zone as escorts for Britain-bound convoys is obvious. That increasing pressure, including the pressure of events, is being brought to bear upon him to take some such action is equally clear. What the ultimate decision will be is not so apparent. One solution which has important backing is that American fighting ships convoy the vessels part way, to be relieved in mid-Atlantic by British naval units. This, it is argued, would appreciably relieve the British destroyer shortage, by shortening the westward run of each English escort. Another plan would have American ships make deliveries at Halifax, thus shortening the run of the British merchant ships. The establishment of American naval and air bases in Greenland may prove helpful in the fight against the U-boats. It has been suggested that British planes could operate from there, patrolling a big segment of the danger zone of German submarines

JIMMIE FIDLER In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, April 19—Barbara Stanwyck and Robert Taylor are pricing property at New Hope, Pa., where Dorothy Parker, Moss Hart and more of the sarcaustics have country homes. Tom Brown has popped the question to Dorothy O'Keefe, who is mulling it. Century Publishing is bringing out a Maxie Rosenbloom biography. Jimmy Stewart, with a week-end leave from Camp Moffett, took sick the minute he hit Hollywood and spent his furlough in bed. Mrs. Frances Johnson, Nat Pendleton's grandmother, has just celebrated her 100th birthday. James Marretta, Boston financial adviser, planned here to coo with Barbara Pepper.

Myrna Loy should watch her appearance; the over-weight is too obvious. Warners have changed the name of newly-signed Richard Whorf to Richard Wharf. Is something happening to the Phyllis Ruth-Bert Wheeler engagement? Grace Moore is skipping that Hollywood offer to play a flock of Mexican concert dates. Jimmy Craig, Jr., 16-months-old baby of the actor, is seriously ill in a hospital. Marguerite De La Motte, dazzer of silent films, hits the comeback trail in the new "Dr. Christian."

John Howard has developed a terrific singing voice (not crooning) and his studio plans to do something with it. I hear the William Powell-Diana Lewis adoption will be two, not just one. Leland (Margaret Sullivan's husband) Hayward looks to make more dough from his airplane school than from his actor-agency. Bob Hope's new opus, "Road to Moscow," will rib Communism to a face-thee-well. The Karen Morley-Director Charles Vidor separation, revealed here weeks back, is now ready for the divorce courts.

Laugh of the week: Bob Murphy's story about two gangsters who wanted to "get even" with a cop. For days they tried to think of a to-be-inflicted punishment cruel enough. One day the first gangster cried: "I've got it! We'll heat a boiler until it's red hot, then shove the cold end down his throat." "The cold end?" echoed the other. "That won't hurt him." "You think not?" snapped the first. "Wait! You see him burn his hands trying to pull it out!"

Mutterings: "I'd like to choke Hollywood rats who hint at clandestine connivings in every screen girl's success. Ode to mayhem: 'What you need, Mr. Barrymore, is the steady influence of a wife.' Frantic urge: To convince Rita Hayworth that she should drop her voice a full octave; it sounds affected way up there. Why, when Hollywood makes Civil war pictures, is the Southerner always the hero and the Southerner invariably the dirty heel? Silly notion: Mickey Rooney and Charlotte Greenwood dancing the rumba. Imagine dressing Veronica Lake like that in "I Wanted Wings," and expecting people to notice her acting ability!

Eleven years ago in Hollywood: Bebe Daniels and Ben Lyon announced June wedding plans. Betty Compton and Director James Cruze were divorced. Universal re-filmed ZaSu Pitts' dramatic scenes in "All Quiet on the Western Front" when preview audiences, without waiting to appraise ZaSu's role, greeted her appearance with laughter. The estate of Rudolph Valentino, believed to be a million dollars, proved to be a third that amount. Author Jim Tully scored a one-punch decision over John Gilbert in a cafe brawl. Colleen Moore sued her producer-husband, John McCormick, for divorce.

It could happen only in Hollywood: "Blood and Sand" Director Rouben Mamoulian, afire with a great idea, persuaded John Carradine to go sleepless for 48 hours, so he would look wan and hollow-eyed for his big death scene. Came time to film this sequence; Carradine stretched on his "death bed"—and promptly went to sleep. When he awakened, hours later, the scene was "in the can," the stage was dark—and Mrs. Carradine was phoning all over town (including the police and all hospitals) trying to find her husband.

Odd-formations: When two stars with the same "bad side" are cast together, the more "demanding" usually gets his "good side" to the camera. The other is protected by "dim lighting" which throws his face in partial shadow, making it less noticeable. Studio cosmetic departments are storing powder, because government war orders threaten a shortage—and blonde stars must be protected. The Lew Ayres-Ginger Rogers romance blossomed on tennis courts and badminton tables (both like these games). Since their divorce, Ayres won't play either game. Fan mail departments at all studios have contracts with stamp stores or philatelists, because stamps received on fan letters each year are worth thousands of dollars. (Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

OUR CHILDREN

By Angelo Patri

Spring is clean-up time. Mother goes through the house looking for what she can throw away. The closets are turned out, boxes searched, shelves ransacked and the waste bags are stuffed full ready for the cart. That is quite as it should be. No house can hold the accumulation of unwanted, unneeded articles that a family gathers, and springtime is just the right time for a cleaning up. I would like to put in a word for the children's belongings. Please don't throw anything out until you have consulted its owner. Children have a way of identifying themselves with their belongings that makes parting with them, especially for making parting, too hard to bear. A ragged ball, a battered teddy bear, a broken, one-eyed doll, and tattered books may look like the waste heap to you, but to their owners they have other meanings. Better respect those meanings and keep hands off until the owner decides what to do.

If he decides that the ball is still good, that teddy is quite all right as he is, that the doll needs only a new dress and a little paint to fix her up like new, that the book is the best he ever read, bow to his decision. Be sure that he sees and feels more than you can imagine in his battered treasures and let them be.

By respecting a child's property and his right to it, we teach him to respect ours, and our rights to it. If we ask his permission before using his things he will ask ours before taking possession for granted. Children who have been trained this way seldom pilfer, rarely borrow, and usually take good care of their belongings while they respect the belongings of others. There always will be some things the children are ready to toss out and among them you will be surprised to find things that have scarcely been used. These, too, have meanings hidden from your eyes and understanding. There's a doll, scarcely mused, that is disowned. "I don't play with her," is the only reply the child will make to your inquiry.

Some association tied to that doll hurts the child. Maybe she did not like the person who gave it to her, maybe she had it forced on her when she had chosen another, maybe its face brings memories that distress the child. Either give the doll away or lock it away out of sight. It is not beloved and that is enough. Do the same with the discarded sweater, the good school dress, the unused blocks. Don't insist upon their being used after they have been held for a year and pronounced worn.

Things like these are important to the peace and happiness of children and the household and they have far-reaching influence on the children's mental health and character. Cleanups are fine, healthy, and most necessary. There is only that one point to consider: the owners' wishes as to the disposition of property. Consult them and all will be well.

Getting along with other people is a fundamental of success—even little children, as well as adolescents, must learn how to do so. Help your son and daughter by consulting Angelo Patri's booklet, "Your Child and Other People." Send for it, enclosing ten cents in coin. Address Angelo Patri, in care Monroe News-Star—World, P. O. ## Sunday School Lesson

Sunday School Lesson for April 27
Text: Acts 4:32-35; 6:1-7
By William E. Gilroy, D.D.
(Editor of Advance)

Our lesson, in its picture of conditions in the early church, has set an ideal before church and society that has never been attained. It might in a sense be called an ideal of Communism, for we are told how the disciples had all things in common, but it was a Communism very different from anything that has been proclaimed or practiced in our time.

The possessing of all things in common was on the part of a comparatively small fellowship of people, living in a hostile world. It was a matter altogether of voluntary action. There was no power forcing those who had possessions to sell them and put them into the common resources.

Wherever groups of people have suffered greatly through disaster, or have been subject to great persecution, their common faith and their common suffering have drawn them together and have made possible such an experience as this among the early disciples. If all men were as good as these disciples, one could conceive of a society very different from ours, where there would be no greed, no selfishness, no self-seeking, but where all would be "members one of another," and where each would have his part in giving and receiving. It would be unfortunate for the church or for society if we ever lost vision of this as an ideal to be attained, just as it would be unfortunate if we sought to establish such a state and condition without proper spiritual foundations.

As a matter of fact, such an ideal condition did not last long in the early church, for there began murmuring concerning the unjust distribution of common funds and the preference that was given for some over others. The Grecian Jews, particularly, complained against the Hebrews because they said their widows were neglected in the daily ministrations. Nevertheless, it was a purpose among these early Christians to do right, and immediately the apostles sought to adjust this matter by proposing to the disciples that they should select certain responsible men who should have the care of the widows and other needy persons in the church.

The apostles themselves felt that their ministry was the ministry of the word of God, while others could attend quite as effectively and as wisely to economic adjustments within the church. This proposal appealed very strongly to the whole group of disciples, and they chose Stephen, who was to be the first Christian martyr, along with a few others, to attend to this matter of care and relief in the church.

We are disposed to regard this as the original institution of deacons, and these who were chosen were ordained for their particular tasks through the

A WONDER HORSE—Eclipse, so called because he was foaled during the great eclipse of 1764, was never beaten on the turf, and gave rise to the saying that in every race "Eclipse is first and the rest nowhere." In 23 years at the stud he sired 344 winners, dying in 1780. The descendants of Eclipse won $2,107,000 in a single year (1894). Among them were 95 Derby winners. His heart was ascertained to have weighed over 14 pounds, to which circumstance is ascribed the horse's phenomenal endurance and record.

IN WASHINGTON

By Peter Edson

(Monroe Morning World Washington Correspondent)
WASHINGTON—As a gag, a famous old Harvard professor was once asked by a colleague to "Give a hypothetical answer to an imaginary question." Without batting an eye, the white-bearded professor answered, "Not much!" "All right!" He was then asked, "What was the question?" "What do professors know?"

Change the word "professors" to "congressmen" or "statesmen" or "people" and it's still a nifty way for the questions that today weigh down like a ton of bricks on the collapsed chest of mankind.

In Washington there are half a dozen questions the answers to which no one knows, and you and I can only guess, but since we've started it does no harm to state the questions, if only to help see where we're going, if only to show how little we know.

1. What's all the hullabaloo about convoys?
Some congressmen would put a legal ban on the placing of United States ships in convoys to Europe. That would apply not only to naval vessels doing the actual convoying, but also to vessels assigned to protection of merchantmen.

This dispute comes at the time there is serious doubt as to value of convoys in this war. In the last war, when the submarine was the only enemy of shipping, the guarded convoy was effective. This war, with planes directing submarines and planes bombing convoys, the convoy system may be tactically wrong. Losses in some recent convoys may have been as high as a fourth or a third of the vessels.

Maybe the solution is to send the ships out one by one, letting them sneak through on varying courses. One ship makes a smaller target than 20.

2. Is Greenland going to be much use as an air base?
Early transatlantic air surveys looked on Greenland as a natural halfway point between America and Europe. Then the weather men set up station. Their records showed figuratively Greenland was fit to fly into or out of with safety for about 15 minutes every third Sunday afternoon. The rest of the time, fogs or rain—when it wasn't snowing.

As for shipping, there is an open season of only a few weeks in midsummer. The rest of the time, solid ice, or even worse, icebergs.

3. Will Congress get around to doing anything more about the labor situation, particularly as it relates to strikes in defense industries, jurisdictional strikes, a compulsory cooling off period?
If Congress does act, it may have to force through its program over the body of the executive end of government. Five congressional committees have delivered or are delivering into this labor question. With typical congressional resentment, these committees have bent their ears into funnels to catch the faintest whisper that might be uttered to urge Congress to "pass a law" that would put a crimp in labor's rights for duration of the emergency.

Administrative witness after witness from cabinet member on down has bounced serenely back with the assertion that there should be no curb on labor's right to organize or strike, that the only worthwhile labor peace comes through mutual agreement between employer and employee, that compulsory labor is slave labor and will not work.

Sanest proposal thus far would seem to be the idea to put all labor on the same status that railroad employees enjoy under the Railway Labor act which sets up machinery for settlement of all disputes without interruption of work and guarantees the right to organize.

4. Does the opening of the Red Sea and the Indian ocean to United States shipping stand a chance of being any help to Greece?
There are few United States ships in this area now. It will take three weeks to get them there if they go by the Atlantic, six weeks if they go by the Pacific. Time will give you the best answer to this one, maybe soon.

5. Does the new Soviet-Japanese treaty of non-aggression mean that Japan will loan battleships to Germany to prey on United States shipping or move on Singapore and the Dutch East Indies?
Take that one easy. Japan will not readily split her fleet as long as the United States fleet is in the Pacific.

6. Do all these moves mean that we are heading into war, and if so, how?
If the British are driven from Greece, where could this country send an expeditionary force?

Landing in England or even Ireland would do no good. Landing in north Europe is of course impossible. Landing in south Europe is out of the question, even if Italy were knocked out of the war. Africa? Nonsense. Obviously there being no place to send an expeditionary force, it's impossible for the United States to get into the war.

On yeah? Look at that one again. This might be a naval war with the fleet and air services getting into action long, long before the army could move a man.

laying on of the apostles' hands. This is the spirit that ought to be always prevalent in the church, and it represents the goal of a society where the common resources of a nation would be organized and used for the welfare of all.

Is it any wonder that the record is that the word of God increased and that the number of disciples increased greatly, with ministers obedient to the faith? Fulfill the conditions of primitive Christianity and in any, or every age, there will be similar results.

The cultivation of wheat dates back as far as the Stone Age, and its origin is unknown.

NEW YORK—Diary: Dined bou fully and pleasantly with the Sre Chamber of Commerce at the Sre holm, on 51st street, as guest of Co Gosta Morner, who on his way to Sweden, rec Hans George on his way to de monstrate a ne invented build material and construction system, veloped in Sweden. . . . He had whole side of a house, built of new material, in the ship's hold, show to American capitalists. . . . builders. The ship was sunk south Iceland, and Morner, who is an inventor by profession, lost everything including his passport. He was lani in the Faroe islands, where he was a ship to America. . . . The Faroe I'm told, are very cold for a per without plenty of winter garne. They are off most ship routes, a few ships call that way nowadays. There are Danish, now occupied by Brit military and naval units. . . . table with us is Mr. Ernest L. H. Morner, food broker, who lives, and long lived at a famous address: T ninety Park avenue. There lived a died Odd McIntyre, whose mem we revere. . . . Mr. Heebner told how he used to meet the cordial O in the corridors and at the eleva occasionally, and spoke of his affi tion for the McIntyre dogs. . . . other gentleman related his indig tion because of something he had s published in an out-of-town ne paper by some malicious person, taling the old lie about Odd's having had a telephone in his ap ment and never going outdoors, making up all the stories he told meetings with prominent folk. . . . It is indeed strange when mal passes the bounds of common deca in slandering the honored dead. . . . I personally talked to Odd or charming wife on the telephone, their apartment almost every wo ing day during their life there. . . . Pleased with a call from Mr. R. Shipley, of Los Angeles, executi director of the American Gem socie an organization that encourages e ical practices among jewelers. . . . There are about 16,000 real jewel in this country, he tells me. . . . told Mr. Shipley the story of one N York watch repairer who preyed up an excellent watch of mine for ye successfully extracting works r substituting scrap metal, until watch would not run any more. I s not discover the villainy until I s the watch back to the factory, wh the stolen works were replaced. I watch still runs on beautifully. . . . Just such practices, said my infor ant, the Gem society was forme combat. But it has not yet made pr ess in New York City, he adm . . . So I gave Mr. Shipley a meas of affectionate greeting for his lov mother in Wichita, where I first kn the family. . . . Captain Kidd lo with dismay upon the wild pranks Slug, the pup, who has grown until is almost as tall as the Captain. Wh Slug reaches up and takes some arti from a table or dresser, rushing aw with the loot in his mouth. Capt comes to the mistress or to me, slow wagging his tail, talking in low, tri bled whines, and pointing his ri toward the offending Slug. . . . It exactly as if he were to say, "I sorry to be a little-tale, but I'm afra that pup is ruining something aga Please look after him."

A pleasant luncheon at the Walde with Mr. Henry G. Seaborn, of Seat and New York. . . . Mr. Seaborn knows more about sh than any other man I have tal with. He is head of a shipping li and built ships for the American m chant marine during the World w . . . But his interest in ships and the r far transcends a business interest. I collects authentic ship models, a paintings of ships. He is especia interested in the era of the Americ clippers, and knows the technical d tails identifying almost every su ship ever launched.

I was interested in learning som thing of the forest reserves in ar near the Puget sound region. There no lack of timber up there, say Mr. Sanborn. The Skinner-Eddy it terests, with which he is identifi one one billion feet of standing tim ber in British Columbia, he says.

I tried to get some sort of ide a to how much a billion feet of standi timber means. Well, that's the wa they buy and sell forest out there. Timber is surveyed and estimated, terms of feet of lumber that it w produce. Ten thousand acres mig produce a billion feet.

But Mr. Sanborn tells me that h hopes the axe will never be laid any of the trees in that magnific tract. It is all virgin timber. Th owner hopes to see the tract a publi park, under the British Columbia government's supervision.

Argentina Discredited Its First President

NO "Father of His Country" was Bernardino Rivadavia, pictured on the stamp above, first president of the young republic of Argentina. Political jealousies cost him his job, and he died an exile. But Rivadavia was a great statesman, one of the greatest Argentina has produced. His achievements in governmental organization and his efforts to speed national progress are recognized today.

Rivadavia was a member of the rebel junta which undermined Spain's authority, precipitated the Argentine revolt. He served as envoy to Britain, France and Spain, and as minister of government inaugurated important reforms, ecclesiastical changes, and established the University of Buenos Aires.

When Rivadavia agreed to allow Uruguay to remain part of Brazil, following Argentina's war with Brazil in 1827, his political enemies aroused the people against him, accused him of draining the country of mineral wealth and of betraying his country to foreigners. This latter charge was based on his attempts to encourage immigration and improve foreign relations.

The treaty was annulled, Rivadavia was discredited, forced to resign.

STARS TO APPEAR ON RED CROSS PROGRAM

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 19.—(Special)—Burgess Meredith, of Broadway and the films, will arrive tomorrow from Hollywood by airplane and Dr. Frank Black, celebrated composer and orchestra conductor, will come from New York to give their services in producing a gala musical show, "Pledge to America," for American Red Cross convention delegates in Constitution hall, Monday evening.

Meredith interrupted his motion picture schedule to volunteer his services as narrator, and is making a quick round trip by air. Miss Lucille Manners and Conrad Thibault, concert soloists, also will arrive from New York to appear in the unusual presentation.

Dr. Black arranged the original musical score and will lead the orchestra and a mixed chorus of 125 voices from the Washington Choral Society, also to be featured in the performance.

Dr. Black's last appearance as an orchestra conductor in Washington was at the recent griddon dinner. "Pledge to America," is a tone poem based on the story of Red Cross war relief operations in Europe and the Orient, and the work for national defense at home. The performance will take the form of a radio program as it would be put on in a studio, and it will be broadcast from coast-to-coast by the NBC blue network, from 8:30 to 9 p.m., central standard time.

Tuesday, from 8:30 to 9 p.m., central standard time, the Mutual broadcasting system will broadcast the dinner address of Viscount Halifax, British ambassador to the United States.

SERVICE UNION INDUCTS HEADS

banquet For Methodist Young People Held In Bastrop Church

More than 200 Methodist young people attended the Service Union banquet at the First Methodist church of Bastrop, Thursday night. The program featured the end of the union year and installation of officers, headed by Wilfred Lynch, Bastrop, incoming president. Other officers installed were: Robert Jones, West Monroe, vice-president; Dorothy Horton, Monroe, secretary; Floy Wallace, Monroe, treasurer; Rev. A. C. Lawton, Mer Rouge, counselor. Committee chairmen were installed as follows: Worship, Yvonne Yeager, Monroe; recreation, C. Wallace, Monroe; service, Alice Aldridge, Collinston; missions, Edna Mae Stone, Monroe; and publicity, John Etta Sissions, Mer Rouge.

J. C. Wallace, Monroe, was toastmaster, and songs and short speeches were featured. Rev. William (Bill) Boyd of Farmerville, delivered an address on "Young People in the World Today." Talks were given by the retiring president, Enmale Gattis, Monroe, and Wilfred Lynch, Bastrop, incoming president.

The installation exercises were impressive by the fact that they took place under candlelight.

Those represented were Claiborne, Allenton, Bastrop, Sterlington, Mer Rouge, Oak Ridge, Bartholomew, Monroe, and West Monroe.

DERIDDER HOUSING CONTRACT AWARDED

DERIDDER, La., April 19.—(AP)—Mayor C. R. Middleton announced today that the public buildings administration in Washington had awarded a contract for the construction of a 50-unit housing project immediately north of Deridder.

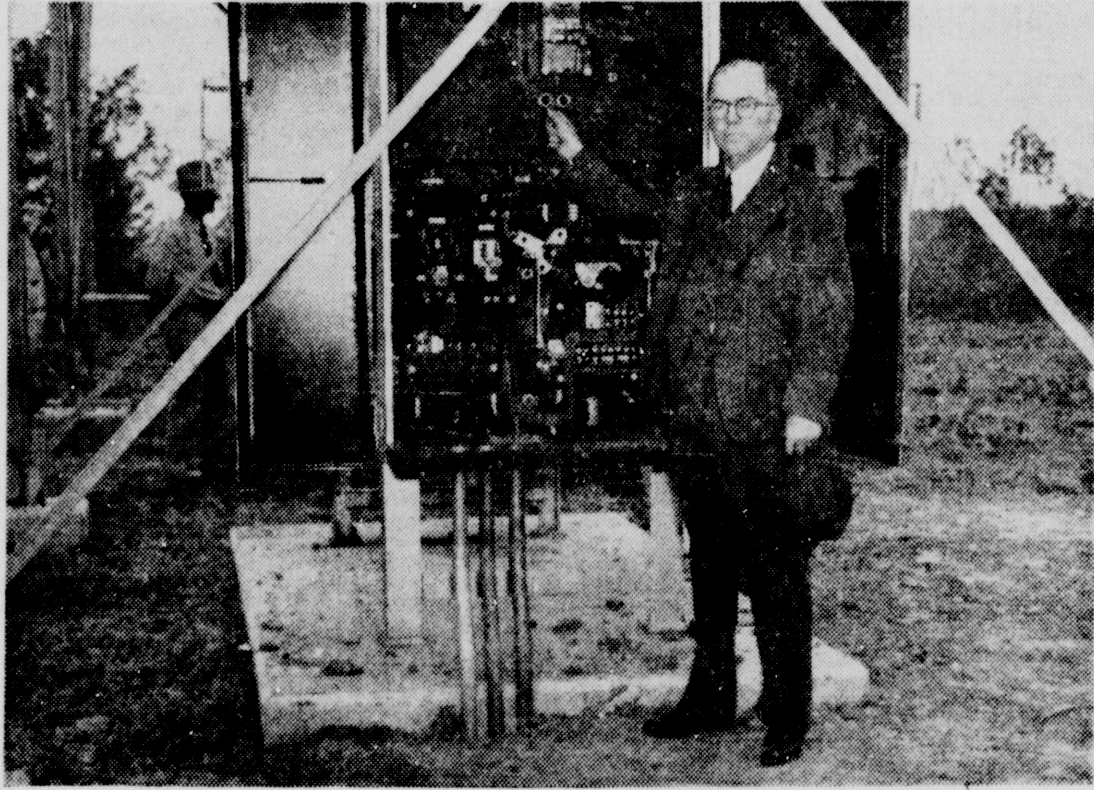

The homes, five and six-room bungalows, will be built for the families of non-commissioned officers stationed with the third armored division at Camp Polk, about 15 miles north of Deridder.

Construction cost of the project, he said, was $444,500 and the contractors, Miller and Sons of Lake Charles and Sallee and Ellis of Monroe, will receive a fixed fee of $21,500. Completion date was set at 122 working days.

Mayor Middleton said that the city would extend its boundaries to include the project and that a $500,000 sewerage and water project was now pending in Washington to supply such service to the project and to the Deridder airport, which is to be converted into an army observation squadron base.

Forty acres intervening between the housing project and the city will be purchased and made into a municipal park, he declared.

FERRIDAY MAYOR DEDICATES NEW SUBSTATION

The new $50,000 substation of the Louisiana Power and Light company, constructed five miles north of Ferriday to serve the delta country of northeast Louisiana, was officially opened Friday, with Mayor A. B. Crothers of Ferriday, in the top photo, turning the switch that sent the power surging through the station. Three aldermen of Ferriday looked on as their mayor threw the switch. They are shown in the second photo and are, from left to right, William Mayer, A. E. Stuart and Guy Serio. High officials of the Louisiana Power and Light company also were present.

WOMAN SAVES BOY THEN COLLAPSES

NEW YORK, April 19.—(AP)—For one hour 13-year-old Billy Rosendale stood on the edge of the roof of a four-story building in Brooklyn today and threatened to jump because, police said, his mother was going to punish him.

Hundreds watched him. A priest, a playmate, police and the boy's mother pleaded in vain. Police strung up nets. The nets never were used. Talking quietly to Billy, Mrs. Emily Moore, herself mother of three children, got him a few feet from the edge. Then without warning she made a flying tackle and caught Billy around the knees. She fainted. Others kept hold of Billy.

They took him to a hospital, suffering from hysteria.

SUPREME COURT TO FILL LAND VACANCY

SHREVEPORT, La., April 19.—(AP)—No special election to name a successor to the late John R. Land, associate of the state supreme court, will be held, Frank J. Looney, chairman of the Democratic state central committee, said here today.

The law provides, Mr. Looney said, that the vacancy be filled for the remainder of the term by the supreme court by assigning a judge of the court of appeals from any district except from that which Judge Land represented.

The election for the next regular full term will be held in the fall of 1942.

SINGING MEET FOR PARISH SCHEDULED

JONESBORO, La., April 19.—(Special)—The Ouachita Parish Singing convention will convene on the fourth Sunday in April at Chapel Hill church, north of Calhoun, on the Monroe-Farmerville highway. The convention will meet on its original date due to the fact that the Tri-State Singing convention will convene on the first Sunday in May in Shreveport.

All singers and those fond of gospel music are invited to attend. A number of quartets and leaders are expected to participate, stated L. L. Kilpatrick, president.

PARKING CELLER PLANS FINISHED

Underground Shelter Could Be Used To Shelter 50,000 Persons

By Allan Stewart

SAN FRANCISCO, April 19.—(The Special News Service)—Back in 1935 when few persons gave much thought to bomb shelters, San Francisco laid plans for an underground steel and concrete structure for parking automobiles in the middle of the shopping district.

When completed, authorities say it could be used to shelter 50,000 persons.

The question of building the garage under San Francisco's famed union square was discussed for nearly six years before final obstacles to the plan were cleared up last month.

It is estimated that within ten months the subterranean four-story garage, with 450,000 square feet of storage space, will have been completed. The top floor is to be 30 to 45 feet below the surface.

The initial steps in construction involve the removal of a statue commemorating the victory of Admiral George Dewey at Manila, squares of grass, and plants from the 275x412-foot block, surrounded on all sides by stores and hotels.

Then will come removal of 175,000 cubic yards of earth. When the $1,435,000 structure is completed, the statue, the grass and plants and a modernistic fountain are to be replaced on the surface.

Although the garage was envisioned in 1935 as a profit-making venture, the plan has emerged as a non-profit project under which merchants in the vicinity purchased 6,000 shares of stock at $100 a share, and reconstruction finance corporation loaned $850,000.

The Union Square corporation is to turn over the garage to the city after retiring the RFC first mortgage and amortizing the stock, probably in about 20 years.

Timothy L. Pflueger, who drew up plans for the garage, said the capacity at one time would be 1,800 automobiles. Broad, winding ramps will enable motorists to drive to whatever floor attendants direct. Pflueger estimated that between 3,000 and 4,000 cars would use the garage's facilities daily.

This, traffic experts pointed out, would double the present parking facilities in the heart of the city's shopping district.

New government-owned assembly plants in the middle west will be built to turn out bombing planes costing approximately $1,000,000,000 a year—a figure nearly half the value of the automobile industry's annual output.

REACHES CENTURY MARK

Philip Inzina, above, born in Italy 100 years ago tomorrow, but a resident of this country for the greater part of his life, will celebrate his natal day with his children, grandchildren and great grandchildren.

Philip Inzina Rounds Out Century; Still Healthy

While not many people reach the ripe old age of an even century, there is one man in Monroe who on Monday will have reached that age. He is Philip Inzina, 201 Seventh street.

For a man of such age he is exceedingly active. Up to a few years ago he possessed sufficient sight to thread an average-sized needle without glasses, something that he has never been required to use. Also, he has never required false teeth.

He was born in Italy but has resided in Monroe 43 years. For 24 years he owned and operated a grocery store at 201 Seventh street. He has ever been of cheerful disposition and has made a wide circle of friends through the years.

He is father of six living children, Mrs. Charles Comrato, 3402 Gordon avenue; Mrs. Joe Embanato, Edgewater Gardens; Mrs. George Lipsey, 201 Seventh street; Tony Inzina, Bastrop; and Sam Inzina, Akron, O.

He has 38 grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren.

His 12 great-grandchildren are the following: Mary Margaret Comrato, age 19 years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Comrato, 3402 Gordon avenue; Mary Jo, nine; Bobby Joe, six, and Ethel, four years, children of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Inzina, 2307 DeSiard street; Christine, seven; Joseph, five, and Carl Inzina, Jr., children of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Inzina, 205 Seventh street. Lucas, five, and Rosemary, three, children of Mr. and Mrs.

TALENT HUNTED AT ARMY CAMP

Major Classification Program Gets Under Way At Louisiana Unit

CAMP CLAIBORNE, La., April 19.—(AP)—The army, talent scouting, is doing a major question-and-answer job on the 34th division's 20,000 men.

Eleven teams, made up of 10 men each, are at work in the various regiments, interviewing each man as to his abilities, education and preferences with the sole object of placing the division's men in the positions for which they are suited; the right man for the right job.

First Lieutenant Frederick J. Kraschel of Harlan, Ia., classification officer, made it plain this does not mean there will be a wholesale shake-up in the division's assignments.

But it does mean, he said, that the men will be given a chance to tell what army job they'd like to have. If they appear suited for the task they like, they may get it, if and when the job is open.

After the interviewer has asked his questions, the form on which answers are written will be turned over to a "classifier" in each regiment.

This man will study the card, mark the soldier "skilled," "unskilled," or "partly skilled" in the particular trade or line in which the soldier appears to be interested.

He also will judge the man's military ability and his leadership qualifications.

Questions cover the range between personal history, date of birth, home town and the like, to hobbies. In between are blank spaces for answers by radio operators, wrestlers, cooks and ditch diggers, college professors and persons with no education.

When the task is complete, the classification office will be able to tell you how many men of the 34th speak French, how many went to technical colleges, how many went to night school and how many write with their left hands.

Then, when a request comes in from one regiment or another for a man trained in a certain field, the classification office will sort out the cards pertaining to that field, select the man apparently best suited for the job at hand and recommend that he be put in the place, giving consideration to the desires of the man.

A. N. Lisotta, 1309 DeSiard street; R. T. Lolley, Jr., two months, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Lolley, Arkansas road, West Monroe; Mary Anne Embanato, two years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Embanato, 608 South Grand street; and Marion Charlene Comrato, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Comrato, 304 Linderman, West Monroe.

HOME WEAVING GROWS POPULAR

War, Helped By FSA And Private Art Schools, Kindles Interest

WASHINGTON, April 19.—(The Special News Service)—The war, helped along by the farm security administration and numerous private art schools and artisans, is kindling new interest in the art of home weaving on hand looms.

What the war did was to shut off imports of hand woven textiles from Czechoslovakia, Holland, Norway, Denmark and Sweden.

The rest is being done by FSA, the private schools that teach the art of hand weaving, art shops, yarn shops, weavers and loom makers. They are helping to provide looms, teaching hand weaving, helping to find markets for the products.

FSA's interest sprang from the desire to provide additional sources of income for persons on resettlement projects and on marginal farms, the small farmers of the uplands and hills.

The art was well established and fully alive in many areas of the country.

Long before FSA entered the scene, samples of hand weaving flew in every breeze that whipped through the Ozarks, the Great Smokies and the Blue Ridge. Bedspreads, hooked rugs, aprons, flaunted an invitation to every passer-by.

Until the war closed down on shipments of hand woven rugs and similar art goods from abroad, the work was pretty well held to the hills where it had been done through long generations.

Miss Doris Porter, its assistant chief of home management, was sent to Europe by a private foundation to study new weaving patterns.

In the spread of hand weaving that has followed, new looms have been installed in homes from West Virginia to Texas. Women operators have been trained by weaving experts, going out themselves and training others.

Miss Porter predicts that thousands of looms will be in homes within the next two years. She says a trained weaver on a hand loom can turn out a suit for herself out of the best wool in four hours at a cost of about $3.50, material that would cost $16 at a store.

But the activity is not restricted to FSA. Small, exclusive shops in many areas of the country handle hand woven materials. Particularly is this true in New England, New York, California, Michigan, and in various other sections of the middle west and the south.

unable to make good the checks which figure in the indictment.

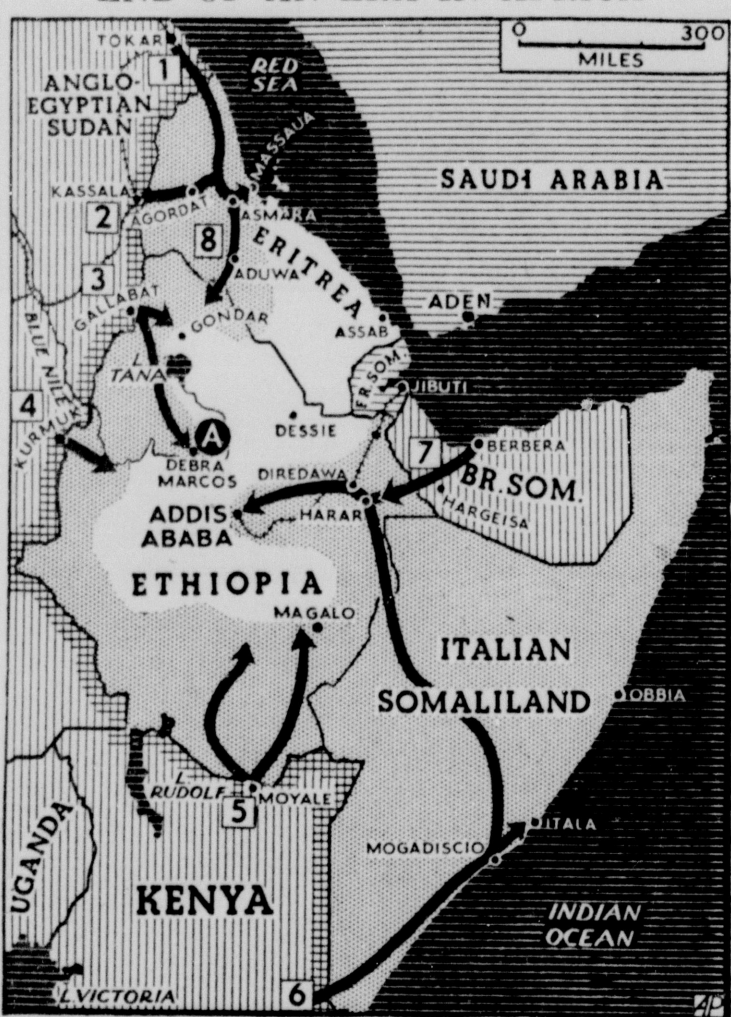

An Eros merchant and cotton broker, Henry declared that R. H. Long, driller from Corpus Christi, Texas, had money in the Corpus Christi bank and the $16.65 draft was good. He also said that he did not know that Womack was interested in the Tippitt well until he was half finished drilling. Until that time, he said, he had dealt solely with the late W. J. Carpenter of Chatham.

Prior to the time that drilling of the Tippitt well was begun, Womack testified that Carpenter had covered several of Henry's worthless checks, and later he and Carpenter continued the practice. Womack said he knew that Carpenter always kept enough money in the bank to cover the checks.

J. C. Shows, Jonesboro, former clerk of court of Jackson parish, and Neal Thomas, sheriff of Jackson parish, testified that Womack is a member of a reputable family, that his own reputation for integrity and honesty is good.

As of March 1, 1941, airplane, engine and propeller companies had 24,122,230 square feet of productive floor space in operation as compared to 18,752,879 square feet in January, 1941.

ENGLISH FORCE LANDED IN IRAQ

made and how far it had penetrated was not disclosed.

As the situation on the Aegean front became increasingly grave for British imperial forces, London announced a strong force had been landed in Iraq in a move to protect vital middle east oil fields.

A furious anti-aircraft barrage apparently disrupted the German Luftwaffe's double-barreled air blitz on London overnight.

Waves of German bombers struck the capital early last night and it was believed they intended a mighty raid in honor of Adolf Hitler's 52nd birthday today.

After a lull, the Nazis returned in force but anti-aircraft fire prevented a concentrated attack and only a few raiders reached the city to drop flares and high explosives.

An air warden's post was hit, trapping several persons.

All this burst of activity was accompanied by an almost unanimous warning from the London press to the British public to expect more serious setbacks in Greece and a possible British withdrawal.

The same idea was broached in the Berlin press, but the tone there was jubilant as newspapers declared Greece was facing a "catastrophe" that the swastika flew over Mount Olympus and that the important rail center and road junction city of Larissa, 40 miles to the south, was in German hands.

The editorial comment led political circles to believe that the German general staff considered the fall of Greece imminent—possible as a prelude to Hitler's birthday.

Officials actually were more restrained in their comments, although the high command in Berlin said the southern exit of the Greek mountains has been taken in fighting and that the way would thus be open for greater use of panzer units in the country southward.

British headquarters in Athens insisted the British-Greek lines still held firmly and that the flanks had not been turned.

The resistance of British and Greek forces to the Nazi offensive near Mount Olympus was described in dispatches as approaching another Verdun. A communique said simply that British press was anything but optimistic.

"Should the moment come, as unfortunately it may, when forces of the Empire will be compelled to retire from the Greek mainland, there certainly should be neither despondency at the event nor any regret that help to Greece was undertaken," said the London Chronicle, adding that "elsewhere has been penetrated," but the "despite all efforts, our front nowhere in the middle east, particularly in Libya, the situation is full of factors that give confidence."

An indication that the government itself might be thinking along the same lines was seen in the announcement of the landing in Iraq. A British force was put ashore at Basra, at the head of the Persian gulf.

The new Iraq government, established April 4, the London announcement said, was cooperating with the British in line with assurances of Premier Sayid Hashid Ali Al Gailani. The official British explanation was that the move was made to open up lines of communication through Iraq.

The Greeks themselves had a problem on their hands—a government crisis resulting from the suicide of Premier Korizis, who had succeeded Premier General John Metaxas less than 12 weeks ago. King Peter II conferred with political and military leaders in an effort to form a new government.

In Rome, Italian dispatches from Albania pictured the Greeks as retreating all along the line from Lake Presba on the northeast to the mouth of the Adriatic on the south. War maps showed five Italian columns operating.

Virginia Gayda, Fascist editor of Il Giornale D'Italia, warned the United States that conveying supplies for Britain, trying to run the Axis blockade off Greenland and defying the nominal blockade of the Red sea might get the United States into war.

The German high command said the air force had sunk 58,000 tons of shipping in the past 24 hours.

In the southeastern Greek port of Chalkis alone 29,000 tons of transports were destroyed, the high command said.

DNB, official German news agency, said Bulgarian troops had occupied portions of Yugoslavia taken by German troops.

In Moscow, the newspaper Pravda, mouthpiece for the Communist party, described the new Soviet-Japanese neutrality pact as a bewildering blow at the plans of the United States and British interests whom it accused of conspiring to draw Russia into the war against Japan or Germany.

From Vichy, France, came word that 53 ships of some 240,000 tons have been requisitioned from France in recent months and that the newspaper Le Temps had called for governmental firmness to set a limit to the requisitioning.

Who requisitioned the ships was not stated but it was believed in New York that the Germans may have taken the ships to transport men and supplies to north Africa. The largest of the ships was the French liner de Grasse, 18,453 tons.

placed even higher than 8 per cent and that a sales tax might well be levied.

"We've voted the money for war, and now we've got to raise it," he told reporters.

Senator Reynolds, Democrat, North Carolina, expressed a similar view, and asserted that a sales tax should be given "serious consideration."

"We have no right to pass our bills along to our children and our children's children," he continued. "We must start paying now."

One congressional authority said that the new tax bill might wipe out the 10 per cent credit now allowed for "earned income." That would mean that a salaried individual would be taxed on all his income other than that exempted because of dependents.

Chairman Doughton, Democrat, North Carolina, called his house ways and means committee to hear treasury officials "make suggestions" about the new tax in a closed session Monday.

DEANNA DURBIN MURMURS 'I DO'

Screen Star Radiantly Lovely In Ivory Duchess Gown For Wedding

HOLLYWOOD, April 19.—(P)—Deanna Durbin, radiantly lovely in an ivory duchess gown, murmured a scarcely audible "I do" and became the bride of 25-year-old Vaughn Paul last night.

Several thousand fans of the golden-voiced movie songstress milled outside the swank Wilshire Methodist Episcopal edifice while inside 900 guests witnessed Hollywood's first big church wedding in nearly four years.

Nineteen-year-old Deanna obviously was nervous as she walked down the aisle on the arm of her father, James Durbin. Paul, young studio executive, replied "I do" in a clear voice to the Rev. Dr. Willis Martin's "do you take this woman..."

After a reception in Beverly Wilshire hotel Mr. and Mrs. Paul left by automobile for a wedding trip. Their destination was their secret. They will return in a month to resume film work.

Deanna's wedding gown was designed in princess style with a wide, sweeping train and long sleeves finishing in the graceful outline of a calla lily over the wrists. She wore a madonna halo of matching lace. She carried an old-fashioned bridal bouquet of white gardenias, lilies of the valley and white bouvardia, with a shower of white phalaenopsis orchids.

While she waited for the first notes of Mendelssohn's wedding march, she cautioned her bridesmaids, "walk slowly—and smile."

Deanna's invitations went only to close friends and to fellow workers—from stars to wardrobe attendants—at her Universal studio.

Among name guests were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Boyer, Edgar Bergen, Eddie Cantor, Marlene Dietrich, Melvyn Douglas, Kay Francis, Margaret Sullivan, Adolph Menjou, Basil Rathbone, Franchot Tone, Richard Arlen, Walter Brennan, Andy Devine, Judy Garland, Jon Hall, Hugh Herbert, Gene Pallette, Ray Milland, Irene Rich and Gail Patrick.

Only one executive, Producer Harry Rapf, was present from M-G-M, which passed up Deanna five years ago as having no starring future.

Andree De Segurola, former opera star who has been her voice teacher throughout her five-year movie career, was in the front row.

Paul's gift to his bride was a diamond pin. The studio gave them a silver service for twelve.

"The landlords have gone hog-wild. They have raised our rents anywhere from 15 to 200 per cent and wages haven't gone up to meet the raise."

That is the picture presented in colorful blobs to the consumer division of the National Defense Advisory Commission. The letters are pouring in from all quarters of the country—Maryland, Washington, Louisiana, Illinois, Indiana, California, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, many other states. By the dozens and scores, they have come in.

Neither the White House, to which many of the letters have come, nor Miss Harriett Elliott's consumer division, to which they were referred, could sit still and twiddle their thumbs while letters like these poured in.

Miss Elliott's division went to work. It studied the rent figures turned up by leader Lubin's statistical division of the labor department.

In a situation that changes every time a lease expires, the studies showed that rent rises were general and, though they hit localities in which defense projects were located first, they were now spreading, even into the quietest cities, like New York and Chicago.

A few of the things the studies showed were: the biggest rent increases are on properties that rent less than $50 a month. In the upper priced rent groups few increases, and even some decreases, have been shown. Indianapolis, Jacksonville, Norfolk, Birmingham, Memphis and Mobile have had better than a two per cent boost in overall rent prices since December, 1939. That of Birmingham amounted to 43 per cent. Norfolk to 51 per cent and Mobile 5.8 per cent.

With these facts in mind, they sat down and wrote a bill by which the various states could clamp down on rising rents. Here were rents out of all proportion to the value of properties in all corners of the country. Protests were piling in. The federal government had no specific powers over local rents. It was a problem for the state legislatures.

The bill drafted was turned over to Frank Bane's agency to put before the state legislatures.

It would create emergency rent commissions in the states which would investigate conditions, declare emergencies, establish regional emergency rent boards and determine fair and reasonable rent.

The bill is designed to provide a procedure which would protect tenants in defense areas from exorbitant rents, prevent disruptive rent increases, and, at the same time, assure fair and reasonable rent to landlords.

The bill would set up a state emergency rent commission of five members to be appointed by the governor, one of whom he shall designate as chairman. This commission would have the power to declare an emergency in any region, determine the "normal rent" and specify the classes of dwellings to be regulated.

Under the bill the landlord would not be able to evict the tenant so long as the latter pays the rent prescribed by the board and otherwise performs the conditions of his tenancy unless possession is required for personal occupancy by the landlord or his vendee, for purposes of remodeling or rebuilding.

For violations, landlords would be liable for double the excess of rent collected and would be subjected to fine for any actions designed to evade the act.

PRESIDENT TO MEET CANADIAN PREMIER

HYDE PARK, N. Y., April 19.—(P)—The president of the United States and the prime minister of Canada will hold a potentially significant conference tomorrow.

Possible subjects for exploration by President Roosevelt and W. L. Mackenzie King were the $7,000,000,000 lease-lend program and its myriad ramifications, war and defense financing, convoys, re-definition of combat zones and joint Canadian-American defense measures.

But the temporary White House preferred not to forecast specifically what might be discussed when the men who direct the affairs of the neighboring nations sit down for a chat in the small study in President Roosevelt's Hudson valley home.

From diplomatic quarters had come word that Mackenzie King would be interested in talking finances with Mr. Roosevelt because the Dominion was likely to have no American dollars left six months hence to pay for purchases in this country.

These sources had intimated that Canada would consider it helpful if the United States should stabilize Canadian and American dollars or amend the neutrality act to permit a loan to at least the one belligerent nation.

The chief executive arranged tentatively to start back to Washington late tomorrow, after entertaining Mackenzie King at a Sunday night supper.

selective service or national guard mobilization. Another 1,000,000 will replace them at the end of a year.

2. About 2,000,000 persons have gotten new jobs on account of defense industry. Many of these left their home communities for other localities where their skills were needed. Another 2,000,000 are expected to get jobs in the coming months.

3. Last summer, federal taxes were hiked about 10 per cent. In the next year, the treasury wants another 33 per cent increase.

4. Priorities for defense industries have taken such things as aluminum, nickel and zinc out of many everyday gadgets that people buy. Next year's pots and pans, for instance, probably will be mostly of the enamelware type. New automobiles will be 20 per cent fewer.

5. The government is actively controlling some prices, notably of steel and coal.

6. On May 1, the treasury will launch an intensive campaign to get everyone to put at least a large part of his savings in the new "defense savings bonds."

7. The army is recruiting 500,000 civilians to spot invading airplanes, if and when they come over.

8. Newspapers and the radio omit some customary details about the army, navy and British ships, airplanes and other military developments at the request of the president.

9. Transportation habits are being altered, as ships are diverted to the defense program and British aid. Defense materials crowd railroad space.

10. Passport and other regulations restrict foreign travel.

11. Business with foreigners is restricted through monetary and other factors.

The motor bus and improved highways have brought modern schools within reach of 3,500,000 children in rural areas.

ADOLF HITLER 52 YEARS OLD TODAY

German Leader Expects To Spend Day At Front Directing War

BERLIN, April 19.—(P)—Adolf Hitler, who will be 52 tomorrow, will spend his birthday at military headquarters in the field following the progress of his far-flung fighting forces.

Press Chief Dr. Otto Dietrich, one of the Fuehrer's intimates, disclosed for the first time since the beginning of the Balkan campaigns that Hitler was in the field, but did not, of course, stay exactly where.

(The presumption was that he was somewhere in the Balkans, the only active land front in Europe.)

Hitler was said to be in "vigorous health."

"On his birthday, as every other day, he will be at the chart table with his generals following hour by hour the march of his armies, painstakingly examining every movement of the enemy and meeting them with quick, often tremendously bold decisions," Dietrich's statement said.

He recalled that Hitler spent his last birthday in Berlin just after the "victory" in Norway, occupied with bold and strategic planning as he stood on the threshold of the crushing campaign in the west.

In the intervening 12 months, Belgium, Holland, France, Luxembourg and now Yugoslavia have fallen to the armies of the man who spent his 26th, 27th, 28th and 29th birthdays as a private and corporal in Germany's World War army.

At home, Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels asked the German people to display the swastika tomorrow in observance of their Fuehrer's birthday, apparently the only public manifestation for the anniversary. In peace time the day was observed with gigantic parades.

Hitler issued a proclamation today appealing for contributions to the German Red Cross and declaring that a year of tremendous battle confronts the nation.

"Historic decisions unique in extent and proportions will fall," the proclamation said.

swollen streams, lakes and great boulders. There are almost no roads.

Those of the Nazis who were captured today were taken on two sides of the camp.

Although the figure brought to 51 the number of attempts to break away from Canadian internment authorities since the first German prisoners of war were brought here, only one of the previous escapees is at large. He is Baron Franz von Werra, who dropped from a prison train and made his way to the United States, where he now is free on bail on a charge of illegal entry.

One man was shot and killed in resisting capture in the same area where last night's break occurred.

LONG'S CHILDREN TO UNVEIL STATUE

BATON ROUGE, La., April 18.—(P)—Mrs. Huey P. Long today announced her three children would unveil the newly-placed statue of Long, the late self-styled kingfish, in Statuary hall in the nation's capitol April 25.

The unveiling date was set at the request of the two Louisiana senators, John H. Overton and Allen J. Ellender, who will deliver addresses at the ceremonies.

Under congressional rule each state is entitled to place statues of two prominent citizens in the hall, under the capitol dome. The statue of Long is the first for Louisiana.

Mrs. Long said that immediately after the annual noonday senate memorial services for senators who died during the past year, there would be dedicatory services on the senate floor for Long, governor and senator from Louisiana, killed at the entrance of his offices here in September, 1935.

"There will be addresses by Allen J. Ellender and John Overton, and by Senators Robert La Follette, Progressive, Wisconsin; Gerald P. Nye, Republican, North Dakota; Hattie W. Caraway, Democrat, Arkansas; Elmer Thomas, Democrat, Oklahoma; Federal Judge Rufus E. Foster of the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals and perhaps some others."

Immediately after the addresses on the senate floor, Mrs. Long said, the statue in the rotunda will be unveiled by her children, Mrs. O. W. McFarland, the former Rose Long, and Russell and Palmer R. Long.

Addresses at the unveiling will be made by State Senator Ernest S. Clements and Senators Ellender and Overton. The sculptor, Charles Keck, will be introduced. Friends of Long were invited to attend.

According to the latest figures, 6,748 civil aircraft were produced in the United States during the year 1940, an 81 per cent increase over the number produced in 1939.

The first year 1,000,000 motor cars were sold in the United States was in 1915.

CLASSES CONDUCTED FOR EXPECTANT GRANDMAS

NEW YORK, April 19.—(P)—Classes for expectant mothers are old stuff in this modern age and classes for expectant fathers are now more or less common. But classes for expectant grandmothers—never!

That's what you'd expect most grandmothers would say—who ever heard grandmas acknowledge she didn't know about babies?—But it's already happened. The first such class heard of hereabouts opened at the Maternity Center association today and 25 women, most of them mothers of daughters expecting babies, attended.

"Some grandmothers," said Association Director Hazel Corbin, "are very set in their ways and think what was good for their babies still holds true. Well, it doesn't."

The ideas of the class, she added, was to train the grandmothers in the modern way of baby-tending—such as applying the up-to-date square diaper instead of the old-fashioned three-cornered one—and to help adjust the point of view of families for baby's arrival.

The new diapering technique was first on the curriculum and soon after the class came to order the 25 pupils were practicing on Patience, one of the school's 14 life-size dolls. (Imagine grandma doing that?)

One of the students already is a grandmother four times over but she thinks the class idea is a good one.

"Never too old to learn a new trick," she said.

How about grandpa?

"Grandpa can pick up some of the new tricks from grandma," said an association official.

AUTO RATIONING IS AMONG NEWS EVENTS

NEW YORK, April 19.—(The Special News Service)—Events broke swiftly this week to make ever clearer the outlines of the new America in which we are coming to live—a war-torn world where long-fixed personal and business habits are jolted daily into new patterns.

Higher taxes, higher wages, price-fixing, rationing of automobiles and abandonment of new models for 1943, all moved across the headlines.

Here are some of the things that happened to old habits and ways of doing business in the last seven days.

1. For the first time since the motor car became the ordinary mode of daily transportation, production is to be restricted below demand—by a million cars of 20 per cent beginning next fall.

2. Plans were laid to boost taxes 25 to 50 per cent for individuals and business concerns with the aim of raising one-third of the record $19 billion budget for federal expenditures.

3. Wage boosts totaling more than $100,000,000 went to workers in the nation's steel plants and many millions more to coal miners.

4. For the first time since the World War, and for the only time in peace, the government intervened to "freeze" the price of the chief industrial metal, steel.

5. Businessmen got for the first time an actual picture of what the government's new emergency powers (other than the taxing power) could mean to profits when the price-freeze in steel was decreed almost on the heels of the 10-cent-an-hour wage boost.

same time, she asked southern soft coal operators, who walked out of the general wage negotiations after a quarrel over north-south wage differentials, to undertake further negotiations with the U. M. W.

The southern operators said they would resume negotiations, but that they must be in Washington. U. M. W. President John L. Lewis said the miners would reenter negotiations, but the meeting must be at New York where details still were being discussed with northern operators.

Lewis turned down the Perkins proposal for separate operation of northern mines while talks with the southern operators proceeded. Both the northern operators and Lewis expressed the view that the government could help matters by assisting in a resumption of negotiation.

The peace-making efforts of federal conciliators were successful during the day at Knoxville, Tenn., where a five-day-old strike which had stopped production of army clothing was settled. About 2,000 workers in the Appalachian mills had been idle as a result of a strike called by the International Ladies Garment Workers (A. F. L.) in which was described as a protest against the dismissal of three employees.

Meanwhile, the defense mediation board found one of its tasks simplified. Representatives of the United Electrical Radio and Machine Workers and of the Minneapolis Power Implement Co., en route to Washington for a hearing on the issues of a threatened strike, all but negotiated an agreement on the train.

They asked on their arrival, that the hearing scheduled for yesterday morning be postponed while they continued their discussions. A full agreement was quickly reached and both union men and management were so pleased that they chartered a sight-seeing bus and went touring the capital together.

DAN DEBAILLON HEADS NEW BAR

LAKE CHARLES, La., April 19.—(P)—Dan DeBaillon of Lafayette was elected first president of the new Louisiana State Bar association during the final session of the two-day convention here this afternoon.

DeBaillon, unopposed, succeeded Pike Hall, Shreveport attorney, by acclamation. He had formerly served as a member of the board of governors from the Third congressional district.

LeDoux R. Provosty of Alexandria was unanimously reelected vice-president and Charles Payne Fenner, Jr., of New Orleans, was unanimously elected secretary-treasurer, succeeding St. Clair Adams of New Orleans.

Replacing DeBaillon as representative of the Third congressional district is Rene Himel of Franklin, and Ben B. Taylor, Baton Rouge, succeeded John H. Tucker, Jr., as law institute council member of the board.

Others reelected included Edward Haspel and Sumter D. Marks, Jr., both of New Orleans, representatives of the First and Second congressional Districts; J. Ralph Goff, Arcadia, Fourth district; George Gunby, Monroe, Fifth district; Cecil C. Bird, Baton Rouge, Sixth district; Wallace H. Adams, Jennings, Seventh district; and Howard G. Gist, Alexandria, Eighth district.

Others besides Taylor elected to the board of governors to represent Louisiana law schools are J. Denson Smith, Baton Rouge, Louisiana State university; Leon Sarpy, New Orleans, Loyola university; and Eugene A. Nabors, New Orleans, Tulane university, all reelected by unanimous vote. All are members of their schools' law faculties.

Federal and state gasoline taxes, standing at an estimated $1,116,000,000, amounted to 60 per cent of the 1940 automotive burden.

Judge Garrett ordered members of the commission council to appear in court Wednesday to "show why a preliminary writ of injunction should not be issued" to prohibit the construction of the overpass.

state prohibits such an action, that an "overhead passageway . . . will be a continuous nuisance, and a municipal corporation cannot license the construction of a nuisance in or on a public street for private use."

The petition alleges that in other cities where similar overpasses have been erected the streets over which they have been constructed have been relegated to "alleys" and the property values have been materially reduced as a result of such construction.

Specifically, the petition alleges that the Durrett Hardware and Furniture company will suffer in that the view of their building will be obstructed, and that it (Durrett) has "ordered an electric sign to be hung on the northwest corner of the premises" and the passageway will obstruct view of the sign; that the overpass will carry a large sign advertising The Palace's business, which is "competitive in numerous lines," and that the use of "public property for private advertising purposes constitutes and is unfair competition," and it is illegal.

The Frances Hotel, the Millsaps Realty company and the Central Savings Bank and Trust company, all parties to the injunction, claim that realty values in the area, will be materially decreased if the city grants a permit for the construction of the overpass.

A COMPARISON of prices will show that the Pontiac De Luxe "Torpedo" does cost a little more than the de luxe models of the lowest-priced three. However, this difference itself is not important. In fact, it is so slight that owners say it's hardly noticeable when spread over monthly payments.

But the extra dependability this slight difference buys is important—and in our files are hundreds of letters from owners indicating that the phrase—"Built to Last 100,000 Miles"—only begins to describe Pontiac's long life and trouble-free performance. And when you add the scores of other advantages Pontiac provides, plus the fact that Pontiac's great reputation for dependability means it's worth more to you at trade-in time, then you'll understand why more people are buying Pontiac this year than ever before. Why don't you see your Pontiac dealer today.

TECH PLANNING SPEECH CLINICS

Corrective Laboratory To Be Conducted During Summer Session

RUSTON, La., April 19.—(Special)—Plans for a speech clinic to be conducted during the summer session at Louisiana Tech have been announced by Miss Vera Alice Paul, head of the Tech speech department. Two purposes of the clinic, Miss Paul said, will be to assist teachers in the handling of minor defects in speech in children and to give the children some remedial attention.

Tech students of the summer term taking the special speech course will receive three semester hours of credit. The work will consist of five hours of lecture and two hours of laboratory a week.

Miss Paul said she would arrange for conferences with parents of children, beginning May 12, in regard to having the youngsters participate in the clinic. About a half hour will be devoted to each child per day and about 30 children can be accommodated, it was announced. The clinic will be conducted from 9 to 12 a. m. each day.

Student teachers entering the course will have the opportunity of gaining experience in handling children with defects in speech, Miss Paul stated.

SEARS WILL HOLD CANNING SCHOOL

Famous Dietetic Experts To Conduct Classes Starting Tuesday

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Hathaway, nationally famous dietetic experts, culinary specialists and home economists, will hold a four-day free cooking and canning school at Sears, Roebuck and company. The announcement was made yesterday by A. R. Wisenbaker, manager of the local Sears store.

Mr. Hathaway was featured in the Hall of Science at the World's Fair in New York. He and Mrs. Hathaway are touring the United States as representatives of the National Pressure Cooker company.

Sears' school will be held on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday afternoons at 2 o'clock. Women of the city and surrounding territory will be admitted free of charge. Mr. and Mrs. Hathaway will demonstrate the preparation of foods through the various methods of cooking, canning, baking, broiling, stewing and frying.

New recipes, household hints, menus, food samples and valuable prizes will be given to all women who attend, according to Mr. Wisenbaker, Sears manager.

Total motor vehicle registrations exceeded 30,000,000 for the first time in 1939.

FERRIDAY HIGH SCHOOL'S OUTSTANDING BAND

The Ferriday High school band, shown above, was the only Class C band entered at the Louisiana State Music Festival which was given a superior rating in concert, sight reading and marching. Bruce Jones, Little Rock, Ark., who judged the bands, was high in his praise of the Ferriday organization, which is directed by Johnny Zinna. Soloists who were given high rating included Richard Porter, bass; Marjorie Henderson, clarinet and twirling; Mary Pickler, clarinet; Mary Ann Wilgus, clarinet and twirling; Francis Fredric, twirling. The band and soloists eligible for the regional contest will attend the festival at Jackson, Miss., on May 15, 16 and 17.

Theatrical Arts May Play Big 'Good Neighbor' Role

Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Going To South America To Study Problem

EDITOR'S NOTE: Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., the cinema star, has been commissioned by President Roosevelt to tour South American cities and to study the possibilities of using the theatrical arts as a medium for better understanding between the Americas. Mr. Fairbanks, in the following article written for the Morning World Special News Service, presents an interesting discussion of inter-American relations and the role which the theatrical arts may play to achieve "good neighbor" unity.

By Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.
(As Told To Don Whitehead)
NEW YORK, New York, April 19.—(The Morning World Special News Service)—In all the history of this troubled old world there never was a time in which the theatrical arts have had the opportunity as they have today of promoting friendship and understanding between the peoples of two great continents.

At the request of President Roosevelt, I am leaving soon with my wife for a South American tour. I am hopeful that it will provide the nucleus of a program by which the theatrical arts may play an important role in the United States' "good neighbor" policy.

No one in my comparatively humble position could hope to achieve single-handed the goal of international amity, but I do hope to achieve success in adding to the sum today of improved inter-American relations.

I am not making this trip as a "good will ambassador," even though I trust it will result in a measure of good will. Frankly, I will attempt to promote the interests of my own country and at the same time obtain the reactions of the various South American peoples to our country, so that we may have a clearer conception of the problems which we face.

For the past fifty or sixty years, North and South America have in a great measure neglected each other. Both are the children of Europe, but instead of finding their youth and vitality and ideals a tie binding them together, each has gone its own way. We have kept our Anglo-Saxon culture while the South American people have kept their Latin attachments. The binding ties have been with the old world. Progress has been east and west instead of north and south.

This was not entirely wrong, of course. It was wrong only as it failed in cultivating a closer, stronger friendship between the Americas. It was a short-sighted trend developed by a blind spot in our political and social destinies.

Someone has said that there would not be nearly so much trouble in this world if the people could travel more. There would be no mass hatreds because the people would understand each other.

It is here that the theatrical arts can be a potent force, give the people a clearer understanding of their neighbors' customs, habits, and ideals. They can dispel the ignorance which spawns ill will.

I believe the arts are the most effective medium for bringing about international friendship, and probably the most difficult. But when this thing gets to rolling, it will be like a snowball rushing downhill.

It is necessary to reach the masses, because it is the conviction and beliefs of the people which mold policies. And the theatrical arts can reflect public opinion.

For the most part they aim at entertainment and do not attempt to lecture. But regardless of the technique involved, the influence can be powerful.

The best British propaganda film I ever saw was not one of ships at sea, of guns roaring, airplane streaming over the English channel or of London in flames.

The film was "Goodbye, Mr. Chips." The people who saw this picture said to themselves: "Why, these are a sweet people. They are kindly and pleasant. I like them. I like their ideals. I think it would be cozy to be among them."

And that is a much more important emotion than that evoked by scenes of a frigate going to sea with guns booming.

One of the great handicaps in making our new world understood to the old world has been our strength. We have all been virile, vital people preoccupied with our own growth.

We have been presented to the world through films, fiction and stage as a country of cynical villains, racketeers and money grabbers who have little time for the gentler side of life.

I recall a friend of mine once went to Norway. He presented his passport to a customs official who could not read or speak English. But he looked at the word "Chicago" on the passport and suddenly smiled. "Boom! boom!" he said, imitating a gangster shooting a gun.

That was the impression he had of the United States.

It's about time we in the United States showed ourselves in our true colors. We must show others we aren't really absorbed in groping for power and wealth.

We have, occasionally, in films like "Boys Town" and "Our Town," shown the people of other lands that intrinsically we are a friendly, kindly, intelligent people.

Unfortunately, now the world is in flames. And we want people to see us as we are—a sober-minded, industrious people who are a little confused when others won't take us at our word.

We have too often given a false picture of ourselves and we haven't always taken the trouble to inform ourselves about our neighbors. But now the time has come to wipe out the false picture. We must show we are a people who have faith in our institutions, who are determined to preserve our way of life, and that we are surrounded by friends with whom we stand foursquare.

It may be that upon my return to this country I shall recommend an exchange of artists and of pictures to promote understanding. We are in a position to give and take and it is essential that we give a great deal. We cannot become politically and culturally stagnant by isolation when isolation is impossible. Stagnation breeds disease and fungus growths which no one wants to go near. We want our national and international life to flow smooth and clean.

I do not mean to infer that we have not done much good with our films and plays, because we have. We have given the world a conception of a prosperous, happy way of life in which the dignity of the individual is respected.

We have shown through our songs and music that we are an optimistic, hopeful people who refuse to believe in the tragic ending. We look into the future with confidence and not with a sense of resigned futility, as do many people in the old world.

That was the spirit of my father's old films. They showed him emerging through terrible humiliation and frightening obstacles to success. Nothing was impossible.

And Charlie Chaplin's films showed the little man beaten and surrounded by all sorts of barriers—but he won out by his own simplicity. We are like that or at least that's the way we want to be.

There was no futility in the United States then and there is none today. That same spirit was shown by the Greeks and Yugoslavs in defying the axis powers. The people were not willing to enter into deals sacrificing their national honor.

I believe I will find this same vital, free spirit in South America. It should be a strong bond between the Americas.

With my wife, I will leave Miami, Fla., by clipper April 23, going to Rio de Janeiro via Trinidad. We'll spend a fortnight in Brazil and then go on to Montevideo, Buenos Aires, Santiago, Valparaiso and Lima. At the end of two months we'll return by way of Panama and I will make my report to the president.

Wish me luck!

It is estimated that taxes accruing to the federal, state and local governments from motor vehicle ownership and use increased by $140,000,000 in 1940.

WILL FEATURE WAR REPORTER

College Anniversary Program To Include Talk By Brady

As a special feature of the tenth anniversary celebration of Northeast Junior college this week, Darrell Brady, America's youngest foreign correspondent, will be the guest speaker in a program given at the college Wednesday at 10:30 a.m. At this assembly meeting, Mr. Brady will talk on "Youth's Flaming World."

Brady has been behind the war scenes on all five continents, from an ambulance driver in France to a roving Boy Scout leader in Germany. He has interviewed Hitler, journeyed to China, Australia, Singapore, and in the Dutch East Indies all in the past 14 months. His trips were made in connection with special feature writing for the Minneapolis Star-Journal.

Brady has been credited with covering more territory since the war began than any other correspondent. He took sufficient time out early last spring to address the International Rotary convention and the International Kiwanis convention, as "World's Youth Representative." He also found time to deliver a series of 40 lectures in the United States. He is not only an ace reporter, but also is said to have few equals on the platform.

This interesting speaker will be brought to Northeast Junior college through the courtesy of the Monroe Town Hall. As is the custom, the public will be invited to attend the assembly program, W. R. Hammond, chairman of the college committee on weekly assembly programs, said yesterday.

MAY ROBINSON IS 77 YEARS OLD

Celebrates '73rd Birthday' cause She's 'Growing Younger'

HOLLYWOOD, April 19.—(AP)—Robson, 77 today, is celebrating 73rd birthday.

"What's more," she says, "I live to the ripe old age of 72." Two years ago, on her 75th birthday the Australian-born actress asserted "this foolishness has gone long enough. From now on I'm going to get a year younger birthday."

"How else can I keep up with youngsters I work with?" Miss Robson, whose career spans 37 years ago on the stage, planned a man's holiday.

After dinner at the home of son Edwin H. Gore, she will see stage play, "The Time of Your Life" and then will be a guest at a midnight screening of her 60th picture "Million Dollar Baby."

Of advancing age, the actress said: "You can't avoid the wrinkles on your face but you can keep all wrinkles out of your heart if you keep it young."

Seventy-one per cent of the passenger automobiles are registered in the United States; in 1939 a record of 45,027,000 cars and trucks was reached.

and avoid "Packed" New-Car Prices!

THERE ARE TWO WAYS to judge the "deal" when you buy a new car.

One is to think about nothing but what you get for your present car—which is not so good.

The other is to consider what you pay out over and above that—and what you get for it.

That's the smart way to buy, and here's why:

New-car prices are sometimes "packed" just to allow dealers to make "fat" trade-in allowances.

Something extra that doesn't belong in the new-car price is included to make up for the extra allowance the dealer makes.

So you get a nice trade-in allowance on your present car, BUT—

You still pay out just as much in cash or time payments, and sometimes even more than you should!

Now, we positively guarantee that our prices on 1941 Buicks contain no pack.

Still we say—figure what you pay out, and consider what you get for it.

That's the best way to judge any car value—and it clearly demonstrates you can't beat a Buick if you want your biggest money's worth!

FELLER HURLS INDIANS TO WIN OVER TIGERS

YANKEES POUND OUT 5-2 VICTORY OVER SENATORS

Bosox Power At Plate Beats Fumbling Athletics By 7-2 Score

DETROIT, April 19.—(AP)—Spending all available time at the job, Bob Feller of the Cleveland Indians mastered the Detroit Tigers today, 5 to 2, to rack up his first victory of the young season even though his swift one seemed slowed down.

It was left to the veteran Gerry Walker, former fun-loving darling of the Tigers, to break it up in the eighth with his second triple of the battle, a blast to deep center with two men on.

YANKS WHIP NATS

WASHINGTON, April 19.—(AP)—The New York Yankees' heavy artillery rumbled into action in the tenth inning today, bashing out a triple, single and home run that brought a 5 to 2 decision over the Senators.

For the first nine innings Ernie Bonham and Dutch Leonard each pitched seven-hit ball. But Phil Rizzuto led off the tenth for the New Yorkers with a three-bagger that brought him in with the deciding run.

PORTER'S CAP WALKS OFF WITH CHESAPEAKE STAKES

HARVE DE GRACE, Md., April 19.—(AP)—Porter's Cap, C. S. (Lucky) Howard's good-looking Kentucky Derby candidate, served notice today that he is right and ready for the run for the roses at Churchill Downs.

Before a crowd of more than 20,000, largest of the meeting, Porter's cap made a walk-away of the $15,000-odd Chesapeake stakes, winning with ease over five opponents, including two other derby candidates and two Peabackens eligibles.

Porter's Cap scored by two and a half lengths over Mrs. Louise Palladino's derby candidate, Little Beans, recent conqueror of the highly-regarded Whirlaway in a Florida sprint.

Marion High School Wins District Baseball Crown

Melton Charges Ouachita Used Ineligible Players In Rally Tilts

RUSTON, La., April 19.—(Special)—Marion High school defeated Ruston, 6-1, here this morning, to claim the Class A baseball championship of the North Louisiana High school rally, and Simsboro trimmed Clarks, 6-3, to capture the Class B title.

The presentation of the Class A trophy to Marion, however, is being withheld, pending decisions regarding protests, M. H. Folk, Jr., rally secretary, announced.

Prior to beginning the baseball preliminaries here Friday morning, Folk said, Leo Hartman, coach of the Ouachita Parish High school diamond squad, protested the eligibility of two of the Marion players. Hartman charged that Pete Ward and Tobie Smith, Marion players, played with the Brown Paper Mill last Sunday in an exhibition game with Bastrop.

Saturday morning, the Marion principal, J. W. Melton, retaliated by handing to the rally secretary a statement protesting that Mears and Kilpatrick, Ouachita High school players, had participated in a practice game between Swartz and Baumville on March 23, 1941. He cited F. O. Patterson as a witness.

Principal Melton also wrote that "we believe that rules of the athletic association were not violated but since such a charge has been brought against the Marion High school players, we are presenting this evidence to the athletic committee for consideration." The Marion team is coached by C. W. Causey.

Folk said that the protests would be referred to the executive committee of the Louisiana High School Athletic association, of which C. L. Madden of Choudrant is president. If either of the protests is upheld, Folk indicated, the entire Class A part of the baseball rally may have to be played over. The rally secretary said he expected the matters would be settled by the middle of the coming week.

Marion went to the Class A championship by defeating Neville High school of Monroe, 7-0, in the preliminaries, trouncing Farmerville, 4-2, in the quarter-finals, and beating Ouachita, 8-2, in the semi-finals.

After drawing a bye in the preliminary bracket, Simsboro reached the heights in the Class B race by whipping Mer Rouge, 10-3, and Dubach, 11-2.

ANOTHER BANNER YEAR PREDICTED FOR LOCAL NINE

Infield Combination Will Be Same As Last Year's Championship Team

With three weeks of spring training behind them and another week to go before launching their Cotton States league campaign next Sunday at El Dorado, the Monroe White Sox are rapidly rounding into condition for defense of their league crown, and all indications are that another banner year is ahead for Taitt and company.

Prospects are so bright, in fact, that baseball fans have practically forgotten the dark winter days when rumors were current that Monroe would be without a club. However, a group of Monroe businessmen stepped in to save the Sox franchise and they wasted no time quieting fears that organized baseball would be lost here.

Because of their interest in the sport Ed Seymour, Malcolm Biedenharn, Walter Kellogg, Dr. W. L. Bendel, Clifford Strauss, William Mintz, H. K. Touchstone and M. C. McDonald took charge of the club's affairs, named F. B. Surgine as business manager and again charged Manager "Poco" Taitt with the job of developing a team.

Skipper Taitt is doing his task well, and, with the exception of the pitching staff, the club's roster is just about decided.

The 1941 outfield combination will be Dale Englehorn, Dave Philley and Bob Hill unless something unforeseen occurs. Even the return of Ed Knight yesterday after a day at Opelousas isn't expected to change the present outfield setup, and he will probably be optioned to some other club needing an outfielder.

Ernest Potoccar is tagged as the first string catcher, and Bob Hill will take turns behind the plate on double header programs. Manager Doug Taitt expects to see plenty of service in the outfield, also, and will be at work in the garden when Hill is behind the plate.

The infield is identical with the 1940 championship setup. Pete Medak will decorate first base. The keystone combination will include Bobby Burt, much improved second baseman, and Joe Egar, shortstop, and the familiar figure at third will be Guy "Red" Reeder. Larry Knight, Bob Megling, Tom Martin, Verne Williamson, Ed Langood and Phil Wells.

Perry and Knight are the only left-handers on the squad, and Wells turned pitcher after failing to outpitch at third.

Efforts to stir up a little more interest among the fans last night brought the announcement from club officials that prizes would be awarded White Sox followers who can come closest to "guessing" what the attendance figure at Casino park will be when the Sox make their home debut April 29 with El Dorado.

A coupon setting forth the rules and prize list appears elsewhere in this sports section, and all the fans have to do is fill in the blanks, mail the coupon to the Contest Editor and be at Casino park for the opener. Three prizes are being offered for the closest guesses.

The Sox will play two games at El Dorado before returning here for another two-game series with the Lions.

Manager Taitt, with no other exhibition games on tap, will spend this week giving his charges more individual attention and expects to have his squad in top form next Sunday.

NEYLAND EXPECTS CALL

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 19.—(AP)—Major Bob Neyland, University of Tennessee football coach, "is expected to be called into active duty with the United States army at once," The Commercial Appeal said tonight.

The paper said it had learned from Washington that Neyland would probably be sent to Norfolk, Va.

Plain Dealing Tracksters Win North Louisiana Rally

Homer High School Noses Out Ouachita For General Excellence Award

RUSTON, La., April 19.—(Special)—Five new records were set in the annual North Louisiana High School track and field meet at Louisiana Tech this afternoon, with Plain Dealing winning in boys' Class A, Clarks the boys' Class B, Rayville the girls' Class A and Athens the girls' Class B. Total points were as follows:

Class A boys: Plain Dealing 39, Homer 38, Ouachita Parish of Monroe 34 and Rayville 19.

Class B boys: Clarks 44, Wisner 39, Sumnerfield 37 and Harris 31½.

Girls' Class A: Rayville 32, Arcadia 20 and Jonesboro-Hodge 9. (Only three teams entered.)

Girls' Class B: Athens 29, Lisbon 22½, Clarks 14 and Gibsland 8½.

Under a new regulation of the rally association here, general excellence awards were presented this afternoon to winners on the basis of points scored in the track events and in the literary contests held here Friday.

The ruling specifies that no school may count toward the excellence trophies more than twice the number of points in track events that it scored in the literary competition. On that basis Homer High School won the Class A general excellence award with 104 points, and Wisner the Class B honor, with 108 points. Other combined results were: Ouachita Parish 102, Clarks 90, Plain Dealing 79 and Sumnerfield 72.

Herley Tripp of Springhill, heaving the shot 34 feet, 3 inches, shattered his 1940 record of 48 feet, 5 inches at the rally. Tripp also broke his last year's discus throw of 122 feet, 8 inches by a throw of 128 feet, 10 inches this afternoon.

The football shuttle relay team of Homer, with a time of 44 seconds, broke the 1939 Haynesville mark of 45.3 seconds. The new record was set by A. Blackwood, Earl Nolan, Leon Atkins and Joy Bridwell of Homer.

In the girls' shot put, Maxine Naron of Rayville, with a distance of 32 feet, 2 inches, broke the 1938 record of 31 feet, 6 inches, held by Miss Bradley of Delhi.

Yvonne McDonald of Lisbon threw the baseball 183 feet, 7 inches to beat the mark of 184 feet, 4 inches, held by Festervand of Doyleine, since the rally of 1937 at Tech.

Results of the track and field meet are as follows:

DIRECTOR

Pictured above is Dr. Emmett J. Young, formerly of Bastrop, who has been transferred from Arcadia to Ruston as director of the Lincoln parish health unit.

PRIVATE GUY M'DUFFIE IS HOME ON FURLOUGH

Private Guy L. McDuffie, of the United States marine corps, is home on a 20-day vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James P. McDuffie, 332 Stewart street, Bastrop, according to information received from the office of the United States marine corps recruiting station in the Monroe postoffice.

"Spec", as he will be recalled by his many friends in both Bastrop and Monroe, was enlisted in the marine corps last September by Sergeant Hildon B. Braswell, local recruiting officer. On the completion of his basic training at the marine corps base at San Diego, Calif., he selected the division of special troops, 2nd engineers, for his tour of duty with the marines, and is now located in San Diego headquarters.

Private McDuffie stated that he finds it easy to follow the trade of one's choice with the marines. He is now third class specialist in welding, which pays him $15 extra per month. The cardinal points of the compass are north, east, south, and west.

Monroe Housewives Turn Attention To Readying Homes For Coming Season

Summer's Advent Is Reason For Activity

New Briggs, Landry Homes Are Landscaped; Younger Set Turns Out For Kappa Delta Luncheon

By Eve C. Bradford

SUMMER really doesn't start until after Easter. Not until then do we become conscious of the stuffiness of the life we have been leading all winter. Our rugged he-men take to the out-of-doors and commence to think about fishing and camping. Bustling housewives commence their annual spring dustmop blitzkrieg. Years ago the annual spring house cleaning was a ritual but not so today. Mostly everyone keeps her home clean from day to day without turning every room upside down when the month of April rolls around.

To most women there is something altogether fascinating in rendering even one room completely uninhabitable for at least a day. It seems to quell a deep feminine urge to bind up the hair in a Turkish towel and attack the dust that has accumulated on top shelves and remote corners. They find it most exhilarating to take down the curtains, open wide the windows and let the sweet April wind and the April sunshine flood the house.

There are a lot of housewives who won't have to worry about the spring cleaning this year. They are either established in new homes or have recently had their homes redecorated, refurnished and remodeled. Never in the history of Monroe has there been so many home owners. New homes are being erected with astonishing rapidity and almost like magic gardens spring up to beautify the premises.

Alice Nelson Briggs is one person who has just become established in a shining new house and therefore will not be confronted with the spring cleaning problem. The yard, quite bereft of trees and shrubbery, has suddenly become a garden. Friends have been sending shrubbery and trees and what-not to this enthusiastic gardener. Alice's sister, Janet Powell, who winks her way semi-annually between Michigan, Louisiana and Florida, dropped in the other day en route to Detroit from Palm Beach. Tales of the shining new home were too much for her—she was quite consumed with curiosity.

Other new home owners are Sadie and Louis Landry. They urged all possible speed in its erection as they wanted the house finished down to the last nail and the last coat of paint so that the wedding following the marriage of their daughter, Jane, could take place there. It was completed just in time for this auspicious event and the entire family felt repaid for the hectic hours when Jane and her new husband, Lieutenant Schubert, stood in the midst of the shining newness to receive their friends last Wednesday morning.

Jane was one of the most beautiful brides we have ever seen. Even though she didn't wear the traditional white satin and orange blossoms, there was a shining radiance about her that impressed everyone who watched her hurrying up the aisle on the arm of her uniformed husband.

Speaking of beautiful brides we are reminded of Jennie Reynolds' sister, Frances Martin, who recently became the bride of Theodore Hays. At a reception in her honor last Thursday she looked like a heroine out of Tennyson in a sweeping white robe of the '90s.

So many young and lovelies at the Kappa Delta luncheon the Saturday before Easter at the Frances hotel. They were home from colleges and universities for the spring vacation and in several instances were arm-in-arm with the mothers who are also Kappa Deltas. Lelia Dean Frazier, exuding charm, was with her mother, Marie Frazier, who looked young enough, in a most becoming beige ensemble, to be her sister.

Bitzy McHenry, in black and white with a wide-brimmed hat, was hand-in-hand with her mother, whose tithan hair is just as lovely today as her daughter's.

Martha Kilpatrick, whose two daughters are too young for college sororities, was the essence of smartness in a black tulle with tiny flowered hat atop her beautifully coiffed hair.

The fresh, young faces around the candlelit table looked down on a perfect maze of flowers. The central decor originated in the mind of a master florist. It was a mammoth Easter egg fashioned of yellow gladioli and surmounted with a spray of white American Beauty roses. Classic white porcelain urns filled with white roses and placed at intervals along the board were linked together with garlands of ivy. When a table is so beautifully serviced and the flowers arranged with supreme artistry, it doesn't matter much about the food. On this occasion, however, the food was fit for the gods.

Yes, there really is something new under the sun. Something very lovely of which the average person is totally unaware. Anna Breard Rimes told us the other day of a little chapel tucked away among the flowers and the trees at Spring Hill College, near Mobile, where wedding vows can be repeated at a special mass of thanksgiving on the twenty-fifth wedding anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. Rimes observed their 25th anniversary last week in this solemn, sacred manner. The mass is one of great solemnity yet possesses a joyous note that gives a lift to the soul and puts a song in the heart. Mrs. Rimes said she returned from the service with a great sense of peace and joy and thankfulness for the opportunity afforded to visit this little chapel and repeat her marriage vows in the presence of her three children. W. J. Rimes, Jr., who is studying for priesthood, is a fifth-year Jesuit scholastic, studying in the Springhill College philosophy, and Robert Breard Rimes is a sophomore in the Springhill college. Their daughter, Heloise Aurora Breard, was also present.

Jessie Lee Touchstone, Cornelia McHenry, Clarice and Lesie Slagle have described that the world is really a lovely place to live in and especially the month of April when everything around them is fresh and beautiful. These four members of the sub-deb set are entertaining six friends over the week-end and are finding the days much too short for all the things they have planned to do. Friday night they were dinner guests at the Frances hotel of Cornelia's parents, Frances and Carl McHenry, and later spent the night in their hospitable home in Fairview. Saturday they motored over to Bastrop for luncheon with Mrs. George Madison and during the afternoon enjoyed a talk with Betty Sue Jones. Saturday night found this little group, comprising the four hostesses and their guests, Marjorie Ann Gilliam of El Dorado, Nancy Stone of Lake Charles, Mary Alice Griffin and Mary Ann Conley of Little Rock, Carolyn O'Brien of Shreveport and Mary Moss Madison of Bastrop, sailing up the Ouachita river on board the Malcolm Biedenharn's house boat as the guest of Jo Ann Biedenharn. Today they will be given a generous taste of the H. K. Touchstone hospitality in their charming home, with Jessie Lee doing the honors.

Mr. and Mrs. Bennett Hosts At Dinner Party

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bennett invited a few intimates to dinner Friday night complimentary to Mr. and Mrs. Theo Hays.

The dinner table covered with handsome lace over wedgewood blue satin, had for central floral decor an old fashioned nose-gay of blue blossoms fluted with blue tulle and blue satin streamers extending to the four corners.

The place cards, miniature bride's books, were inscribed with the menu which closely followed the favorite dishes of the honor guests. The ices were molded in the shape of brides' slippers.

Mrs. Bennett serviced her table in the fragile Haviland and sterling silver inherited from her great grandmother.

Demi-tasse, with wedding ring mints, was served in the living room. Mr. and Mrs. Bennett presented Mr. and Mrs. Hays with a handsome wedding gift—an electric coffee urn. It was a perfect gift for these young southerners who still observe the old southern custom of having early morning coffee.

SORORITY MEMBERS MEET...

Mangham Junior Club In Session Wednesday

Members of the Mangham Junior Literary club, who met with Mrs. N. L. Blair and Mrs. J. S. Hewitt in the home of Mrs. W. R. Graves, Wednesday night, were presented with the blue ribbon for being the most outstanding junior club in the fifth district. In a report of the district meeting in Ruston, Mrs. Paul Fraiser outlined the aims set up by Mrs. Fenn A. Leaming, state president, in her twelve-point system of clubwork.

Miss Bessie Noble, chairman of the Junior Department, in speaking of the prominent part to be played by the Juniors in the Triennial Convention in Atlantic City next month said, in part: "For two and one-half years department chairmen and officers of General Federation of Women's Clubs have been planning and working to make this the biggest and best convention that the Juniors have ever participated in, and now that the plans are nearing completion, Juniors are aware that not only are there to be more strictly Junior affairs, but also more Juniors are being included in the general plans of the convention. A Junior has been placed on every committee, thus showing a greater cooperation between Junior and Senior clubs. Aside from this, many individual duties have been assigned to Juniors. All in all, the Triennial Convention will find Juniors from all over the nation coming to their own as full-fledged club women of General Federation."

A paper on "Marriage and Divorce" given by Miss Janet Hixon included the following statements:

"The monogamous family, in which we have one husband and one wife, is found among all the more advanced peoples of the world, and is the type which more nearly conforms with our highest ethical and social ideals. In this type of family we have the husband and wife united in the care and training of the children, thereby strengthening family relationships by the proper development of affection and emotion, as well as higher religious and moral ideals.

"The laxity of marriage laws is undoubtedly a factor in the increasing number of divorces. Where it is a simple matter to secure a license and have the ceremony performed, many couples rush into marriage without giving due consideration to the responsibilities involved. This is shown by the fact that practically one-eighth of all separations leading to divorce come within a period of one year after marriage. Stricter laws are justifiable, marriage being a matter of public concern as well as private welfare."

During the business session, presided over by the president, Miss Noble, the topic, "Interesting People and Places in the United States," was selected for next year's study.

"Alice Blue Gown" was beautifully sung by Mrs. N. L. Blair, with Miss Mary Mhoon Noble, accompanist. Additional entertainment contributed by Mrs. Blair was the showing of motion pictures taken in New York, Washington, D. C., and Florida.

Delicious refreshments were served to the following members: Mrs. N. L. Blair, Miss Faye Brunson, Mrs. T. D. Case, Mrs. F. A. Childress, Miss Ola Cooper, Mrs. Paul Fraiser, Mrs. R. Gieger, Mrs. R. F. Hatch, Mrs. J. S. Hewitt, Miss Janet Hixon, Mrs. G. C. Kitchens, Mrs. R. L. Matthews, Jr., Mrs. John R. McElwee, Miss Bessie Noble, Miss Ada Preston, Miss Mary Mhoon Noble, Miss Marjorie Wooten.

Fern Pendergrast and Henry Ray are married. Mr. and Mrs. Julian Grey Pendergrast of Grenada, Miss., formerly of Monroe, announce the marriage of their daughter, Fern Llewellyn, to Mr. Henry Jonathan Ray, Jr., March 24.

The bride, a popular member of Monroe's younger set during her residence in this city, is a graduate of Neville High school and attended Northeast Junior college. She is a member of Delta Beta Sigma sorority and was chosen Phi Kappa fraternity sponsor for 1940.

Mr. Ray is a graduate of Washington and Lee university, Va., and is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity.

Kappa Delta Members Attend Luncheon Here

Artistic Arrangement Of Flowers Decorates Mirror Room Of Hotel Frances

The flowers adorning the luncheon table in the Mirror room of Hotel Frances where members of Kappa Delta sorority were hostesses, were arranged with supreme artistry and considered by the guests to be a floral master stroke.

The table was developed in the sorority colors, green and white, with the Easter theme interwoven in effective manner. The central decor was an enormous Easter egg fashioned of pale yellow gladioli surmounted with a wide-spreading spray of white American Beauty roses. White urns overflowing with white iris were placed at intervals along the board and linked together with strands of ivy and fern. White candles in crystal candelabra gleamed at vantage points.

Miss Lelia Dean Frazier, home from the state university, presided as toastmistress. She introduced Miss Anne Goynne, who led in prayer, and Miss Betty Rinehart, who entertained with a beautiful voice number. Miss Evelyn Jarrell related in interesting manner the activities of Epsilon chapter. Miss Emma Jean Maroney talked on the varied interests and activities of Alpha Chi chapter.

The principal speaker was Mrs. Arnold Perkins of Baton Rouge. She stressed the need for cooperation between the alumnae and active members of Kappa Delta.

Singing in unison of Kappa Delta songs completed the program. A luscious five-course luncheon was faultlessly served to members of Epsilon, Alpha Chi, and Gamma chapters.

the fifth district, American citizenship. A true or false contest was arranged by Mrs. S. A. Collins, chairman of international relations, followed by a short talk given by Mrs. Collins on "The Value of the Pan-American Union."

Mrs. E. N. Thompson was welcomed into the club as a new member, "Ember Lane," by Sheila K. Smith, who said in part:

"A strangely fascinating, intensely moving novel, 'Ember Lane' tells the story of a group of people who fell suddenly under the shadow of an old tragedy. It is one of the most enchanting and heart-warming novels the author has written, this winter's tale of a long-forgotten mystery which came out of the Sussex moor of a hundred years ago to lay its light fingers across the lives of a handful of modern men and women and to shape the course which, fatalistically, they followed.

"Its shadow fell over Honeywell farm, where one night Jess Marlet waited uneasily for Greg; over Loats farm, where Cabales went in hostile silence about their nightly chores; and over the Woodborn parsonage, where Greg Marlet sat in a lamplit room with Brenda. Light it fell most of all on Brenda's daughter, Lucinda, a slender creature with creamy skin and a nimbus of pale gold hair who moved within a world of her own.

"Yet it was Lucinda alone who understood the unhappiness and tragedy that threatened, who knew what horror hung over them all. It was all bound up, she knew, with something that had happened in this same Sussex countryside a long time ago. And now it was about to happen again.

"Out of the forces that tangled the lives of these people, out of the fate that touched them all, Miss Smith has written a delightful and absorbing novel."

A talk on "Public Health," was given by Mrs. A. L. Peters. At the conclusion of the meeting, delicious refreshments were served to the following: Mrs. J. B. Collins, Mrs. S. A. Collins, Mrs. C. C. Lindsey, Mrs. M. M. Munholland, Mrs. A. L. Peters, Mrs. John Pracher, Mrs. J. T. Pugh, Mrs. J. M. Russell, Mrs. C. R. Tidwell, Mrs. J. E. Whitfield, Mrs. W. A. Whitfield, Mrs. Fred Coon and Mrs. E. N. Thompson.

A wedding characterized by simplicity was that of Mrs. Henrietta Parker and William F. Prickett, which took place Saturday afternoon, April 5 at the Methodist parsonage with Rev. O. L. Tucker performing the ceremony in the presence of a few close friends.

Mrs. Prickett wore an attractive cell and navy blue ensemble with harmonizing accessories and a corsage of spring carnations and blue cornflowers.

Mrs. Prickett is associated with the Louisiana Power and Light company. Mr. Prickett is president of the Winnsboro State Bank and Trust company.

Mrs. Hays Honoree Plans For Canteen Corp

Claiming prominence among many charming events of the week was the tea honoring Mrs. T. Hays, a bride of recent date, in the home of Mrs. Walter Neal Reynolds with Mrs. James O. Hastings, hostess.

The spacious reception suite aglow with spring flowers of every hue overflowing from classic shaped urns placed in the background. The dining room was developed in white with white snapdragons and bridal wreaths arranged with considerable artistic placed advantageously. The fashionable "sitting" room and dining sun parlor were adorned with purple iris from the gardens of hostesses.

Mrs. Reynolds was wearing a beautiful black crepe model with a corsage of Tallman roses. Mrs. Hastings wore a summery gown of cornflower blue with lace insets and a corsage of cornflowers and pink roses. Mrs. James L. Martin, Sr., mother of the guest of honor, wore a lovely gown of lilac colored lace with a corsage of Dutch blue iris.

Mrs. Hays, the guest of honor, wore a distinctive gown of white swiss Empress Josephine period. A quail Empress cap fashioned of orange blossoms was worn. Her corsage gift from her hostesses, was white roses.

Assisting in the courtesies were Mrs. James L. Martin, Sr., Mrs. D. Hays, Mrs. B. C. Tibbets, Mrs. J. T. Martin, Mrs. O. N. Reynolds, A. Daphne Black and Miss Elizabeth Hadley of Ruston.

Mrs. George Austin extended courtesies in the dining room where Mrs. C. Carlos Smith and Mrs. Edw. Stinson, in lovely afternoon mod, presided over the silver coffee service. Others assisting in serving the sandwiches, tea cakes, mints and pastries, were Mrs. George Hays, Mrs. Fred Bennett, Miss Lallage Frazier, Mrs. Claudia Norris and Mrs. Sarah Alice Norris.

The tea table, beautifully served in silver was adorned with calla lilies and while snapdragons fashioned in unique and artistic manner. Silver candlesticks supporting white tapers were placed on oval reflect at the four corners. The central corner was lovingly sent to Mrs. J. Clayton Hays, who was unable to attend.

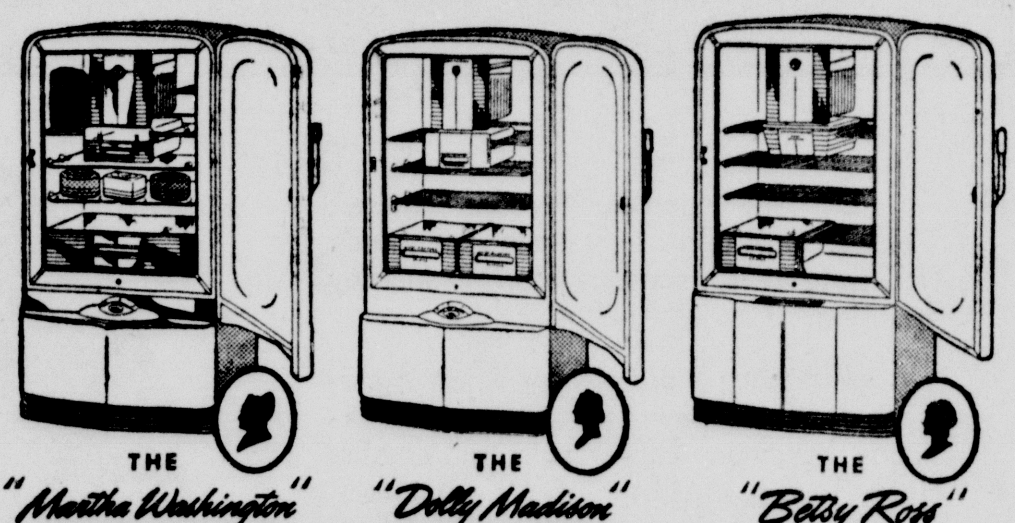

From the dining room the guests were invited into the "sitting" room where Mrs. Joseph Landreaux, Mrs. Robert O'Dell and Mrs. Haakon N. sen presided over the "bride's" table where the guests were requested to register. A doll bride in wedding raiment adorned the marble-top table where the guests registered.

Mrs. F. C. Hundley, Mrs. L. M. Frazier, Miss Margaret Gaskin, presided in sun parlor. Vonette Austin wear a French tulle frock and Betty Bennett in white organza invited guests to visit the garden before departure.

Miss Jane Landry And Lieutenant Walter Schubert Are United In Marriage

Charming Simplicity Marks Ceremony Here

Couple Leaves For Wedding Trip On Gulf Coast; To Reside In Hattiesburg, Miss.

A wedding characterized by charming simplicity and ceremonial dignity, was that of Miss Jane Landry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Patrick Landry of this city and Lieutenant Walter F. Schubert, son of Mrs. Marie Schubert of Jacksonville, Fla., Wednesday morning, April 16, at 10:30 o'clock at the First Methodist church with the pastor, Rev. A. M. Freeman, officiating.

The pristine beauty of early springtime was reflected in the beautiful flowers, white iris, spirea and picturesque branches of bridal wreath overflowing from tall, white wrought-iron standards forming a semi-circle for members of the wedding party.

While the guests were being seated, pre-nuptial concert was rendered by Mr. Leon Hammond, organist, and Mrs. Triscote Trousdale, Jr., soloist. Mrs. Trousdale sang in lovely voice, Franz Schubert's "Ave Maria."

The bride's only attendant was Miss Nell DeLee. She wore a beautiful costume suit of dusty rose crepe with a flat-topped hat of the same color. A corsage of pink sweetheart roses was in perfect harmony.

Lieutenant Schubert was attended by Mr. Robert Carson Chinn.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a smart Junior Guild model of aquamarine with hip length jacket. A small, toast-colored straw hat with shoulder veil of the same color, and all accessories of toast color, were worn. A corsage of bronze orchids created a distinctive note. For something old she carried an imported fish lace handkerchief carried by the bridegroom's mother on her wedding day.

An informal reception at the handsome new home of the bride's parents in Auburn avenue, took place immediately following the wedding ceremony.

Pink wyeelia, in perfect harmony with the furnishings of the reception suite and dining room, overflowed from urns placed at vantage points. These beautiful blossoms also banked the mantels.

Mrs. Landry received in a Cell blue model with beige accessories and a corsage of gardenias. The bridegroom, who was introduced by Mr. Carson Chinn, wore a navy blue ensemble with corsage of white gardenias.

The bride's table in the dining room was developed in white and silver with an oblong plaque of white iris flanked by silver candelabra supporting tall white tapers. Silver compotes held a variety of confections.

After the bride had cut her wedding cake, she changed for a smartly tailored navy blue crepe and taffeta ensemble with a navy blue redingote and a wide-brimmed white straw sailor hat. Her wedding corsage of orchids added distinction.

Lieutenant and Mrs. Schubert will spend their honeymoon on the gulf coast and New Orleans and later will reside at home in Hattiesburg, Miss., where Lieutenant Schubert is stationed at Camp Shelby.

The bride, one of the loveliest members of Monroe's younger set, attended Sullins college in Virginia and the Louisiana State university at Baton Rouge. She is a member of Tri Delta and Delta Beta Sigma sororities.

Lieutenant Schubert is a graduate of the University of Florida and the Louisiana State university. He is a member of Phi Kappa Tau fraternity.

Claiming the interest of friends is the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Breard of the marriage of their daughter, Miss Dorothy Bailey Breard to Mr. Warren Ward Curlee, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Ward Curlee of Philadelphia, Penn., April 12th at the home of Rev. W. L. Jones, Methodist minister.

The impressive ring ceremony was witnessed by a few intimate friends. The bride wore a lovely blue model with beige accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses. Mrs. Curlee is a graduate of Neville High school and Monroe Commercial, and is associated with the Ouachita department of public welfare.

Mr. Curlee is a graduate of Temple University, Philadelphia and took a year's graduate work at the University of New York. He is associated with the auditing department of W. Force Williams company, Leesville, La.

Mrs. W. A. Marshall of Georgetown, Miss., announces the marriage of her daughter, Myrtle Carroll, of West Monroe, to Roy De Freese of Lumberton, Miss.

The marriage was solemnized Saturday, April 5, at Gallman, Miss., with Rev. P. F. Herring, officiating.

Mr. De Freese is manager of a tung company for a number of years.

Mr. De Freese is manager of a tung company near Lumberton, Miss., where he and Mrs. De Freese will make their home.

Miss Edna Arnold And Charles Riddick Marry

Popular Young Couple Wed At Trinity Lutheran Church In Ceremony Here Last Sunday

A wedding characterized by simplicity and one in which the interest of a wide circle of friends is centered was that of Miss Edna Arnold, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene G. Arnold, and Mr. Charles Edwin Riddick, son of Mrs. Bessie Riddick, Sunday evening, April 13, at Trinity Lutheran church, with the pastor, Rev. Vernon Grosse, officiating.

Beautiful flowers formed a springtime setting for the wedding party with sheaves of Easter lilies predominating. Tall standards, overflowing with picturesque branches of bridal wreath, were placed in the background.

Mr. Max Kulcke, Sr., rendered a pre-nuptial organ concert and accompanied the soloist, Miss Johnette Regier. She sang in beautiful voice, "I Love You Truly."

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Marie Arnold, who wore a dusty rose-colored model with hat and other accessories of powder blue. She wore a corsage of valley lilies.

Miss Annie Marjorie Pohl, who lighted the tapers, wore a navy blue triple sheer model with a pote bonnet and accessories of white. She wore a corsage of pink and orchid chrysanthemums.

Mr. Paul Arnold and Mr. Carl Flannery served as ushers. The best man was Mr. Vernon Riddick.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a lovely model of powder blue with blue lace yoke and a hip length jacket. Her hat was of dusty rose with a shoulder length veil of navy blue and other accessories of navy. A corsage of orchids and valley lilies was worn.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents on North Sixth street.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold were assisted in extending courtesies by Mrs. Bessie Riddick, Miss Marie Arnold and Mr. Vernon Riddick.

Refreshments were served in the dining room where the bride's table, covered with handsome lace, had for central decor a three-tiered wedding cake embossed in roses and valley lilies. Individual wedding cakes, wedding ring mints and fruit frappe were served. Mrs. George Ilg presided over the punch bowl.

Following the cutting of the cake the bride and bridegroom motored to Memphis and other points in Tennessee for a honeymoon. Upon their return they will be at home at 419 Stubbs avenue, this city.

The bride, a young woman of lovely personality, is a graduate of the Ouachita Parish High school and the Monroe Commercial school. She was selected sponsor for Alpha Delta Kappa sorority and served as secretary of the Young Business and Professional Women's club.

Mr. Riddick is a graduate of the Neville High school. He is associated with McCain-Richards Motor Company, as manager of the parts department.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were: Mrs. Harry Smith of Memphis, Mrs. M. Hornung, Mrs. W. P. Small, Mrs. George and daughter, Marion, of New Orleans, Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Book and daughter, and Mr. and Mrs. John T. Book of El Dorado.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond John announce the arrival of a son, Raymond Howard, April 16. The maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Howard of Lake Providence and the paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Mike John of this city.

Friends will be glad to know that Miss Mary Eleanor (Sis) Coverdale is now convalescing from a recent dental operation and is at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Coverdale. Miss Coverdale will be unable to return to her studies at the state university for several weeks.

Mrs. Juliet Marx, New York City, will arrive Monday to visit her two sisters, Mrs. Sig Masur and Mrs. Evelyn Reims.

Summer's Advent Is Reason For Activity

By Eve C. Bradford

SUMMER really doesn't start until after Easter. Not until then do we become conscious of the stuffiness of the life we have been leading all winter. Our rugged he-men take to the out-of-doors and commence to think about fishing and camping. Bustling housewives commence their annual spring dustmop blitzkrieg. Years ago the annual spring house cleaning was a ritual but not so today. Mostly everyone keeps her home clean from day to day without turning every room upside down when the month of April rolls around.

To most women there is something altogether fascinating in rendering even one room completely uninhabitable for at least a day. It seems to quell a deep feminine urge to bind up the hair in a Turkish towel and attack the dust that has accumulated on top shelves and remote corners. They find it most exhilarating to take down the curtains, open wide the windows and let the sweet April wind and the April sunshine flood the house.

There are a lot of housewives who won't have to worry about the spring cleaning this year. They are either established in new homes or have recently had their homes redecorated, refurnished and remodeled. Never in the history of Monroe has there been so many home owners. New homes are being erected with astonishing rapidity and almost like magic gardens spring up to beautify the premises.

Alice Nelson Briggs is one person who has just become established in a shining new house and therefore will not be confronted with the spring cleaning problem. The yard, quite bereft of trees and shrubbery, has suddenly become a garden. Friends have been sending shrubbery and trees and what-not to this enthusiastic gardener. Alice's sister, Janet Powell, who wings her way semi-annually between Michigan, Louisiana and Florida, dropped in the other day en route to Detroit from Palm Beach. Tales of the shining new home were too much for her—she was quite consumed with curiosity.

Other new home owners are Sadie and Louis Landry. They urged all possible speed in its erection as they wanted the house finished down to the last nail and the last coat of paint so that the reception following the marriage of their daughter, Jane, could take place there. It was completed just in time for this auspicious event and the entire family felt repaid for the hectic hours when Jane and her new husband, Lieutenant Schubert, stood in the midst of the shining newness to receive their friends last Wednesday morning.

Jane was one of the most beautiful brides we have ever seen. Even though she didn't wear the traditional white satin and orange blossoms, there was a shining radiance about her that impressed everyone who watched her hurrying up the aisle on the arm of her uniformed husband.

Speaking of beautiful brides we are reminded of Jennie Reynolds' sister, Frances Martin, who recently became the bride of Theodore Hays. At a reception in her honor last Thursday she looked like a heroine out of Tennyson in a sweeping white robe of the '80s.

So many young and lovelies at the Kappa Delta luncheon the Saturday before Easter at the Frances hotel. They were home from colleges and universities for the spring vacation and in several instances were arm-in-arm with the mothers who are also Kappa Deltas. Lelia Dean Frazier, exuding charm, was with her mother, Marie Frazier, who looked young enough in a most becoming beige ensemble, to be her sister.

Bitzy McHenry, in black and white with a wide-brimmed hat, was hand-in-hand with her mother, whose tulle hair is just as lovely today as her daughter's.

SORORITY MEMBERS MEET . . .

Mangham Junior Club In Session Wednesday

Members of the Mangham Junior Literary club, who met with Mrs. N. L. Blair and Mrs. J. S. Hewitt in the home of Mrs. W. R. Graves, Wednesday night, were presented with the blue ribbon for being the most outstanding junior club in the fifth district. In a report of the district meeting in Ruston, Mrs. Paul Fraiser outlined the aims set up by Mrs. Fenn A. Leaming, state president, in her twelve-point system of clubwork.

Miss Bessie Noble, chairman of the Junior Department, in speaking of the prominent part to be played by the Juniors in the Triennial Convention in Atlantic City next month said, in part: "For two and one-half years department chairmen and officers of General Federation of Women's Clubs have been planning and working to make this the biggest and best convention that the Juniors have ever participated in, and now that the plans are nearing completion, Juniors are aware that not only are there to be more strictly Junior affairs, but also more Juniors are being included in the general plans of the convention. A Junior has been placed on every committee, thus showing a greater cooperation between Junior and Senior clubs. Aside from this, many individual duties have been assigned to Juniors. All in all, the Triennial Convention will find Juniors from all over the nation coming in to their own as full-fledged club women of General Federation."

A paper on "Marriage and Divorce" given by Miss Janet Hixon included the following statements:

"The monogamous family, in which we have one husband and one wife, is found among all the more advanced peoples of the world, and is the type which more nearly conforms with our highest ethical and social ideals. In this type of family we have the husband and wife united in the care and training of the children, thereby strengthening family relationships by the proper development of affection and emotion, as well as higher religious and moral ideals."

"The laxity of marriage laws is undoubtedly a factor in the increasing number of divorces. Where it is a simple matter to secure a license and have the ceremony performed, many couples rush into marriage without giving due consideration to the responsibilities involved. This is shown by the fact that practically one-eighth of all separations leading to divorce come within a period of one year after marriage. Stricter laws are justifiable, marriage being a matter of public concern as well as private welfare."

During the business session, presided over by the president, Miss Noble, the topic, "Interesting People and Places in the United States," was selected for next year's study.

"Alice Blue Gown" was beautifully sung by Mrs. N. L. Blair with Miss Mary Moon Noble, accompanist. Additional entertainment contributed by Mrs. Blair was the showing of motion pictures taken in New York, Washington, D. C., and Florida.

Delicious refreshments were served to the following members: Mrs. N. L. Blair, Miss Faye Brunson, Mrs. T. D. Case, Mrs. F. A. Childress, Miss Ola Cooper, Mrs. Paul Fraiser, Mrs. R. C. Gieger, Mrs. R. F. Hatch, Mrs. J. S. Hewitt, Miss Janet Hixon, Mrs. G. C. Kitchens, Mrs. R. L. Matthews, Jr., Mrs. John R. McElwee, Miss Bessie Noble, Miss Ada Preston, Miss Mary Moon Noble, Miss Marjorie Wooten.

Fern Pendergrast And Henry Ray Are Married

Mr. and Mrs. Julian Grey Pendergrast of Grenada, Miss., formerly of Monroe, announce the marriage of their daughter, Fern Llewellyn, to Mr. Henry Jonathan Ray, Jr., March 24.

The bride, a popular member of Monroe's younger set during her residence in this city, is a graduate of Neville High school and attended Northeast Junior college. She is a member of Delta Beta Sigma sorority and was chosen Phi Kappa fraternity sponsor for 1940.

Mr. Ray is a graduate of Washington and Lee university, Va., and is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity.

Kappa Delta Members Attend Luncheon Here

The flowers adorning the luncheon table in the Mirror room of Hotel Frances where members of Kappa Delta sorority were hostesses, were arranged with supreme artistry and considered by the guests to be a floral master stroke.

The table was developed in the sorority colors, green and white, with the Easter theme interwoven in effective manner. The central decor was an enormous Easter egg fashioned of pale yellow gladioli surmounted with a wide-spreading spray of white American Beauty roses. White urns overflowing with white iris were placed at intervals along the board and linked together with strands of ivy and fern. White candles in crystal candelabra gleamed at vantage points.

Miss Lelia Dean Frazier, home from the state university, presided as toastmistress. She introduced Miss Anne Goynne, who led in prayer, and Miss Betty Rinehart, who entertained with a beautiful voice number. Miss Evelyn Jarrell related in interesting manner the activities of Epsilon chapter. Miss Emma Jean Maroney talked on the varied interests and activities of Alpha Chi chapter.

The principal speaker was Mrs. Arnold Perkins of Baton Rouge. She stressed the need for cooperation between the alumnae and active members of Kappa Delta.

Singing in unison of Kappa Delta songs completed the program.

A luscious five-course luncheon was faultlessly served to members of Epsilon, Alpha Chi, and Gamma chapters.

the fifth district, American citizenship. A true or false contest was arranged by Mrs. S. A. Collins, chairman of international relations, followed by a short talk given by Mrs. Collins on "The Value of the Pan-American Union."

Mrs. E. N. Thompson was welcomed into the club as a new member. "Ember Lane," by Sheila K. Smith, was reviewed by Mrs. J. B. Collins, who said in part:

"A strangely fascinating, intensely moving novel, 'Ember Lane' tells the story of a group of people who fell suddenly under the shadow of an old tragedy. It is one of the most enchanting and heart-warming novels the author has written, this winter's tale of a long-forgotten mystery which came out of the Sussex moor of a hundred years ago to lay its light fingers across the lives of a handful of modern men and women and to shape the course which, fatalistically, they followed."

"Its shadow fell over Honeywell farm, where one night Jess Marlet waited uneasily for Greg, over Loats farm, where Cabals went in hostile silence about their nightly chores; and over the Woodborn parsonage, where Greg Marlett sat in a lamplight room with Brenda Light. It fell most of all on Brenda's daughter, Lucinda, a slender creature with creamy skin and a nimbus of pale gold hair who moved within a world of her own."

"Yet it was Lucinda alone who understood the unhappiness and tragedy that threatened, who knew what horror hung over them all. It was all bound up, she knew, with something that had happened in this same Sussex countryside a long time ago. And now it was about to happen again—

"Out of the forces that tangled the lives of these people, out of the fate that touched them all, Miss Smith has written a delightful and absorbing novel."

A talk on "Public Health," was given by Mrs. A. L. Peters. At the conclusion of the meeting, delicious refreshments were served to the following: Mrs. J. B. Collins, Mrs. S. A. Collins, Mrs. C. C. Lindley, Mrs. M. M. Muncholland, Mrs. A. L. Peters, Mrs. John Pracher, Mrs. J. T. Pugh, Mrs. J. M. Russell, Mrs. C. R. Tidwell, Mrs. J. E. Whitfield, Mrs. W. A. Whitfield, Mrs. Fred Coon and Mrs. E. N. Thompson.

A wedding characterized by simplicity was that of Mrs. Henrietta Parker and William F. Prickett, which took place Saturday afternoon, April 5 at the Methodist parsonage with Rev. O. L. Tucker performing the ceremony in the presence of a few close friends.

Mrs. Prickett wore an attractive cell and navy blue ensemble with harmonizing accessories and a corsage of spring carnations and blue cornflowers.

Mrs. Prickett is associated with the Louisiana Power and Light company. Mr. Prickett is president of the Winnsboro State Bank and Trust company.

Mrs. Hays Honoree Plans For Canteen Corp

Claiming prominence among many charming events of the week was the tea honoring Mrs. T. Hays, a bride of recent date, in home of Mrs. Walter Neal Reynold with Mrs. James O. Hastings, hostess.

The spacious reception suite aglow with spring flowers of every hue overflowing from classic shaped urns placed in the background. The dining room was developed in white with white snapdragons and bridal wreaths arranged with considerable artistry placed advantageously. The fashionable "sitting" room and dining sun parlor were adorned with purple iris from the gardens of hostesses.

Mrs. Reynolds was wearing a beautiful black crepe model with a corsage of Tullman roses. Mrs. Hastings wore a summery gown of cornflower blue with lace insets and a corsage of cornflowers and pink roses. Mrs. James L. Martin, Sr., mother of the guest of honor, wore a lovely gown of lilac colored lace with a corsage of Dutch blue iris.

Mrs. Hays, the guest of honor, wore a distinctive gown of white swiss Empress Josephine period. A quail Empress cap fashioned of orange blossoms was worn. Her corsage gift from her hostesses, was white roses.

Assisting in the courtesies were Mrs. James L. Martin, Sr., Mrs. D. Hays, Mrs. B. C. Tibbets, Mrs. J. T. Martin, Mrs. O. N. Reynolds, Mrs. Daphne Black and Miss Elizabeth Hadley of Ruston.

Mrs. George Austin extended cordialities in the dining room where Mrs. C. Carlos Smith and Mrs. Edw. Stinson, in lovely afternoon mode presided over the silver coffee service. Others assisting in serving the sandwiches, tea cakes, mints, pastries, were Mrs. George Hays, Mrs. Fred Bennett, Miss Lallage Fazel, Miss Claudia Norris and Mrs. Sarah Alice Norris.

The tea table, beautifully served in silver was adorned with calla lilies and white snapdragon fashioned unique and artistic manner. Silver candelsticks supporting white tapers were placed on oval reflect at the four corners. The central corner was lovingly sent to Mrs. J. Clayton Hays, who was unable to present.

From the dining room the guests were invited into the "sitting" room where Mrs. Joseph Landreaux, Mrs. Robert O'Dell and Mrs. Haakon Olsen presided over the "brides" where the guests were requested to register. A doll bride in wedding garment adorned the marble-top table where the guests registered.

Mrs. F. C. Hundley, Mrs. L. M. F. Miss Margaret Gaskin, presided in sun parlor. Vonette Austin wear a French taffeta frock and Betty Bennett in white organza invited guests to visit the garden before parture.

Charming Simplicity Marks Ceremony Here

A wedding characterized by charming simplicity and ceremonial dignity, was that of Miss Jane Landry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Patrick Landry of this city and Lieutenant Walter F. Schubert, son of Mrs. Marie Schubert of Jacksonville, Fla., Wednesday morning, April 16, at 10:30 o'clock at the First Methodist church with the pastor, Rev. A. M. Freeman, officiating.

The pristine beauty of early springtime was reflected in the beautiful flowers, white iris, spirea and picturesque branches of bridal wreath overflowing from tall, white wrought iron standards forming a semi-circle for members of the wedding party. While the guests were being seated, pre-nuptial concert was rendered by Leon Hammond, organist, and Mrs. Truesdale, Jr., soloist. Mrs. Truesdale sang in lovely voice, Franz Schubert's "Ave Maria."

The bride's only attendant was Miss Nell DeLee. She wore a beautiful costume suit of dusty rose crepe with a matching hat of the same color. A corsage of pink sweetheart roses was in perfect harmony.

Lieutenant Schubert was attended by Mr. Robert Carson Chinn. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a smart Junior Guild model of aquamarine with hip length jacket. A small, toast-colored straw hat with shoulder veil of the same color and all accessories of toast color, were worn. A corsage of bronze orchids created a distinctive note. For something old she carried an imported Irish lace handkerchief carried by the bridegroom's mother on her wedding day.

An informal reception at the handsome new home of the bride's parents on Auburn avenue, took place immediately following the wedding ceremony.

Pink wyeelia, in perfect harmony with the furnishings of the reception suite and dining room, overflowed from urns placed at vantage points. These beautiful blossoms also banked the mantels.

Mrs. Landry received in a Ceil blue model with beige accessories and a corsage of gardenias. The bride's mother, who was introduced at this time, wore a navy blue ensemble with corsage of white gardenias.

After the bride had cut her wedding cake, she changed for a smartly tailored navy blue crepe and taffeta ensemble with a navy blue redingote and a wide-brimmed white straw sailor hat. Her wedding corsage of orchids added distinction.

Lieutenant and Mrs. Schubert will spend their honeymoon on the gulf coast and New Orleans and later will be at home in Hattiesburg, Miss., where Lieutenant Schubert is stationed at Camp Shelby.

The bride, one of the loveliest members of Monroe's younger set, attended Sullins college in Virginia and the Louisiana state university at Baton Rouge. She is a member of Tri Delta and Delta Beta Sigma sororities.

Lieutenant Schubert is a graduate of the University of Florida and the Louisiana State university. He is a member of Phi Kappa Tau fraternity.

Claiming the interest of friends is the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Breard of the marriage of their daughter, Miss Dorothy Bailey Breard to Mr. Warren Ward Curlee, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Ward Curlee of Philadelphia, Penn., April 12th at the home of Rev. W. L. Jones, Methodist minister.

The impressive ring ceremony was witnessed by a few intimate friends. The bride wore a lovely blue model with beige accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses. Mrs. Curlee is a graduate of Neville High school and Monroe Commercial, and is associated with the Ouachita department of public welfare.

CUT WEDDING CAKE . . . Mrs. Charles Edwin Riddick, formerly Miss Edna Arnold, and her husband cut their wedding cake before departing on their honeymoon. The reception was held in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Arnold, following the wedding at Trinity Lutheran church.

Miss Edna Arnold And Charles Riddick Marry

Popular Young Couple Wed At Trinity Lutheran Church In Ceremony Here Last Sunday

A wedding characterized by simplicity and one in which the interest of a wide circle of friends is centered was that of Miss Edna Arnold, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene G. Arnold, and Mr. Charles Edwin Riddick, son of Mrs. Bessie Riddick, Sunday evening, April 13, at Trinity Lutheran church, with the pastor, Rev. Vernon Grosse, officiating.

Beautiful flowers formed a springtime setting for the wedding party with sheaves of Easter lilies predominating. Tall standards, overflowing with picturesque branches of bridal wreath, were placed in the background.

Mr. Max Kulcke, Sr., rendered a pre-nuptial organ concert and accompanied the soloist, Miss Johnette Register. She sang in beautiful voice, "I Love You Truly."

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Marie Arnold, who wore a dusty rose-colored model with hat and other accessories of powder blue. She wore a corsage of valley lilies.

Mr. Paul Arnold and Mr. Carl Flannery served as ushers. The best man was Mr. Vernon Riddick.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a lovely model of powder blue with blue lace yoke and a hip length jacket. Her hat was of dusty rose with a shoulder length veil of navy blue and other accessories of navy. A corsage of orchids and valley lilies was worn.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold were assisted in extending courtesies by Mrs. Bessie Riddick, Miss Marie Arnold and Mr. Vernon Riddick.

Refreshments were served in the dining room where the bride's table, covered with handsome lace, had for central decor a three-tiered wedding cake embossed in roses and valley lilies. Individual wedding cakes, wedding ring mints and fruit frappe were served. Mrs. George Illg presided over the punch bowl.

Following the cutting of the cake the bride and bridegroom motored to Memphis and other points in Tennessee for a honeymoon. Upon their return they will be at home at 410 Stubbs avenue, this city.

The bride, a young woman of lovely personality, is a graduate of the Ouachita Parish High school and the Monroe Commercial school. She was selected sponsor for Alpha Delta Kappa sorority and served as secretary of the Young Business and Professional Women's club.

Mr. Riddick is a graduate of the Neville High school. He is associated with McCain-Richards Motor Company, as manager of the parts department.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were: Mrs. Harry Smith of Memphis; Mrs. M. Hornung, Mrs. W. E. Small, Mrs. George and daughter, Marion, of New Orleans; Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Book and daughter, and Mr. and Mrs. John T. Book of El Dorado.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond John announce the arrival of a son, Raymond Howard, April 16. The maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Howard of Lake Providence and the paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Mike John of this city.

Friends will be glad to know that Miss Mary Eleanor (Sis) Coverdale is now convalescing from a recent dental operation and is at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Coverdale. Miss Coverdale will be unable to return to her studies at the state university for several weeks.

Mrs. Juliet Marx, New York City, will arrive Monday to visit her two sisters, Mrs. Sig Masur and Mrs. Evelyn Reims.

Robertson-Ziegler Marriage Is Performed At First Baptist Church Here

Church Is Beautifully Decorated For Rites

Bride Is Given Away By Brother-In-Law; Reception Held Before Couple Leaves On Honeymoon

When Miss Jeannette Ziegler, daughter of Mrs. John Curtis Ziegler, walked down the aisle of the First Baptist Church, Saturday evening, to become the bride of Mr. Jackson Ramsey Robertson, she wore a distinctive costume suit of navy blue triple sheer, with a flattering poke bonnet of navy blue straw, with shoulder length navy blue veil, blue gabardine slippers, white gloves and a corsage of white gardenias. For something old and for sentimental reasons she wore the handsome antique gold necklace which was worn by Mr. Robertson's maternal grandmother on her wedding day.

The bride was given away by her brother-in-law, Mr. Shelby C. Her attendant was her sister, Mrs. Shelby C. She wore a dusty rose model with short Eton jacket and accessories of the same color. A corsage of Wedgwood blue iris struck a note of harmonious color.

Mr. Robert Bruce Robertson, Sr., the bridegroom's father, served in the capacity of best man.

The church was beautifully decorated with candlelight creating a cathedral atmosphere. Garden baskets overflowing with bridal wreath and white iris were grouped in a semicircle, forming a lovely setting for the wedding party.

While the guests were being seated, the bride's sister, Mrs. B. D. Albritton, rendered an impressive pre-nuptial organ concert and accompanied the soloists, Mrs. T. Bryan Pugh, III, who sang "At Dawning," and Mrs. Clyde Sanders, who sang "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms."

Rev. L. T. Hastings, pastor of the First Baptist Church, performed the ceremony.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception for members of the family and a few intimate friends was held in the reception suite of the church. The cutting of the wedding cake and the serving of confections took place before the bride and bridegroom departed on their honeymoon. Mrs. Ziegler, the bride's mother, received in a pastel blue, lace-trimmed model, and Mrs. Robertson, the bridegroom's mother wore a black triple sheer model.

The bride, one of Monroe's most charming young girls, is a graduate of the Ouachita Parish High school and attended Northeast Junior College. She served as president of the Musical Arts club and was an active member of the Young Business Women's club.

Mr. Robertson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Robertson, of Louisville, Ky., is a graduate of the University of Louisville, where he obtained his A. B. and L.L.B. degrees. He is a licensed attorney in Kentucky but for the past few years has been associated with KMLB in Monroe. He is a member of Sigma Nu social fraternity.

Mr. and Mrs. Robertson will make their future home in Louisville, where Mr. Robertson will be in charge

Mrs. Charles Bennett Is Host To Opera Club

Mrs. John Best Gives Brief Sketch Of Life Of Noted Russian Composer

Mrs. Charles Bennett entertained the Opera club on Thursday morning in her home on Erin avenue. The president, Mrs. C. W. Oseland, presided. Following a brief business session, a most interesting program was presented by Mrs. John Best and Mrs. B. B. Martin.

Mrs. Best gave a brief sketch of the life of Rimsky-Korsakoff and "The Story of Sadko," as follows:

"Rimsky-Korsakoff, a Russian composer, was born at Tikhvin, Novgorod, March 6, 1844. Both of his parents were capable musicians, and the boy showed early signs of musical aptitude. In 1868 he settled in the capital and devoted himself to the piano and composition. He contracted a lasting friendship with Moussorgsky, which was mutually helpful. His first opera to be produced was "The Maid of Pskov" (1873); followed by "A Night in May," "The Snow Maiden," "Mlada," "Christmas Eve Revels," "Servilia," "Sadko," and "The Golden Cockerel." He also wrote various suites and pieces for the orchestra. He was named as an orchestra leader and director of opera in Russia. He died near Petrograd, June 8, 1908.

"Sadko," a legendary opera in seven scenes, was first produced at the Private Opera House, Moscow, December 26, 1897, and in New York, at the Metropolitan Opera House, season of 1929-1930.

"In the first scene, the Guild Hall of Novgorod, while the merchant princes make merry they ask the guild player, Nejatka, to entertain them. He sings of the old heroic days and they vigorously applaud. Sadko, a minstrel, is then asked to sing. But in his song he belittles the city and its trade, much to their disgust.

"In the second scene, Sadko wanders along the shores of Lake Ilmen. As he sings of his unhappy lot, some swans swim ashore and change into maidens: one being Volkova, daughter of the king of the ocean. She tells him that he will catch three golden fish and journey far.

"In the third scene, Sadko has returned to his home, a humble cottage. It is dawn, and his wife, Lubava, greets him; but he casts her from him. The sound of an early bell for mass reminds him that he must see the people and tell them his strange tale.

"The fourth scene shows the port. The villagers laugh at Sadko and his golden fish story. But sure enough he does catch such a fish, and with it a wager giving him the entire merchant fleet. He plans to go on a voyage and here are heard some of the gems of this opera. Three foreign traders tell of their land, in "The Song of the Viking Guest," "The Song of India," and "The Song of the Venetian Guest."

"In scene five we are carried forward twelve years and find ourselves on board Sadko's ship, the Falcon. He has amassed wealth. But now Volkova claims him and he is carried into the sea. His aria is notable. "Scene six is a fantasy in the palace of the ocean king, with wild dance music and a lovely slumber song by the queen. Sadko is finally released and allowed to return to mortals.

"In the last scene, Volkova bids him farewell on the lake's shores where she first met him. His faithful wife greets him again, and all the past seems like a dream. Yet it must be reality, for his fleet sails home with riches aboard. The people surround him with songs of welcome."

Mrs. Oseland sang "Song of India." A round table discussion was held by Mrs. B. B. Martin. Refreshments were served to the following guests: Mrs. J. T. Pugh, Mrs. Curtis Seamon, and Mrs. C. C. North; and members, Mrs. John Best, Mrs. P. A. Colvin, Miss Clara Friberg, Mrs. V. S. Garret, Mrs. E. C. Gibson, Mrs. J. C. Kramer, Mrs. B. B. Martin, Mrs. C. W. Oseland, Mrs. C. R. Pedigo, Mrs. P. A. Poag, Mrs. C. R. Tidwell, Mrs. R. O. Ware, and Mrs. E. R. Whitaker.

Department of Labor, and to attend the Round Table Conference of the American Public Welfare association. The increase of A. A. U. W. branches participating in the social studies program from 220 in 1937 to 480 in 1940 attests to the effectiveness of the materials and guidance offered by Dr. Franklin at headquarters. She prepares study kits in many fields and carries on a substantial correspondence with social studies chairmen in states and branches.

Bono Nostrorum Club Of Mangham Meets

Members of Bono Nostrorum club of Mangham were privileged to have as their guest speaker at their April meeting, Miss Blanche Miller of Rayville, supervisor of public schools of Richland parish. Miss Miller spoke on "Citizenship," using as her subject "Strengthening Civic Loyalties."

She spoke convincingly of the extreme importance of taking advantage of the "opportunity that is ours now, to work, so that those immortal words from the Declaration of Independence, life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness," continue to be the right of every American citizen, not just a meaningless phrase. She said, "The future of our country depends upon education of our youth that the youth will be able to evaluate the various influences for good from the bad of our press, radio, movies and other sources of information. The school should play an important part in developing standards and ideals by which to live." She emphasized the importance of the right of franchise and the duty of every American citizen to regard the right not only as a privilege but as a duty to be used to exercise their influence over their government for good.

Continuing her remarks, she said: "We must strengthen the church. It is the channel of truth and grace. We must not only keep the channel cleared out, but we must be alert to every opportunity to widen its flow." Finally, she said, "The essence of strengthening of civil loyalty is the cultivation of a conscience, the development of each individual to place right above his own personal benefit, the encouragement of the minority to force government to do better."

Other features of the program were talks by Mrs. B. N. Nixon and Miss Ethel Watson. Mrs. Nixon's subject was "Left in England and its Leaders," and Miss Watson's, "Right in England and its Leaders." Both were interesting and informative.

The club met at this time in the home of Mrs. G. W. Humble with Mrs. B. N. Nixon, co-hostess. Mrs. E. T. Lee, president, presided over a brief business session. She gave some of the highlights of the district meeting of federated clubs held recently in Ruston.

A delightful social hour was enjoyed at which time Mrs. Humble and Mrs. Nixon served an ice course to Mrs. E. C. Harper, Mrs. Alice Watson, Mrs. W. E. Hixon, Mrs. W. W. DeLoach, Mrs. E. T. Lee, Mrs. E. E. Randall, Mrs. F. C. Sheppard, Misses Ethel Watson and Kate Talbert, Mrs. E. D. Baker. Miss Blanche Miller was a guest.

New Books Listed At Monroe Public Library

New books, to suit the varied tastes of everyone, have been arriving weekly at the library. Some of the new fiction include: "The Ship and the Shore," by Vicki Baum, "Reckon with the River," by Clark McMeekin; "Medical Center," by Faith Baldwin; "Between Two Worlds," by Upton Sinclair; "Lanterns on the Levee," by William Percy; "The Confession," by Ruby M. Ayres; "Nightfall in Viana," by Carolyn Darling; "The Blonde Died First," by Dana Chambers; "Where Beauty Dwells," by Emilie Loring and "Miss Bishop," by Bess S. Aldrich.

Interesting new non-fiction are: "Louisiana: a Guide to the State," "Best Poems of 1940," by Thomas Moul, "Exit Laughing," by Irvin S. Cobb, "All Gaul is Divided," author anonymous, "Victor Book of the Symphony," by O'Connell, "Union Now with Britain," by Clarence Strait, "Best One-Act Plays of 1940," by Margaret Mayorga, "Why Men Behave Like Apes and Vice Versa," by E. A. Hooton, and "Oracles of Nostradamus," edited by Charles A. Ward.

"Louisiana, a Guide to the State," was compiled by workers of the writer's program of the Works Projects Administration of the state, and sponsored by the Louisiana Library Commission. This is one of the most useful and valuable books of its kind. Here is Louisiana—her swamps and bayous, cane and cottonfields, people and history. Brief and interesting accounts of the history and folklore of the city or state are given, also information concerning the recreational facilities, travel routes, etc. Another popular book is "Oracles of Nostradamus." As you may have read, Nostradamus was Europe's greatest prophet who centuries ago foretold events which history has confirmed. He predicted the French Revolution, the rise of Napoleon, the first World war, the rise of dictatorship, the recent downfall of France and the invasion of Britain. In his supplement of this book he predicts the happenings of tomorrow for both England and France.

"Lanterns on the Levee" relates the rich and interesting life of a distinguished southerner of the Mississippi Delta. The book depicts the years when cotton was still king and the arrival of the river steamboat was an event, telling of southern politics, of World War I, of the Ku Klux Klan, of the great flood of '27. The charming style of the author will appeal to many readers.

"Reckon with the River," by Clark McMeekin, the author of "Show Me a Land," is a book typically American in its authentic and moving picture of those hardy adventurers who experienced dangers and hardships in order to establish a great nation. Increasingly the romance of the historical past is taking hold of the imagination of contemporary writers. Hardly a week passes without the publication of some biography or novel about a person or event of the eighteenth or nineteenth century. Recently Aaron Burr has figured in a number of these and he appears again in "Reckon with the River," the new book of the two collaborators who go under the name of Clark McMeekin.

Houston Group Gives Closing Concert Here

Civic Music Association Season Ends With Performance By Houston Symphony Orchestra

The last concert of the season presented by the Civic Music association ended in a veritable blaze of glory Thursday night at Neville auditorium when the Houston Symphony orchestra gave one of the most marvelous performances ever heard in this city.

Technically and interpretatively speaking, the concert was superb. The music reached down into the hearts of every one in the audience and stirred them as never before.

The black-clad musicians, seventy-four in number, grouped in a semicircle, and with instruments poised for the signal from the conductor, Ernst Hoffmann, presented an imposing picture. The stage, the largest in the city, was taxed for room, as considerable space was demanded for the thirty-seven violins.

The major work of the evening was Wagner's Siegfried's Rhine Journey from "Gotterdammerung." This number was presented with an impressive display of the orchestra's full power. The music unreeling with steady purity, climaxing in one mighty roll of music with every instrument giving forth magic tones. The audience responded demonstratively.

The ever popular overture to "William Tell" was rendered as a Monroe audience never before heard it. It was a thrilling demonstration of the orchestra's full power and resources with violins, cellos, flutes and basses combined in one mighty symphony.

Another number, Valse (Allegro moderato) by Tchaikowsky, was full of rhythms and harmonies, richness and sonority. Most dramatic was the last number on the evening's program, "Andante Maestoso" by Tchaikowsky. The music rose to crashing heights with every performer producing every shade and nuance of tone written into the work of the composer. The music had a subtle beauty, full of vigor and resonance that held the audience breathless. One could have heard the proverbial pin drop when the conductor waved his baton for the dramatic ending.

Several encores were given with selections from "Carmen," giving the harpist an opportunity to be heard above the thundering brasses, drums and basses. It was a melodious number, especially soothing after the thrilling finale that stirred the audience to one of the most resounding ovations ever witnessed in Civic Music association circles.

Mr. Hoffmann, the director, certainly deserves a word. He is indeed a commanding figure, although rather short of stature, and is responsible for putting zip and color into every orchestral number. He works harder than all his men put together. He dips like a swan for a legato phrase from the cellos, shakes his fist smartly for the drum roll. When the orchestra chanted out in full unison his body seemed to swell with pride and say, "the world is mine." There was no doubting the fervor and the incisiveness of this dynamic conductor.

Less than 80 years ago, tomatoes were called "love apples," and were cultivated for show, not for food.

The world's largest known copper deposit, in Chile, is estimated to contain 700,000,000 tons of ore.

An antique bowl, in the daisy and button pattern, overflowing with Wedgwood blue and yellow daisies formed the central floral note. Milk glass slippers filled with blue for-get-me-nots were placed at the four corners. The cover reserved for Mrs. Hays was marked with an exquisite corsage of yellow snapdragons and a crystal slipper filled with blue for-get-me-nots. The favors were miniature baskets overflowing with yellow and blue flowers.

The faultlessly served luncheon climaxed with delicious strawberry parfait served on antique milk glass plates.
Demi tasse was served in the living room where a conversational hour ensued.
Mrs. Harrell presented Mrs. Hays with a wedding gift at this time, a "shell and jewel" water pitcher to add to the collection.

Miss Ziegler Honored At Home Of Mrs. Ross

Mrs. R. L. Ross was hostess Thursday at a delightful coffee hour in her home on Morris avenue, honoring Miss Jeannette Ziegler, a much feted bride-elect and Mrs. E. H. Byrd, who with her husband, Dr. Byrd, have recently moved to Monroe to reside at the Riverside sanitarium where Dr. Byrd is associated with Dr. A. D. Tisdale.

Guests were greeted at the door by Mrs. Ross, who wore a becoming navy blue dress. In the receiving line were Miss Ziegler wearing a distinctive black and white model and Mrs. Byrd attractively attired in navy and white. All wore corsages of harmonizing shades.

Miss Ziegler's mother, Mrs. J. C. Ziegler, wore a lovely navy blue dress with a corsage of pastel sweet peas. The reception room was adorned with spring flowers with tulips and sweet peas of a matching shade, predominating.

An artistic arrangement of calla lilies centered the lace covered dining table, where, at either end, coffee and tea was poured from handsome silver services by Miss Beulah Doerr and Mrs. L. T. Hastings. On the spacious buffet was a duplicate arrangement of calla lilies and also a delectable assortment of sandwiches and cakes.

Assisting in the serving courtesies were Mrs. J. H. Carroll, Mrs. J. R. Kennedy, Mrs. J. Norman Coon, and Mrs. R. E. Wilson.
Mrs. Ross took this opportunity to present Miss Ziegler with a set of after dinner coffee cups in her selected pattern.
More than a hundred guests called during the appointed hours.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Miss Marie Elizabeth Perabo, whose engagement to Mr. Charles Ernest Wilds, Jr., of this city is formally announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Perabo of Tupelo, Miss.

Miss Perabo To Wed Charles Ernest Wilds

Marriage Ceremony Will Be Performed In St. Louis Latter Part Of June

Interest is centered today in the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Perabo of Tupelo, Miss., of the engagement of their daughter, Marie Elizabeth, to Charles Ernest Wilds, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Wilds of Monroe.

Miss Perabo was graduated from Maryville college of the Sacred Heart, St. Louis, Mo., last June, and since that time has made her home with her two sisters, Misses Charlotte and Carolyn Perabo, at 615 Westgate avenue in University City, Mo.

Mr. Wilds was graduated from Spring Hill college, Mobile, Ala., in 1938. He was a member of Alpha Sigma Nu, national Jesuit honorary fraternity, and Beta Beta Beta, national biological fraternity. He is now attending St. Louis University school of medicine, where he is a member of Phi Beta Psi and Sigma Phi Omega fraternities. Upon receiving his M. D. degree he will enter the medical corps of the United States army.

The marriage will take place in St. Louis the latter part of June.

Literature Club Makes At Reynolds Home

The Current Literature club met Wednesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. William Thompson. Mrs. William Whitfield, vice-president, presided during the business session. An announcement was made of the invitation extended by the Y. M. C. A. to attend a tea and open house on May 1.

Mrs. Whitfield represented the club at a meeting held on April 3, in the home of Mrs. J. E. Whitfield, chairman of the American National Red Cross Canteen Corps for Ouachita parish. She stated that plans for the organization of the first unit were discussed and that the next meeting would be held April 24. Club members were urged to attend. A report was made concerning the splendid Red Cross work accomplished by the club. Mrs. J. E. Peters, education chairman, reported that the books collected had been placed on the club's book shelf for children at the Public Library. Mrs. Mike John, Jr., international relations chairman, reminded the club that Dr. Hymena will be presented on April 24 at the Georgia Tucker school. Mrs. M. J. Carbone reviewed "China Shall Rise Again," by Madam Chiang-Kai-Shek. In her discussion of the book, Mrs. Carbone said:

"About one-third of this book is written by the attractive wife of the man who heads the government of China. The remainder comes from the pens of cabinet ministers. The whole is a unique presentation of what the government of China was before the Japanese invasion drove it into the west, what it now wants westerners to believe that it is, and what it plans to become. While the volume cannot be ignored by anybody who wants to learn what is going on in 'Free China' it is patently a piece of official propaganda, put out in the interest of a cause for which there is universal sympathy. ## Jonesville

The Junior Girls auxiliary met at the Baptist church recently for the regular weekly meeting. Six members were present. Mrs. Ralph Webber taught the lesson from the G. A. manual. All junior girls between the ages of 9 and 12 were invited to join the G. A.

The Jonesville Woman's club met in the home of Mrs. John Guss, with Mrs. Leon Kirby and Mrs. Nellie Dayton as co-hostesses.

The meeting was opened with a prayer by Mrs. H. D. Haberyan. During the business session two new members were elected to the club. Mrs. Barney Atkins and Mrs. Russell McMillin.

Miss Faye Roark, home demonstration agent, was the guest speaker of the afternoon. Her subject was "Financial Security in the Home." Everyone enjoyed the talk very much and learned new ideas about getting the most value for the dollar. Miss Roark stressed teaching children the value of money, and many ideas about the budgeting of the family income were given.

Mrs. B. G. Trunzler read an article on "Sudden Death in the Home."

After the program attention was called to the beautiful display of antiques on the table. Many lovely vases, fruit bowls, and lovely hand-painted dishes dating back to 1830 were shown.

Delicious refreshments were enjoyed during the social hour by the following: Miss Roark, Mrs. Jack Wyatt, Mrs. Virgil Purvis, Mrs. B. G. Trunzler, Mrs. R. B. Fritz, Mrs. Ethel Snyder, Mrs. Hubert Owen, Mrs. Nellie Dayton, Mrs. H. D. Haberyan, Mrs. O. V. Hooker, Mrs. C. E. Elkins, Mrs. Betty Adams, Mrs. Fred Shiel, Mrs. C. L. Wurster, Mrs. John Wurster, Mrs. Peter Douglas, Mrs. Kinney, Mrs. W. C. Stroud, Miss Owen, and Mrs. Clyde Webber.

Mr. and Mrs. Barney Atkins entertained recently with a party at the Casino Poco, celebrating their fifth wedding anniversary.

The Atkins received many lovely gifts from their friends.
Those enjoying this party were Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Boyd, Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Enete, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Farrar Marvin, Mr. and Mrs. Barney Cain, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Scott, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Stroud, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dees, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Crawford, Mr. and Mrs. Butler, Mr. and Mrs. Ray, Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Marvin, Mrs. John Wurster, Miss Martha Fleming, Wedon Smith, R. J. McMillin, Tom Pugh, J. S. Staten, Miss Marjorie Smith, Miss Sarah Young, and Mrs. C. C. Wilson, Cotton Valley.

The members of the Tuesday afternoon Bridge club were delightfully entertained recently by Mrs. Harold Dees in the home of Mrs. Barney Cain. Two tables were arranged in the living room, which was decorated with spring blossoms. The prizes were won by Mrs. Tommy Moseley, Mrs. Clifton Wilson, and Mrs. Dees.

Mrs. Dees served her guests delicious sandwiches and coffee after the games.
Mrs. C. E. Enete was hostess to the members of her bridge club in her home recently. Mrs. Tommy Moseley was winner of high score prize, Mrs. Barney Cain won second prize, and consolation was cut by Mrs. Enete.

Delightful refreshments were enjoyed at the conclusion of the games.

A delightful social event of recent date was the meeting of the Jonesville Woman's club in the home of Mrs. John Snyder. Throughout the house were numerous arrangements of spring flowers.

An interesting program on "The Child in Relation to the Home" was given by Mrs. C. L. Wurster.
After a delightful social hour, Mrs. Snyder served her guests with a delicious salad course.

Mrs. L. M. Gauthier and son, White Castle, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Farmer.
Mrs. Jack Knicy, of Baton Rouge, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Phillips.

Mrs. Reeve Lewis, St. Joseph, was the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Kirby, recently.

Misses Eula Routh and Rosemary Wurster, who are attending L. S. U., spent a week with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Wurster.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Frisbie, Leesville, were guests of Mrs. E. W. Dayton, Sr., recently.

Newellton

Miss Genevieve Carlton, who is attending Blue Mountain college, Blue Mountain, Miss., spent the spring holidays here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Carlton. She was accompanied by Jackson, Miss., by Miss Maude Rorer and Floyd Fife.

Mrs. Maude O. Muir arrived from Lake Village, Ark., where she spent several weeks with her daughter, Mrs. D. S. Farrar, to visit her daughters, Mrs. E. G. Rorer and Mrs. H. Y. Carlton.

Hugh Denson, Jr., Bobbie Kemper and Frank Lane, Vicksburg, Miss., were visitors here.

J. H. Nelson, New Orleans, was a recent guest of Mrs. H. C. Denson and Mrs. B. C. Blincoe.

Shorty Jarrell, Olla, was a recent visitor here.

SERIAL STORY DOLLARS TO DOUGHNUTS

BY EDITH ELLINGTON

CHAPTER XXVIII

"I didn't know she thought her boyfriend was a polio pony," Bee said in a low voice. "Who told you that?"

Anthony's eyes avoided hers. His lips tightened, and he answered hurriedly, "Oh, I just heard it somewhere."

But Beatrice wasn't satisfied. "Where could you possibly have heard it?" she persisted. "It isn't the sort of thing that would be mentioned in the papers. At least," she caught herself—"at least, I didn't see it in any gossip column, or anything like that."

Anthony said uncomfortably, "I don't remember where I heard it. Maybe she didn't buy him polo ponies. What earthly difference does it make to us?"

"None, of course," she lifted her coffee cup. "What time do you have to be in class?"

"Eight-thirty. We still have an hour," she leaned across the table and the fleeting uneasiness between them was gone. "Listen, Bee, I had a brainstorm today. It was so busy, kept hearing the girls saying 'I wish she'd make up her mind' and suddenly, out of the blue, I got this idea."

"What idea?"
"Well, you remember those things you said about helping customers choose the proper clothes? Today, one after another, I heard women saying, 'But I don't know if it'll go with my hat'—things like that. I never really paid a great deal of attention to the selling angle before, but since that talking-to-you gave me about customers benefiting by a salesgirl's opinion..."

"You're just trying to ring me in on this idea of yours. You're trying to give me some credit for it, beforehand, if it's good."

"No, I'm not. I'm trying to get some help from you. Because we'll both have to work on this."

"Tell me about it, quickly."

"The departments upstairs—the College Shops and Young Sophisticate and the Little Shop and even the Salon have a stylist, don't they? That sort of service comes much too high for a basement department. But suppose, Bee—here's the big idea—suppose in Budget Fashions we had ready-assembled costumes?"

"I don't mean simply displaying a hat, some gloves and a handbag together, near a dress, the way things are displayed in show windows. I mean that we could have a regular accessory section. Each item would be keyed to a dress, or to several dresses, in stock."

"Instead of a salesgirl advising the customer, as you tried to do, all sales would be co-ordinated. In other words, automatically, as a matter of policy, a salesgirl would show hat, bag, extra belts, collars—whatever it happened to be—every time she showed a dress. There could be some line about, 'Of course you're not obliged to buy these, but it does give you an idea of how much you can do with this one dress.'"

"I think it would make sales easier to close, and certainly the customer who isn't good on seeing the possibilities of a dress would find shopping easier."

He was talking rapidly and enthusiastically, his whole face animated. "From the merchandising angle, we'd turn over double or triple the accessory goods we do now. Of course, we'd have to see that items from different manufacturers were all keyed in color and style to harmonize or complement each other. We'd have to have every item fit in with every other as far as style, quality and finish go."

"And the prices, too. You can't sell a $5 hat to match a $4 dress. But all that's pure mechanics. The idea of ensembled sales, ensembled showing, ensembled fitting and an ensembled technique throughout Budget Fashions is the thing, Bee. I'm sure, if they'd let us experiment in a small way, we could prove the idea's valuable!"

"Anthony, it sounds wonderful!" She remembered all the fretful customers whom she hadn't been able to convince simply by telling them about the collars and belts that would live up to a basically good dress.

"It's so practical, too, because it's simple. You show a woman a dress. You get the hat, the belt, the collar and show her that. That's demonstration. She can see the effect for herself. Why, it's marvellous! I'm sure sales will simply soar."

"And you know what else, Anthony?" All those "busy" little numbers, with cheap clips, too many buttons, extra ruffles that give me the creeps, will go right out the window. When a girl matter how little you spend, you can look a million in Huntington's co-ordinated clothes."

"You should be writing ads," said Anthony. "There's more money in that."

"Whom do you speak to about this? The merchandise manager, or is this a matter for Bruce Sheldrake himself?"

"Sheldrake? He doesn't interest himself in stuff like this! Sheldrake manages the big money, after the sales are made. He appears at luncheons, too, of course."

"But I thought a general superintendent had his fingers on every pulse of a store."

"This is no pulse. It's only an impulse."

Beatrice wrinkled her nose at him. "Very poor, Mr. Bradley, very poor."

"The idea had taken hold of her. You must assemble some samples, first, Anthony. Telling about a thing is never as convincing as showing it, concretely." She glared at him. "And don't tell me the merchandise is rayon, not cement! For instance, tomorrow morning you should get hold of a navy blue crepe with a high neck. I noticed today. It's $3.89. Almost any accessories at all from the main floor would go with that. A chunky gold necklace, maybe a navy blue calf bag—I've seen one with a little gilt clasp that's only a dollar—"

"Gosh, Bee, you really sound as if you like the idea. Will you help me? It's right up your alley. You have such perfect taste. I might make a mess of what I picked and the whole thing would flop. You know, I'm no fashion expert."

"It's the idea of selling more things, more quickly, with more service to the customer that I dreamed up. But actual details of what particular dresses—" He spread his hands, helplessly.

Beatrice said dryly, "You have all the equipment for a first class executive. Anthok. Let the other fellow do the work. But—" her eyes shone, "I'd love to. Now you run along to school, and I'll make a tour of show windows on Fifth Avenue!"

Louisiana Educational System Is Discussed

Mrs. R. O. Ware Makes Principal Address Before Monroe Literary Club On Wednesday

The history of Louisiana's educational system was ably discussed by Mrs. R. O. Ware at the meeting of the Monroe Literary club in the home of Mrs. J. R. Roark, Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Ware said in part:

"The public schools of Louisiana are today the pride of her people. In quality, adequacy and permanency of school buildings, in qualification of high school and grade teachers, in professional training of teachers, superintendents, and supervisors, in school consolidation and transportation, in school organization and system of school laws, Louisiana compares favorably with the most advanced states in the union. In devotion of the people to public education, in educational progressiveness, and in the rapidity of development of an adequate system of public schools, Louisiana yields precedence to no other state.

"Although the public schools of Louisiana had their origin in the state constitution of 1845, public education in the state prior to 1900 was extremely limited. While there had been some forward steps, educational progress was painfully slow and the schools were woefully inadequate. The reasons for this slow development are to be found in the poverty of the people, the devastation caused by the War Between the States, the civil disturbance resulting from the era of reconstruction, and the lack of educational leadership. But for these conditions and events, the establishment and development of an adequate system of public schools would probably have been brought about several decades before 1900, when the dreary spell that had hovered over the school system began to lighten.

"Returning prosperity and an educational awakening made school progress possible. The state constitution of 1898 had authorized the levying of taxes for the maintenance and operation of the public schools, a right and a privilege not found in earlier constitutions. More able leadership soon came to the front; public opinion responded to the appeals of schoolmen and civic leaders; and by 1905 Louisiana had launched out upon an era of public school development seldom equaled by other states. The first significant step taken in developing the public schools was the professionalizing of the office of parish superintendent. Therefore, the office had paid a salary which was a mere pittance, and hence was filled ordinarily by lawyers, doctors, or small-caliber politicians. Since 1904 the state and parish superintendents have been experienced and professionally trained schoolmen.

"Then followed in rapid succession the adoption of meritorious school legislation, the organization of well-rounded parish school systems, more rigid standards of qualification for teachers, increased financial support from the state and from local taxation, the levying of special taxes for building purposes, the adoption of higher salary schedules for superintendents and teachers, the organization of high schools throughout the state, the consolidation of schools and the consequent abandonment of hundreds of one-room country schools, and the inauguration of a system of school transportation that rapidly spread throughout the state."

Miss Mary Clay, head librarian at the Northeast Junior College and a graduate with high honors from the University of Illinois Library school, was introduced by Miss Beulah Doerr to present the subject, "The Public Library System of Louisiana." Miss Clay said in part:

"Although Louisiana has had an excellent library law since 1936 which provides for the organization of parish-wide libraries, only 11 out of the 64 parishes now have official parish-wide libraries, with the Louisiana Library Commission sponsoring demonstration parish libraries during 1941 in four other parishes. The library commission with headquarters in Baton Rouge is the official state agency for the development of public libraries and is glad to render assistance to local communities in library matters. Miss Essie M. Culver, executive secretary of the Louisiana Library Commission and also president of the American Library Association, has stated that the small town library is rapidly becoming a thing of the past, its insufficient funds and inadequate service preventing its continuance. Parish or regional libraries have been selected as the most effective unit for library development in Louisiana. In the best parish libraries, residents of rural communities enjoy the same privileges and convenience of borrowing books and obtaining information as do the residents in the town of the central library. By means of branches in the other large towns in a parish and by deposit stations scattered conveniently over the entire parish in rural schools, crossroad stores, industrial plants, and other easily accessible points, books are brought to the rural and small town citizens living outside of a parish seat. This is done by book trucks which make regular routes over the entire parish, accompanied by a trained library assistant. Through these libraries-on-wheels, the book collections at various branches and stations are changed so that all of the people will have equal opportunity to examine and read a wide variety of books.

"During August, 1940, the members of the Ouachita Parish Police Jury, passed a resolution of establishment which placed the Monroe Library on a legal basis making it possible for the police jury to appropriate funds for its support and enabling the library to extend its service over the parish, according to information received from Miss Mary Harris, director of the parish and regional library division of the Louisiana Library Commission. Later in the year, the city councils of Monroe and West Monroe agreed to supply funds for this Ouachita Parish Public Library, with headquarters at the Monroe Public Library building. Support for this library which is now open to all residents of Ouachita parish is supplied each month as follows: $175 from Ouachita parish funds, $175 from city of Monroe funds, $25 from city of West Monroe funds.

"The need of expansion of the parish library system in Louisiana was vividly shown by Miss Clay in displays of charts in a bulletin, 'The Equal Chance—Books Help to Make It,' published by the American Library Association in 1936 to show the comparative ranking of states in public library service and expenditures. According to these statistical tables, Louisiana then had 80 per cent of her population outside of New Orleans without library service and spent 66 per capita for public library service. Louisiana ranks seventh from the bottom in circulation of public library books per capita with less than one book per capita while California circulates more than nine books and Massachusetts spends $1.08 per capita for public libraries. If population trends continue as in the past, by the year 1960, there will be only 30 per cent of the population under 20. The increasing proportion of older people will create additional demands upon public libraries for adult education work. Public libraries in the future will not be luxuries in public life but necessities for the benefit of privileged communities, but an indispensable institution serving rural as well as town people."

During the business session presided over by Mrs. P. E. Massey, president, reports of the officers were given. To encourage the study of "The Clubwoman" the official magazine of the General Federation of Women's clubs, interesting talks were given on topics from this magazine: "A Plea for Serenity," by Mrs. A. E. Johnston, and "Dimes for Democracy," by Mrs. Floyd Matthews.

A social hour followed and delicious ice cream and cake was served to the following members: Mrs. D. N. Barron, Mrs. A. B. Colmer, Miss Beulah Doerr, Mrs. Carey Holmes, Mrs. James Heard, Mrs. P. H. Butler, Mrs. A. E. Johnston, Mrs. P. E. Massey, Mrs. Floyd Matthews, Mrs. M. W. Montgomery, Mrs. W. L. Moore, Mrs. M. L. Padgett, Mrs. R. L. Ross, Mrs. J. R. Roark, Mrs. Paul Smith, Mrs. R. O. There is much truth in those few words---so much of importance to parents. It’s not always easy to recognize right from wrong, good from bad, much less to be able to isolate the difference and explain it. However, there are basic truths in life, and upon these a life of satisfaction and achievement is built. The church teaches these truths . . . provides a moral education to which every individual has a right . . . and everyone needs.

Attend the services of the church of your choice . . . participate in its activities . . . be a part of the influence that---as much as any other single factor---has made Monroe and West Monroe the cities they are, that has built and prospered our community life.

Naval Officer Writes Of Life In Bermuda; It's Not All A Lark

Lieutenant Commander Hugh Goodwin Tells Of His Experiences In Tropical Isle; The Scenery's Great But The Food Isn't So Palatable

Most intriguing to small city dwellers is news of young men who have left the narrow confines of their home town to carve a name for themselves and to secure a place in the seats of the mighty.

Such a person is Lieutenant Commander Hugh H. Goodwin, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Goodwin of this city, who studied the three P's at the Ouachita Parish High school. He was a young man of vision and today he is enjoying the realization of a youthful dream and finding adventure, which is the very breath of life to the average young American, around every corner.

After graduation from Annapolis, young Goodwin entered the aircraft patrol division of the United States navy. Today he is in command of the aircraft patrol on board the U. S. S. Ranger.

During the first World War Lieutenant Commander Goodwin saw service overseas. Returning home he married the beautiful and charming Eleanor Welty of San Francisco. She was born in Vienna, Austria, where her father, Dr. C. F. Welty, was specializing in medicine. Mrs. Goodwin has experienced many stormy interludes as the wife of a United States navy officer but she, equally as adventurous as her husband, accompanied him whenever the opportunity presented itself. Today she and the Goodwins' two children are residing at the family home at Coronada Beach, Calif., where she is a popular member of the navy colony.

Mrs. Goodwin visited Monroe several years ago with her distinguished husband. One remembers her as a lovely brunette with much natural grace and poise, gay and unaffected, and a brilliant conversationalist. Life abroad has given her a continental air Americans find most engaging.

Lieutenant Commander Goodwin possesses the faculty of being able to take the outside world home to his father and mother through the medium of letters. Word pictures of life as it is lived in the United States navy has enabled Mr. and Mrs. Goodwin to follow their son's career, step by step. A letter recently written from Bermuda is so illuminating, so colorful and interesting we begged permission to print it in this column for the benefit of the writer's old friends who are eager for news of him. The letter follows:

"When we made a landfall one morning in early April the island of Bermuda had little in common with the travelogue folders and the pictures we have seen in the National Geographic. A blustery northwest wind of about 30 knots had kicked up a choppy sea and sent the temperature down to the middle forties and an overcast sky prevented any sparkle of reflected light from the pastel coloring of the buildings. Careful scrutiny of the beaches failed to reveal palm trees on the sands and I concluded that the British residents possessed enough common sense to wait for sun and warmth before coming out to play.

"After passing the examination boat and picking up pilots our detachment proceeded into Murray anchorage through a rather restricted channel and moored in convoy row. Immediately upon anchoring a British launch came alongside and the American consul-general, the aide to the British commander-in-chief, the commander of the newly commissioned United States naval operating base, and two other of our naval officers came aboard. Despite the restrictions on personal honors in this time of national emergency the consul-general was accorded the full guard and band, side boys, and all the ceremony to which he was entitled except the gun salute, and since he later remarked that it was the first time in his career that he had been so honored it was apparent that he had enjoyed the procedure. The admiral received the visitors in his cabin and preliminary arrangements for calls ashore, liberty, and other details of the visit were completed. Since the first part of the program was luncheon with the British commander-in-chief at Admiralty House we departed with the visiting party and after a 50-minute boat trip arrived at Admiralty Cove.

"The commander-in-chief, Vice-Admiral Sir C. E. Kennedy-Purvis, K. C. B., D. S. O., was waiting on the dock to receive the party which consisted of Rear-Admiral A. B. Cook, Rear Admiral R. C. Griffin, Captain A. E. Montgomery, and Lieutenant Commander Goodwin, from the visiting naval vessels. Vice-Admiral Kennedy-Purvis was a large, bluff six-footer and fitted to character of a British sea-dog in every detail. His manner was hearty and friendly and his knowledge and appreciation of the United States navy was based on sound knowledge acquired in the last war when he was intimately acquainted with some of our officers serving in the detachment of American vessels which comprised the sixth battle squadron of the British grand fleet in the North sea. The sheltered little cove near the dock occupied by the British admiral and a watch officer with a glass under his arm, with the background set off by the gaudily painted figurehead of an old ship-of-the-line, made an attractive picture which was all the more appealing after three days of tossing around on an Atlantic ocean ruffled by the fringes of a storm which had passed on to the north-eastward.

"A winding road led from the dock to the top of a hill from which Admiralty overlooks the harbor. Marine orderlies and messmen opened doors, relieved us of caps, coats, and gloves, and we were ushered into the spacious room of what amounted to an old English mansion. Lady Kennedy-Purvis and her niece welcomed us and led the way to a comfortable living room with a big log fire where sherry and cocktails were waiting. Most of us accepted a 'gimlet' rather than sherry, but a Scotch and soda would have been more to the point. A 'gimlet' is nothing but gin, a little water, and a dash of lime juice without ice, is not nearly so palatable as the 'gin and tonic' so often served in British messes, but after three days at sea the effect was agreeable and stimulating. After some minutes of small talk, and without a second drink, the hostess led us to luncheon.

"At table we were 14 in a room which could have easily accommodated many more, and again an open fire made its bid against the chill which still was in the air. The talk at luncheon was of small things mostly, with only casual mention of the war. The service was excellent and made the menu of clear soup, fish, chicken and meat, vegetables, and hot apple pie the more enjoyable. Sherry was served with the fish, and wine, beer or whisky with the main course. On my right was a young British naval officer who was the social aide. . . he was not too happy in the job, having been in a ship on convoy duty only four months earlier and had received his present assignment after his ship was torpedoed and sunk and he had been brought into Baltimore with other survivors. In spite of expressing his desire to be back in more active service he was putting his best into the present job and hoping for something more exciting in the near future.

"After luncheon the ladies left us to cigars and brandy and serious talk began on the subjects to be investigated during the period of our stay. As usual, Admiral Cook was at his best in discussing the problems at hand and was able to cut through a lot of meaningless talk to get the meat of what he wanted to know. Several British officers were called in to give the details of certain work upon which they were embarked and which was of interest to our admiral. During this business talk the British aide had been busy and arranged for us to call on his excellency, the governor of Bermuda.

"On leaving the dining room we passed into a large hall containing enormous marble tablets, reaching from the floor to the ceiling, bearing the names of the commanders-in-chief of British naval forces in the West Indies. The first was in the late seventeenth century and they continued down to the present incumbent. There was just another evidence of the British tenure of the island, and fitted perfectly with their policy of permanency in their colonization. The architecture and landscaping of the estates in the island attested the desire to have Bermuda, in so far as is possible, represent a transplanted portion of old England. The houses are massive, and whenever possible surrounded by grounds arranged as parks. Admiralty House and Government House in reality are country estates, and their counterparts may be found in many parts of the home country.

"Bermuda is a land relatively untouched by time. One of the first things one notices is the absence of automobiles and motor vehicles. The people of the island have resisted suggestions and efforts to 'motorize' Bermuda. . . in fact one governor resigned in 1936 because he was not permitted to have an automobile. The demands for rapid means of transportation have been increased by the needs of war, and at the present time there are four motor vehicles on the island. . . one is a garbage truck, one car for the governor, one for the army and one for the navy. Our party was accorded the honor of being transported in the admiralty car, which was driven by Lady Kennedy-Purvis' niece who is the official chauffeur of this automobile. Due to the capacity of this car, a Ford V-8 sedan, the party calling on the governor was limited to Admiral Cook, Admiral Griffin, Captain James, the commander of the United States naval operating base, and Lieutenant Commander Goodwin, aide to Admiral Cook.

"Leaving Admiralty House we drove

LIEUTENANT COMMANDER GOODWIN . . .

In the picture is seen a former Monroe man, Lieutenant-Commander Hugh Goodwin, who is now in the Bermuda islands with the United States navy, aircraft patrol, on board the battleship U. S. S. Ranger.

slowly, so as not to endanger bicyclists and carriages, over roads of crushed coral to Government House. Children left the road at our approach and stood by the side of the ditch, open mouthed and motionless, until the car had passed. At one point we saw a large collie dog approaching from ahead, warily watching the car as we came near he ran over from the road to a stone wall bordering a park, and cringed there on his belly until we were passed. Nothing could be more indicative of the absence of rapid transportation in Bermuda than the fright of this dog at the sight of an automobile.

"Government House rests upon the crest of a hill overlooking the harbor and sea to the northward. The road approaching through the grounds in many places is cut through solid coral and lends to the beauty and atmosphere of the grounds. Upon arrival under the portico covering the entrance to the house we attempted to persuade our lady chauffeur to accompany us inside, but she was very definite in stating that one did not call at Government House except by invitation, and that she would stay in the car and wait. Upon our departure the governor came out to the car and chided her at not having come in, but she was firm and proud in her knowledge of duty righteously performed.

"Upon entering Government House we were welcomed by a butler who might well have stepped out of a story book. He was even more English than Arthur Treacher who plays butlers' roles in the movies, in that his face was longer and more serious, and he wore very high waisted pinstripe trousers with a high cut white waistcoat and white tail coat. His serious mien and carriage were quite in accord with the old and dignified atmosphere of the house, and it was impossible to imagine him smiling. The butler, whose name appears to be Woodley and who enjoys the reputation of being one of the institution of Bermuda, led us to the guest book where we registered beneath the austere gaze from the portrait of the first governor of Bermuda.

"While we were registering the aide-de-camp arrived in a hurry and bustle. An attractive youngster with pink cheeks and reddish brown hair, he enjoys the rank of lieutenant in some branch of the British army, and gives the appearance of having just been given a holiday from one of the lower forms in an English public school. Despite his army rank he is in a very nondescript suit of grey flannel, which seemed a little strange until we met the governor.

"Lieutenant Giles, the A. D. C., led us down a long hall to a drawing room, where, before an open fire, we were received by his excellency the governor. Lieutenant General Sir Dennis J. C. K. Bernard, K. C. B., C. M. G., D. S. O.

"Standing before the open fire, a pipe in one hand, and clad in a pair of rumpled dark grey flannel trousers with a lighter gray, but even more disreputable, waistcoat and coat, his excellency was as British as roast beef and Yorkshire pudding. A gangling six-footer, with ruddy face, thin grey hair, and the usual military mustache of the British army officer, he was conspicuous by a scarcely healed scar on the left side of his forehead and a cross of adhesive tape on the right side. It later developed that these were not scars of battle, but the result of a spill from his bicycle. The governor has one of the three automobiles on the island but makes use of it only occasionally and then on purely official business, and at the time in question was returning from a bridge game about midnight when the 'torch' on his bicycle went out and he rode down into a ditch and hit a tree. . . 17 stitches and a sojourn in the hospital for his excellency.

"The governor was most cordial and in several ways betrayed a sense of humor that was startling at first.

He escorted us over a small portion of the grounds in the immediate vicinity of the house and showed us the view of our ships from his lawn. He spoke of the war and, just like John Bull himself, had not the slightest doubt of the outcome. He personified the British characteristics of conservative complacency and 'muddling through'. . . in reply to one question put by the commander of the United States naval operating base he drew himself up and in the most frigid and reserved tone, stated, 'I am not empowered to act for his majesty's government on this matter, and furthermore, I refuse to be rushed. . . I refuse to be rushed.'

"In anticipation of our call his excellency had a table well laid with liquors of all descriptions, and from all indications he was more anxious than any of his visitors for a spot of Scotch. We drank standing up in view of the short time available for the call and we were about to leave when the governor's sister and hostess, Mrs. Hastings-Brooke, came in from a walk and stopped for a moment to chat. With her tweeds and heavy walking shoes she brought to mind descriptions of elderly English women tramping over the countryside with their dogs at their heels, and sure enough, she had a dog with her.

"After leaving Government House we returned to Admiralty House for tea. . . good old English tea, with milk and sugar, and everyone sitting around a table laden with bread and butter, pate de foie gras, cakes and scones. It was a most pleasant half hour, with Lady Kennedy-Purvis a gracious hostess serving tea and buttering bread on the end of a loaf and then cutting off paper-thin slices with a large bread knife. She had a most attractive diamond pin, replica of the cap device worn by British naval officers. The niece, and official chauffeur, has a collection of buttons from naval officers' uniforms and was disappointed to learn that our admirals use the same type buttons as other commissioned ranks, for she had an eye on one of Admiral Cook's buttons for her collection.

"After tea we were accompanied down to the dock by the commander-in-chief, the chief of staff and aide, Lady Kennedy-Purvis, and the niece, and returned to the ship after a very satisfactory day.

"The following day liberty parties were embarked on the three destroyers and taken into the town of Hamilton for a six-hour liberty period. This afforded the officers and a limited number of the enlisted men an opportunity to see something of the island, although the lack of rapid transportation is a severe handicap in covering any sizeable area in a limited time."

The Lady Eve' Opens Today At Paramount Theater

'Sis Hopkins' has Judy Canova and Bob Crosby's band. As though these two were not enough funsters, the picture also has Charles Butterworth and Jerry Colonna. And since there must be "women" for two such delightful pranksters, there are Susan Hayward and Katherine Alexander. It plays at the Paramount theater Friday and Saturday.

Stanwyck, Fonda Star In New Hit

Barbara 'Gets Her Man' In Hilarious Screen Comedy Here

If ever a picture showed promise of being the comedy hit of the year it is Paramount's new excursion into the laugh field, "The Lady Eve," written and directed by Preston Sturges and starring Barbara Stanwyck and Henry Fonda in the chief comedy roles. Featured in the brilliant cast of the picture, which arrives today at the Paramount theater, are such always-welcome players as Charles Coburn, Eugene Pallette, William Demarest, Eric Blore, Martha O'Driscoll and Luis Alberni.

Even Hollywood, supposed to be accustomed to the unusual, was amazed at the rapid-fire pace that Sturges set when he completed three pictures in approximately a year. The remarkable thing is that they're all hits! First came "The Great McGinty," which Sturges then followed up with last season's solid comedy success, "Christmas in July." Now, he comes up with a picture, "The Lady Eve," which advance reports say is the best thing Sturges has done to date. Hollywood is already hailing Sturges as a genius at handling comedy. "The Sturges touch" is by way of becoming a real and distinguished as the vaunted "Lubitsch touch."

"The Lady Eve" is about a rich young man, an expert on snakes, a naive fellow, not very worldly, who becomes the target for a gang of slick international cardsharps, as he is returning aboard ship from an Amazonian expedition. The beautiful leader of the sharpshooters is Barbara Stanwyck, who didn't plan to let love take a hand when she marked the rich young man, Henry Fonda, as a card victim. When Fonda learns she's a double-dealer at cards, he's sure she's a double-crosser about being in love with him, and he quits her. But Barbara can't be brushed off that easily.

Posing as a titled Englishwoman, "The Lady Eve" she gains entrance into the circle of wealthy families. Ponda hobbles with, through the aid of a former confederate, Eric Blore, who presents her as his niece. Fonda allows himself to be convinced he has never seen "Lady Eve" before, and sets down her resemblance to the beautiful cardsharp as a miraculous coincidence. Although he's still in love with the clever card-lady, he marries the girl he believes to be her double, "The Lady Eve."

From this set of circumstances, Sturges has woven what advance reports agree is some of the smartest comedy in many screen seasons.

For Fonda, his role in the Sturges picture must have come like sunlight into a dark-gray scene, for his last few pictures have been rather on the grim, dramatic side. In this picture, however, Fonda slips the tether and is allowed to run riot in light, farcical comedy. He even is permitted the luxury of wearing evening clothes after being in rough denim and dungarees in films for so long. Miss Stanwyck, too, gets a chance to don some eye-opening clothes. As a matter of fact, Sturges, in one scene, says in his script, "She wears a nightgown that makes our senses reel."

There is nothing "uncertain" in the way Melvyn Douglas looks at Merle Oberon in "That Uncertain Feeling," but for "that" matter, it looks like Burgess Meredith has ideas of his own. Melvyn tries to act serious while Merle acts coy, with the result you'll have no uncertain feeling when you see "That Uncertain Feeling" on the Paramount screen Wednesday and Thursday.

FLOWERS' MEMORIAL FUNDS ARE RECEIVED

Donations are being received for the "Daddy" Flowers memorial chapel that is proposed for erection on the grounds of the Louisiana Baptist Children's home, where Mr. Flowers was superintendent for many years up to the time of his death.

The goal set for the building is $30,000, and the final offerings will be received in Baptist churches of the state on Mothers' day, May 11.

This project has been underway for several years and already there is a considerable sum allocated to the building fund.

The chapel, as planned, will be sufficiently large to permit offices for the administration staff at the institution, Superintendent T. W. Gayer said yesterday.

YOUNG HENINGER IS NAMED HONOR STUDENT

Simon K. Heninger, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. S. K. Heninger, Sr., 1312 North Third street, freshman at Tulane university college of arts and sciences, has been named to the honor roll of the college for the first semester of the 1940-1941 session, Dean Marten Ten Hoer, of the college, announced yesterday.

Placement on the roll indicates that the student has attained an average of "B" or better.

Oklahoma produced poultry products worth $25,000,000 in 1940.

COLLEGE WILL FEATURE MUSIC

Will Play Important Role in Decennial Program Here

During the tenth anniversary celebration of Northeast Junior College this week, the music department will play an important role. Students are planning to participate in programs given in the College auditorium throughout the week.

Tuesday night at 8 o'clock, Miss Jo Hazel Collins and Miss Marjorie McDonald, pianists, and Miss Julia Judd, soprano, will be presented in recital. The regular college radio program, given Wednesday from 11:15 to 1:30 p. m. over KMLB, will comprise music from the local college.

A band concert under the direction of Harry Lemert, will be the big attraction Thursday night at 8 o'clock.

On the final program Friday night, a real musical treat is in store for guests of the college. Selections from the band will comprise the first part of the program, while numbers from both the Women's and Men's Glee clubs, directed by Dallas Goss, also will be featured. Miss Elbertine Moore and Floyd Kennedy, instructor in piano at the college, are accompanists for the Glee clubs. The program will be broadcast over KMLB, according to Roger C. Frisbie, head of the music department.

HONOR STUDENTS NAMED

TALLULAH, La., April 19.—(Special)—The first ten honor graduates of the Tallulah high school for the 1940-41 session have been named as follows: Samuel Moore, Burney Long, Alice Gilbert, Juanita Ferguson, Katherine Wilkins, Nat Thomas, Dorothy Strong, Jack Folk, Bruce LeBlanc, and Johnny Hosett.

'Great Train Robbery' Is At Capitol

Bob Steele Heads Cast In Thrilling Picture Of Train Robbery

A NEW TYPE of action drama opens at the Capitol theater today, when Republic's "The Great Train Robbery," not connected with the picture of the same title made by the Edison company in 1903, will show local thrill fans just how an entire train can be literally stolen despite the constant vigilance of line officials.

The Comanche, crack train carrying a rich shipment of gold, left Varneyville station under suspicious circumstances when Kay Stevens, entertainer in Duke Logan's night club, dashed aboard the moving train. Pierce, chief of railroad detectives, ordered the train to be stopped at Broken Bow.

Pierce's suspicions are based on the fact that young Tom Logan, newly appointed railroad detective, is a brother of Duke Logan, known to be a crook, and the son of Big Bill Logan who was killed while staging a hold-up. Young Tom and his brother Duke are both in love with Kay, but she has spurned Duke's love in turning her affections toward Tom—a fact which has made Duke insanely jealous of his brother. When Kay learns that Duke is plotting to hold up the Comanche, she flies to warn Tom, who is already aboard the train as it pulls out of the Varneyville station, thus arousing the suspicion of Pierce and causing him to order the train stopped at Broken Bow.

The train ignores the stop signal at Broken Bow, speeding through the town without stopping; and a mile out of town, the train is held up, the occupants turned loose, and the train itself whisked away, manned by the outlaws.

Somewhere between Broken Bow and Canyon City the train apparently leaves its spurs, one track road and vanishes into the void!

Included in the cast of action stars who depict this absorbing drama of the roads are Bob Steele, Milburn Stone, Claire Carleton, Helen MacKellar, Monte Blue, Hal Taliferro, Guy Usher, Si Jenks and Lew Kelly.

The first dynamo ever constructed was that made by Michael Faraday in 1831.

"The Great Train Robbery," starring Bob Steele, will remind movie fans of the Edison picture made in 1903, although there is no connection. Here is a trainload of action and thrills which highlight the most amazing crime ever conceived, and you can enjoy this mystery picture today and Monday at the Capitol theater.

"Adam Had Four Sons," starring Ingrid Bergman and Warner Baxter, is a story that you will want to see. Just ask those movie fans who saw it at the Paramount. It is an unusual picture, true to life, and with the ending that makes everyone feel better and happy. Playing Thursday at the Capitol theater.

John Howard, Ellen Drew, Barbara Jo Allen and Basil Rathbone are grouped around a metronome as tense seconds tick off in a scene from "The Mad Doctor," new murder drama which plays Friday at the Capitol.

The Saint dares death to solve the mystery of a triple killing and save a girl's fortune in "The Saint in Palm Springs," which plays Tuesday at the Capitol theater. George Sanders and Wendy Barrie are co-starring, with Paul Guilfoyle, Jonathan Hale and Linda Hayes in the strong supporting cast.

Cesar Romero, as "The Cisco Kid" thrills movie audiences with his gay, gallant "Romance of the Rio Grande," playing Wednesday at the Capitol theater. The Cisco Kid plays a double role and both of himself fall in love with Lynne Roberts, although Patricia Morrison was willing, but Ricardo Cortez says: not not!

PLAN ELECTION BY CIVIC GROUP

Nominating Committee Of Social Agencies Is Appointed

A nominating committee was named Friday by the Council of Social Agencies to present at the next meeting of the monthly meeting held in the First Methodist church annex, Friday noon. The committee is composed of the following: Mrs. J. B. Kugler, Walter Crofton, Major C. V. Hammer, W. B. Swayze, and Mrs. A. M. Thornton.

They are to nominate a president, vice-president, and secretary for the council; two members of the executive board; and two members to the community chest executive board.

A motion was made and carried that the Louisiana Conference of Social Welfare, which meets in New Orleans, April 30 to May 3, be invited to meet in Monroe in 1942.

Announcement was made that Miss Mary Mullis, community chest secretary, will attend the regional convention of the community chests in Dallas, Tex.

With the president, Charles M. Mitchell, presiding, a round-table discussion was held. The following guests were introduced: Rev. T. W. Gayer, superintendent of the Louisiana Baptist Children's home; Kurt Thies, local director of the state welfare department; Ed Crowley, president of the new Exchange club; and Miss Eleanor Tatum, local newspaper woman.

A survey of recreational facilities and leisure time programs was given. Mrs. J. B. Landreaux told of the part the WPA is playing in recreation. She stated that a pre-school playground in Monroe is maintained for colored children, and that 87 children are cared for.

A community center and play center is maintained in West Monroe for adults and children. A community center is also maintained in Sterling, she said.

Joseph Jones stated that children who get in conflict with the law are invariably those who have never participated in organized recreation and who have never had opportunity to spend their leisure time in a wholesome manner. He emphasized the importance of establishing an adult recreation center in Monroe where family life, citizenship, and public affairs are emphasized and where there is an appeal made to aid those who are newly naturalized. He said that there is such a place maintained in Shreveport.

Miss Katie McGee told how churches are providing for child recreation.

Miss Bess Sharp spoke on the Y. W. C. A. recreational program and said that one of the objects of the programs is the developing of leadership.

President Mitchell closed the meeting with the statement that only as we provide for the children of today, can we be assured of the future of our country.

FORESTRY TALK SET AT RUSTON

Services Clubs To Hold Joint Meeting To Hear Dr.
H. N. Wheeler

RUSTON, La., April 19.—(Special)—Members of the Kiwanis and Lions clubs of Ruston will meet jointly at the Ruston high school cafeteria Monday night at 7 o'clock for a program featuring an address by Dr. H. N. Wheeler, chief lecturer of the United States forest service.

The occasion will be the regular meeting of the Lions club, which is sponsoring the lecture. Others besides the Kiwanians are invited to attend. The Lions club president, C. E. Barham, has requested that those planning to attend notify him in advance so that reservations may be made.

Dr. Wheeler spoke on forestry in the Louisiana Tech auditorium about two years ago, in connection with a series of programs dealing with the general topic of conservation of natural resources. He uses colored slides to illustrate his talks.

For 15 years, Dr. Wheeler was a ranger and supervisor of national forests in Colorado and California. He was in charge of public relations in the regional forestry office at Denver for four years. He has been lecturing on forestry since 1912, appearing in all states of the Union, in Canada and Hawaii.

Before entering forestry work, Dr. Wheeler taught in rural schools. He received the B. A. degree from Milton college in Wisconsin in 1897, the M. A. from the University of Colorado in 1902, and the D. Sc. degree from Milton college in 1932.

PEGGIE JEAN DUCKER

FERRIDAY, La., April 19.—(Special)—Funeral services were held Friday morning for Peggie Jean Ducker, four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Ducker who died Thursday. Rev. Lucian Farrar conducted the rites at the residence. In addition to the parents, survivors include four brothers and four sisters.

One American company produced 224,850,921 pounds of copper during 1939.

There are about 100 disabling injuries for every accidental death.

Winnsboro

Mrs. N. E. McElwee spent the week-end in Alexandria.

Miss Louise Reed, Lake Providence, and Miss Ann Wyly spent a recent week-end in Monroe.

Mr. and Mrs. William Marioneaux, Alexandria, were recent visitors in Winnsboro.

Miss Mildred Grayson spent a week-end at her home in Grayson.

Mr. and Mrs. Mike Bell, Mangham, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Elzey.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Barnes, Collins, Miss., visited their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Barnes, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. George D. McKnight and son, George Tipp, spent a week-end in Jonesboro with friends.

Miss Virginia Pearman visited friends in Waterproof recently. While there, she attended the Natchez Pilgrimage ball.

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Peel and Miss Bertie Hutton, Liddieville, and Miss Roxie Killian visited in Lake Charles recently. Other points of interest visited were Lafayette, New Iberia, Jungle Gardens at Avery Island and the Evangeline Park at St. Martinville.

Mrs. M. L. Guice and children spent a week-end in Oak Ridge with Mrs. Guice's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Mott.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lofton and their two small sons, Bobby Wayne and Donald Edward, visited Mr. Lofton's mother, Mrs. Kate Lofton, recently.

Mrs. Kate Lofton and daughter, Orea, had as recent guests Mr. and Mrs. Willie D. Lofton, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Harris, DeRidder; Mr. and Mrs. Marion Shelton, Gilbert; Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Wells and son, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Williams and children, and Mr. and Mrs. Yveline Cuney, Winnsboro; and Mr. Howard Tisdale, Monroe.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hair and sons visited in West Monroe with Dr. and Mrs. C. C. Fryant.

Mrs. Aubrey Scott and son, George Mack, and Mrs. Aubrey Corbitt, met Katherine and Kathleen Scott in Winnfield for a week-end visit. They were joined by Mr. Scott and Mr. Corbitt.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman McConnell and Billy Adams, Alexandria, were week-end guests of Mrs. Kate Lowry.

A large and beautiful American flag has been presented to the Winnsboro High school band by the American Legion Auxiliary. A sturdy and smoothly-polished flag staff was presented by the American Legion. This is the first flag that the local band can call their own, and will be used principally for parades. It is hoped that it will be possible to obtain a band banner with the name of the band in large letters to complete their parade equipment.

A social event of interest was the recent play in the Methodist Church basement. Night games for all ages were planned and directed by Mrs. T. W. Stodghill, Mrs. N. E. McElwee, Misses Zelma Berry, Emily Belle Platt, Eleanor Ruth Jones, Mary Virginia Harkey, and Velma Nelson. The refreshment committee, Mrs. E. Fay Walter, Mrs. C. W. Berry and Mrs. J. C. Register served chicken salad sandwiches, cookies and punch to the sixty adults and children who participated in the evening's fun.

Circle one, Woman's Society of Christian Service, met recently at the Methodist church. After singing "Something For Thee," Mrs. F. H. Bradshaw gave an inspirational and stimulating devotional on "The Call to Christian Service." Mrs. Berry reviewed some of the work of the new organization as described in "The Methodist Woman."

Mrs. E. Fay Walter led a discussion on the topic "If Home Missions and Christian Education Advance." Mrs. R. R. Taliaferro led the group in prayer, followed by the benediction. After the program, a brief social hour was enjoyed with refreshments being served by the hostesses, Mrs. E. Fay Walter and Mrs. O. L. Tucker.

Miss Helen Pott entertained a group of intimate friends at Laplace camp on Lake Bruin. The guests included Mary Lou Porter, Earl and Jackie Pott and Yvonne Godfrey, Jake Bryant, W. C. Campbell, Edwin D. Walter, Aubrey Kincaid, John Tucker and Mr. Coo.

VANISHED

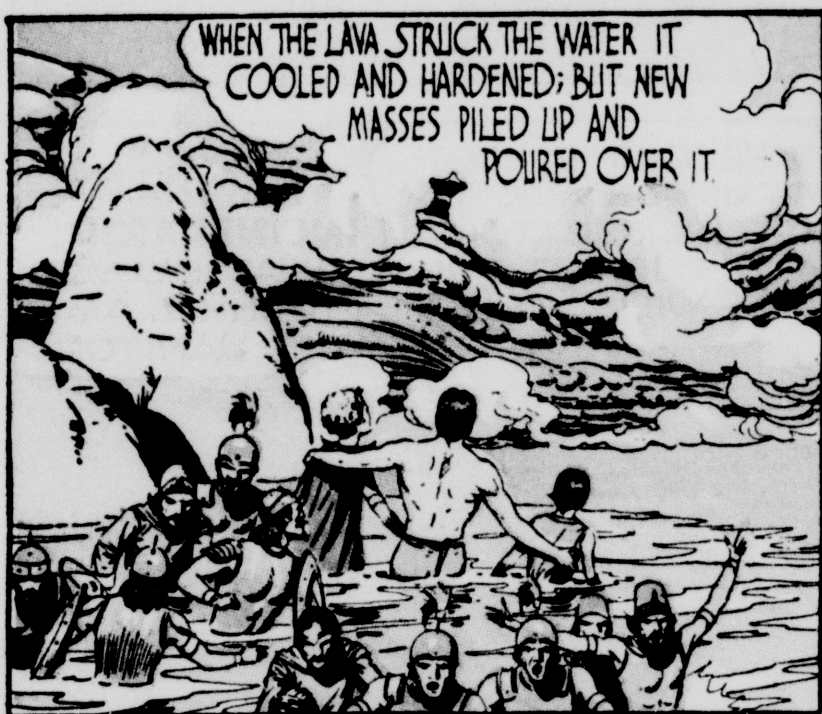

THE DEADLY LAVA FLOWED OVER THE BARRIER THAT HAD BEEN BUILT UNDER TARZAN'S COMMAND.

Copyright 1941, Edgar Rice Burroughs, Inc.—All Rights Reserved. Published by UNITED FEATURE SYNDICATE, Inc.

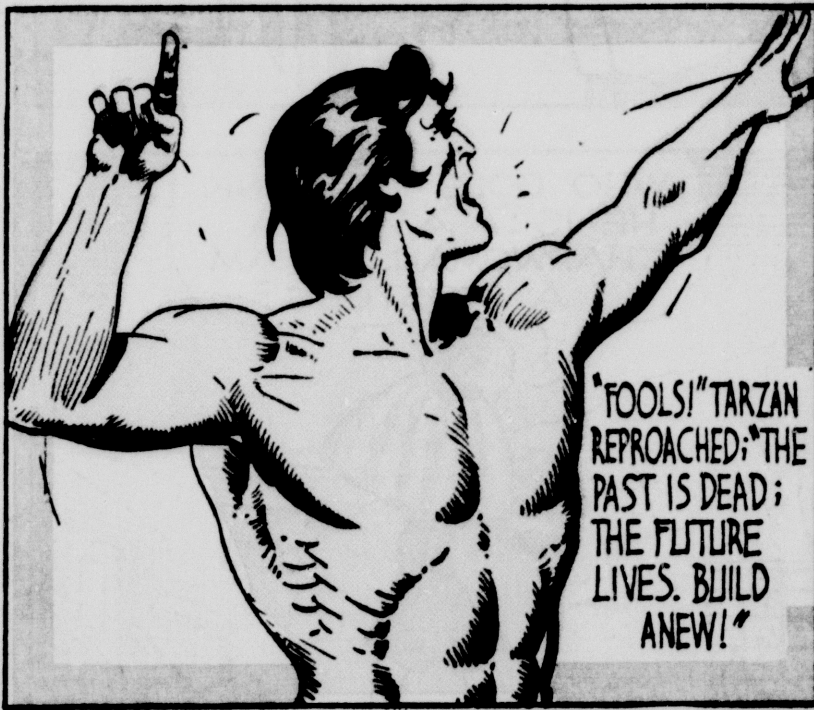

THROUGH THE WAVE-WRECKED CITY THEY FLED, DOWN INTO THE SEA.

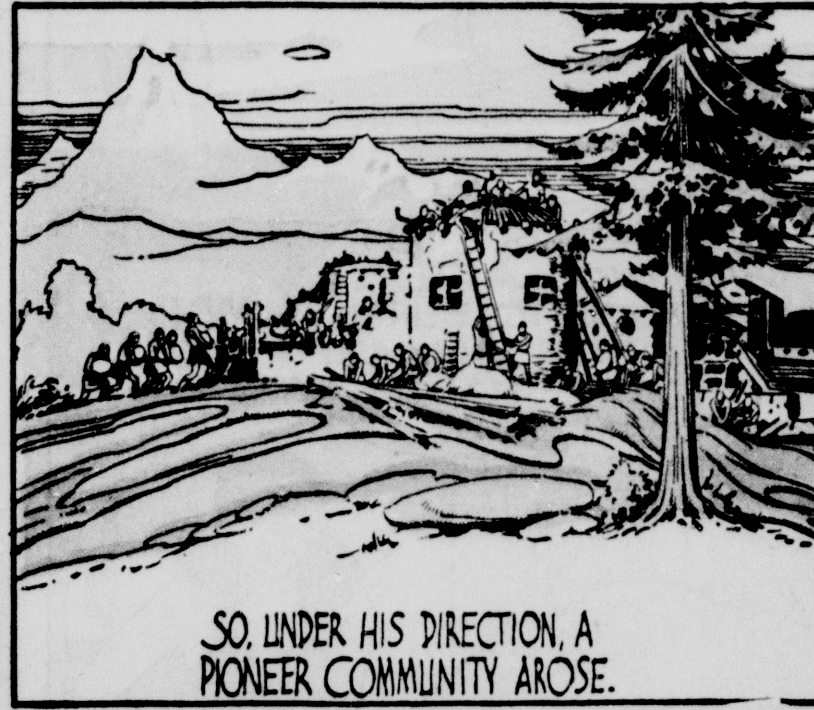

THE REFUGEES WERE PUSHED DEEPER INTO THE SEA. A FEW FEET MORE AND ALL WOULD DROWN.

BUT SUDDENLY THE FLOW OF FIERY LAVA HALTED. THE RUMBLING VOLCANO CEASED.

"FOOLS!" TARZAN REPROACHED: THE PAST IS DEAD; THE FUTURE LIVES. BUILD ANEW!

SO, UNDER HIS DIRECTION, A PIONEER COMMUNITY AROSE.

ONE DAY THE ELDERS OF THE SEA PEOPLE AND THE FIRE PEOPLE MET. ONE SAID: LET US UNITE—WITH TARZAN AS OUR KING!

BUT WHEN THEY WENT TO FIND HIM, A GREAT FEAR CAME OVER THEM. TARZAN HAD MYSTERIOUSLY DISAPPEARED! NEXT WEEK: FRANTIC WARNING

UNCLE BIM'S MAGNIFICENT GESTURE - BECAUSE HE BELIEVES THE PROOF OF ABEL BUDD'S INNOCENCE IS SOMEWHERE AMONG THE OLD PAPERS OF THE DECEASED PHOTOGRAPHER, GRAINGER LENZE, UNCLE BIM BUYS THE HOUSE AND FURNISHINGS FROM LENZE'S WIDOW AT A FANCY PRICE -

YOU SAY THE WIDOW WAS VERY HAPPY AT THE SALE PRICE - AND I CAN TAKE POSSESSION TODAY? GOOD - NOTHING MUST BE DISTURBED - ESPECIALLY THE OLD FILE CABINETS IN THE ATTIC -

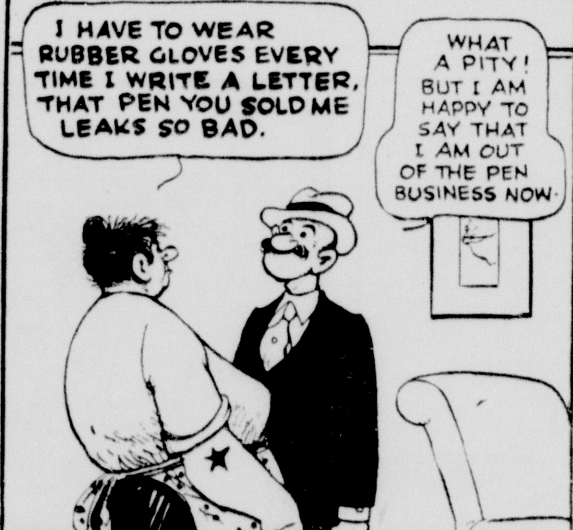

GOSH, UNCLE BIM - YOU'RE A SWELL GUY -

LEROY JUST COULDN'T WAIT TILL HE GOT HERE

LEROY, DO YOU WANT TO GO OUTSIDE AND PLAY BALL?

WANT TO -

NAW

I KNOW! - LET'S GO DOWN THE BASEMENT AND MAKE A BOAT!

BOAT? YOU CAN'T MAKE A BOAT!

NOW, FIRST OFF WE TAKE A SHORT BOARD AND SAW A POINT AT ONE END - THAT'LL BE THE PROW OF THE BOAT

A HOT BOARD THAT'LL BE

THIS IS GOING TO BE A STERN-END PADDLE-WHEEL BOAT, SO WE CUT THE OTHER END LIKE THIS...

AND THEN WE CUT SLOTS IN TWO THIN PIECES OF WOOD SO THAT WHEN THEY ARE FITTED TOGETHER THEY MAKE THE PADDLE WHEEL...

THEN WE DRIVE LITTLE NAILS ALL AROUND THE DECK AND WHEN WE WIND STRING AROUND THEM IT FORMS A RAILING

WHAT KINDA BOAT WOULD THAT BE THAT AIN'T GOT ANYTHING BUT AN OLD RAILING MADE OUTA NAILS AND STRING? THAT'S KID STUFF

WELL, WELL, WE'LL PUT THIS LITTLE BOX ON THE DECK AND PAINT DOORS AND PORTHOLES ON IT - THAT WILL MAKE THE CABIN

NOW, WE'LL CUT A HOLE IN THE CABIN AND A PENCIL WILL MAKE A PRETTY GOOD SMOKESTACK

RUBBER BANDS FURNISH THE POWER - WE'LL WIND UP THE PADDLE WHEEL NOW AND GO UP TO THE BATHROOM AND TRY IT OUT

HUMMPH! AIN'T EVEN GOT A WHISTLE ON IT!

I'LL PUT YOU ON FOR THE WHISTLE - THEN SAIL IT OVER NIAGARA FALLS!

PROBABLY THE ISLAND'S INHABITED ANYWAY. WE'LL GO EXPLORING, EACH OF US IN A DIFFERENT DIRECTION, AND MEET HERE AT SUNDOWN. OKAY

MEANWHILE, ON THE CUBAN MAINLAND, NOT FAR AWAY:

I'M AN AMERICAN NEWSPAPER REPORTER OUT OF HAVANA, SIR -

AND YOU WEEESH TO KNOW EEF THE WOLF-GIRL ACTUALLY EXISTS

HOW DID YOU GUESS?

EVERYBODY EEN PINAR DEL RIO EES TALKING ABOUT HER. FISHERMEN SAY THEY AVE SEEN A WOLF-GIRL ON GHOST ISLAND. THEY SAY SHE BARKS LIKE A DOG AND HOWLS AT THE MOON. WHAT NONSENSE! GHOST ISLAND HAS NOT BEEN INHABITED FOR FIFTEEN YEARS. THAT I KNOW

BUT THE MAN WHO LIVED THERE 15 YEARS AGO WAS A WIDOWER WITH TWO SMALL CHILDREN. SUPPOSEDLY, HE WAS LOST IN A STORM. THEN WHAT HAPPENED TO HIS CHILDREN? ISN'T IT POSSIBLE THAT ONE OF THEM SURVIVED? THAT SHE GREW UP ALONE, WILD, LIKE AN ANIMAL OF THE JUNGLE?

EES POSSIBLE, AMIGO, BUT HIGHLY IMPROBABLE. LAS' YEAR A FISHER-MAN MYSTERIOUSLY DISAPPEARED AND I, MYSELF, SEARCHED GHOST ISLAND FROM END TO END - AND FOUND NOTHING!

* THE WOLF-GIRL OF GHOST ISLAND! * OH, WELL! IT'LL MAKE A GOOD STORY EVEN IF IT DOESN'T STAND UP!

ON GHOST ISLAND SITS A GIRL LITHE AS A PANTHER, HER HAIR FLOWING WILD AND FREE

SUDDENLY HER NOSTRILS QUIVER. SHE SNIFFS THE BREEZE LIKE A DEER

ALLEY OOP

ARRIVED IN ANCIENT EGYPT THROUGH A FLUKE OF THE TIME-MACHINE, OUR HERO GREATLY IMPRESSED CLEOPATRA

SO I'M A GENERAL NOW, EH?

SECOND ONLY TO ME IN ALL EGYPT!

BUT SOON THE FICKLE QUEEN HAD CAUSE TO REGRET HER ACTION... AND SOUGHT TO DISPOSE OF ALLEY OOP

AN EXPEDITION INTO THE JUNGLE LAND YOUR HIGHNESS... THEY NEVER COME BACK

GOOD!... I WILL SO ORDER

BUT, THOUGH THE EXPEDITION WAS WIPED OUT AS PLANNED THE GENERAL CAME THROUGH.

C'MON, KEEP PUSHIN'... WE AIN'T GOT SO FAR T'GO NOW

I JUST CAN'T WAIT TO SEE CLEOPATRA... GRRA!

AND AT THIS WRITING, THE GENERAL AND HIS TWO CAPTIVES ARE MAKING THEIR WAY DOWN THE NILE

ALL RIGHT, BOYS... GIVE 'EM TH' WORKS!

VASSUH, BOSS, WE'LL WRECK TH' JOINT!

CRASH! BAM! OOF! WHAM!

YES, YOUR HIGHNESS... AND ANY HOPE YOU HAD OF EVER RULING THE JUNGLE COUNTRY WENT WITH 'EM... WHEW! WHAT A HURRICANE!

THEY'RE GONE?

I CAN'T UNDERSTAND WHAT MADE GENERAL OOP ACT LIKE THAT!

I THINK MEBBE HE GOT SORE ABOUT SOMETHING!

WELL, BOYS, HERE'S WHERE I LEAVE YOU... SORRY I CAUSED YOU ALL THAT TROUBLE, BUT THEM DOUBLE-CROSSIN' EGYPTIANS HAD TO BE TAUGHT A LESSON!

AND SO IT IS THAT SOME TIME LATER, ON THE BANKS OF THE NILE, AT SOME DISTANCE FROM THE ANCIENT EGYPTIAN CAPITAL OF ALEXANDRIA

FORGET IT, OOP! THAT WAS THE MOST FUN WE EVER HAD... AND IF YOU'RE EVER IN OUR LAND AGAIN, LOOK US UP AND WE'LL THROW A PARTY!

FAREWELL, PAL, AND DON'T WORRY ABOUT US... WE'LL BE HAPPY IF YOU GET BACK TO YOUR HOME AS EASILY AS WE'LL GET TO OURS.

WONDERFUL! OF ALL MY GENERALS, YOU ALONE HAVE BROKEN THE POWER OF MY JUNGLE ENEMIES... AND NOW THAT THEY ARE IN MY POWER...

WOTTA YA MEAN, THEY'RE IN YER POWER? PHOOEY, I ONLY BRUNG 'EM HERE FOR A LITTLE VISIT... AND ALREADY THEY'RE HOMESICK... AINTCHA, BOYS?

GENERAL OOP!!

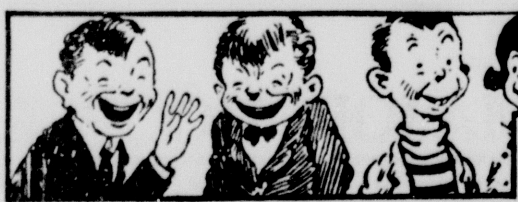

GREAT! HE HAS THE RULERS OF THE JUNGLE LAND WITH HIM!

YEAH... YA SENT ME DOWN THERE T'GIT 'EM, DIDN'T YA? WELL, I'VE BRUNG 'EM BACK!
